BATTLE RAGES IN SOLOMONS

3 Senators Assail 'Smear' on Tribune

BROOKS SAYS PURGE FOLLOWS GESTAPO MODEL

Taft, Clark Join in Denouncing Quiz.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—The Roosevelt administration was accused in the senate today of using the Gestapo methods of Hitlerism to "get THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE" and destroy freedom of the press, one of the fundamental freedoms for which millions of American men are fighting and preparing to fight thruout the world.

The senate attack was led by Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], who severely and eloquently condemned the proposed federal grand jury investigation of a Chicago Tribune news story concerning the battle of Midway. Sen. Brooks denounced the administration's latest assault on THE TRIBUNE as part of a concerted campaign to smear, purge, and intimidate members of congress, newspapers, and individuals who opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy before Pearl Harbor and now are demanding greater efficiency in the prosecution of the war.

Foment Disunity, He Says.

Brooks told the senate that the administration and its collaborators in the purge and smear campaign are jeopardizing the success of our war effort by dissipating our energies, dividing our efforts, and fomenting disunity.

The Illinois senator was strongly supported by Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.], son of a former President and chief justice of the United States, and Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], son of a former speaker of the house and a hero in the World war.

Altho Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky spoke for the most part in defense of the administration, he did not condone—and by implication he condemned—Attorney General Francis Biddle's advance announcement of the prospective grand jury investigation. He said he would not pass judgment on the propriety of Biddle's announcement. Barkley also refrained from any accusation of misconduct on the part of THE TRIBUNE, urging instead that judgment be withheld pending determination of the facts in the courts.

Announcement Assailed.

Sen. Taft and Sen. Clark especially condemned the justice department's advance announcement of the proposed grand jury investigation.

"As the senator himself [Barkley] pointed out," Taft said, "it is customary in the case of grand jury investigations not to announce publicly the name of the person against whom charges are being heard before the grand jury. That is proper.

"The proceedings before the grand jury are supposed to be secret, so that a man will not be 'smeared.' I do not use that expression in any special sense, but the purpose of secrecy in grand jury proceedings is to avoid an attack on the reputation of the person involved. It is even more important in time of war because the mere mention of the fact that a man is being investigated by the grand jury for aiding the enemy in time of war is itself an attack on that man's character from which he may never completely recover."

Almost Anything a Violation.

"We have passed laws so general with relation to espionage," he added, "that as a practical matter it is possible to consider almost anything as a violation of the law. Particularly in time of war when an attorney general appears before a grand jury or a petit jury and says, 'the government of the United States, whom I represent, thinks that this violates the law,' that carries with it a weight

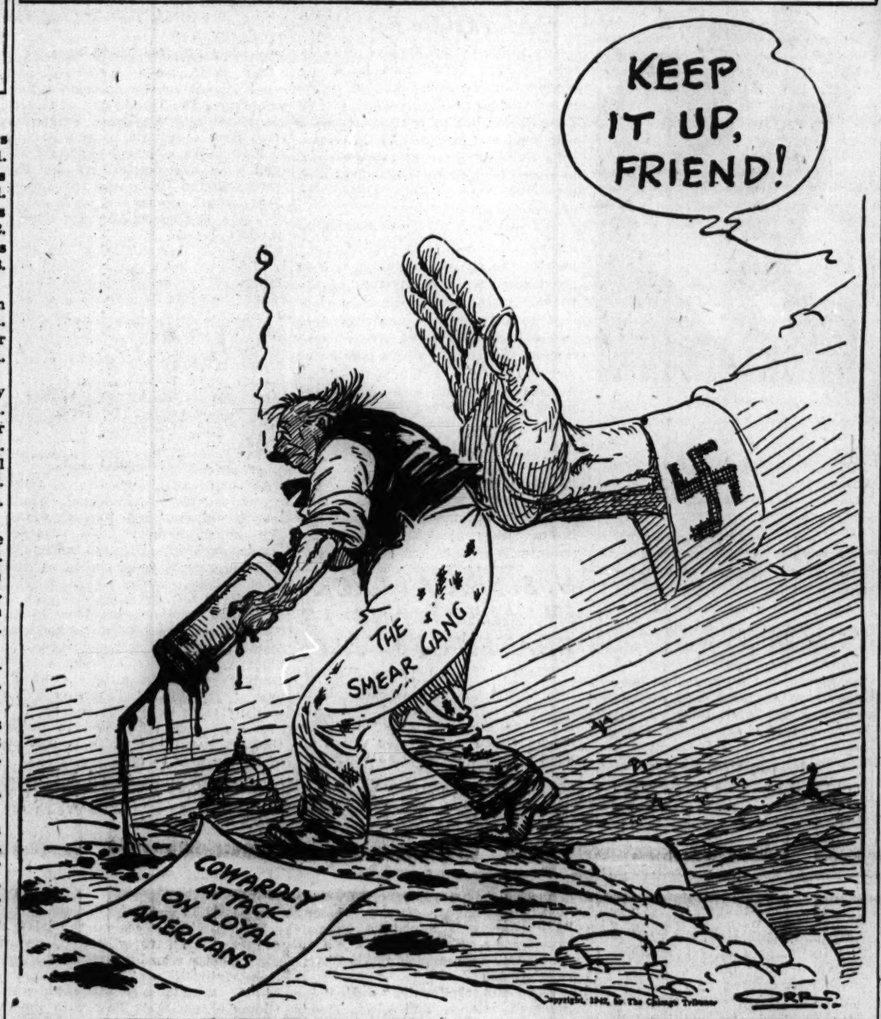
AID AND COMFORT TO THE ENEMY



CALL BLACK-OUT GRIM NECESSITY

Mayor to Outline Plans on Radio Today.

The scheduled black-out test tomorrow night in Chicago, and elsewhere in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, is not for fun but for the grim business of war protection, Ralph H. Burke, metropolitan area deputy coordinator of the Office of Civilian Defense, warned yesterday.

The black-out will start at 10 p. m. and continue to 10:30. General and specific instructions have been circulated by block defense officials and thru the press. At 8:50 o'clock this morning Mayor Kelly will speak over W-G-N and outline instructions to house and apartment dwellers.

Richest Prize in Country.

"We're not making this practice black-out for fun," said Burke. "I don't want to appear a scaremonger, but the truth is we're on borrowed time. This area is the richest prize in the country. Here is the leading steel center, and one of the largest war production areas.

"This air raid protection system must work, and the black-out will show us how far we have advanced in organizing that system."

Potential Target for Foe.

Col. B. B. Freud, acting regional director for the OCD, said that the area to be affected by tomorrow night's practice black-out is a potential target for the enemy. The area includes Chicago, Milwaukee, Wis., Detroit, Mich., and Whiting and Gary, Ind.

Otto K. Jelinek, chief of the OCD office of techniques, said three airplanes carrying 28 observers and special photographic equipment will fly over the darkened areas to report on the effectiveness of the test.

Buses, street cars, and elevated trains will stop when the black-out starts and remain stationary. Private motor cars must pull to the side of the street or road and halt and all lights must be doused. Even the lighting of a cigaret where the flame may be seen is forbidden. People are advised to stay off the streets, but if out to go to the nearest shelter.

Electrician Wins Tribune's First War Worker Award

An electrician who devised a better way of handling an important war contract is the winner of THE TRIBUNE's first War Workers' award. He is George Dabbert, employed for 26 years by the Goss Printing Press company. He will be honored for his achievement on a radio program on W-G-N at 8:30 o'clock tonight when Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will confer the award, a solid gold lapel button, on him.

Dabbert's service to the nation's war effort is the development of a short cut in the making of machines used in arsenals and elsewhere on war work. His ingenuity will make it possible to cut about 2,400 hours of work and $7,000 in cost off one Goss company war contract.

Useful in Peacetime, Too.

The saving in time and money will be proportionately greater as the contract for the machines is enlarged. Further, the principle employed by Dabbert is applicable to other war jobs and will be useful when peace returns.

The machine for which Dabbert improved the production method is called a tread miller. It is used in the manufacture of bombs, shells, fuses, and other items. At one stage of its manufacture a grinder was bolted to its frame to machine a spindle bore. This required four holes to be bored thru the frame—a long, arduous and expensive process. When the grinder was removed the four holes, with no further use, remained in the frame of the milling machine.

Dabbert was interested in the job altho the work was not in his line. He didn't like the method. Thereupon he developed a method whereby an inverted electric chuck is used to hold the grinding fixture to the frame of the war machine. A chuck is a device for holding something. It has the same job as a vise. A magnetic chuck is a chuck which does the holding thru the magnetic action of an electric current running thru it.

Moved from Job to Job.

Dabbert fastened the grinder to the magnetic chuck. So electricity instead of bolts inserted in holes drilled in the frame of the war machine will hold the driller in place. The grinder mounted on the inverted magnetic chuck can be moved from job to job.

Dabbert was born in Chicago 49 years ago. After taking a course at the Lewis institute he went to work for Goss and now is chief electrician. Married, he resides at 411 Cottage Hill avenue, Elmhurst. He has a son, Roy, in the second year of high school, and a married daughter, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, who is with her husband in Alaska.

Asked how he had developed the improvement, Dabbert said:

"The idea just came to me. The only way I can help win the war is to do my own job. I want to help in my little way to defeat our country's enemies."

On Call 24 Hours a Day.

A. J. Graf, works manager for the Goss company, is proud of Dabbert's achievement, saying it is the best suggestion for helping the war effort so far submitted to the company. He added that Dabbert is on call 24 hours a day.

Selection of Dabbert for the first of THE TRIBUNE's monthly War Workers' awards was made by an independent committee headed by Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology. The other members are Charles M. Thompson, dean of the school of commerce, University of Illinois, and James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

SON OF ADMIRAL SHERMAN JOINS COAST GUARDS

When officers examined his papers they discovered that his father was Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, formerly commanding officer of the aircraft carrier Lexington.

Young Sherman, when asked why he had chosen the coast guard, replied that he had a father in the navy and a cousin each in the marine corps and the army, and he "felt that he would like to round it out."

Discovery of ground markings for enemy bombers on the east coast sent the Illinois Civil Air patrol into an alert to discover any similar signs in this area, Robert K. Belt, wing commander, announced yesterday.

BLAME LEADERS FOR 'FALTERING' WAR OUTPUT

Co-ordinated Plan Is Urged in House.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—A special house committee today called for "immediate and drastic" revision of War Production board procedure in reporting serious shortcomings in the nation's industrial and manpower preparations for war.

Rep. John H. Tolan.

The committee said the administration's "consistent failure to realize the dimensions of our production task" is equally to blame for military reverses with the fact that the enemy had a long head start in the production of weapons.

[New Deal senators assail army and navy for old fashioned methods. Story on page 11.]

"Production is faltering badly," Rep. John H. Tolan [D., Cal.], chairman of the committee investigating national defense migration, told members in summing up the report.

Need for Integration Cited.

"Man power mobilization is and must be integrated with production mobilization. We shall never get to the stage of efficiency we need until we recognize that all of our resources must be harnessed like the operations of one tremendous industrial firm."

The report said no coördinated plan for full use of productive capacity exists in Washington.

"Our production thinking from the beginning has been and in the summer of 1942 continues to be hedged in by considerations wholly incompatible with total war, considerations which, moreover, if allowed to dominate, can result only in the gravest consequences," the report continued.

The committee said the fault lies in Washington and not with the people of the country. It added that the WPB must be reorganized in keeping with present urgent military requirements and must not continue to shift a large part of its burden to the overworked army and navy, which has enough to do with purely military procedures.

Military Goals Shift.

The military situation has changed, and planning no longer can be predicated upon goals which originally were scheduled to provision American forces for large scale land warfare in 1943, the report asserted.

The committee said there was no evidence in Washington on the part of responsible officials, civilian or military, to regard it as their job to demand maximum output "or to move heaven and earth to get it."

"Today, as bad news rolls in," the report said, "the need for enrolling all of our people and all of our resources for this fight on their own behalf becomes even more pressing."

The report criticized plans for total man power mobilization of the nation, including approximately 42 million women, until production first can be mobilized. It said emphasis should shift from piling up unused records and issuing "directives" to a closer integration of production planning and the over-all registration of available supplies of labor will then take on a practical meaning.

Plant Lag Described.

"Thousands of plants which could today be contributing to the national war effort can obtain neither contracts nor materials," the report said. "These concerns are selling their machine tools, and their workmen are migrating to the centers of concentrated war production. The case is not understated when it is said that small business is being pulverized between the millstones of civilian materials priorities and failure to obtain war contracts.

"A part of this process is directly traceable to the continued lack of any adequate plan for utilizing America's full productive capacity.

"The job ahead calls for the location of available untapped labor supplies and over-all planning for their training and placement."

The committee recommended creation of a group of officials to be known as labor utilization inspectors, operating thru the War Man Power commission and the WPB in each plant and community.

M'ARTHUR'S AIR FORCE BIG AID IN SOLOMON BATTLE

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Aug. 10.—Altho the Solomon Islands offensive is principally a naval show, the aircraft in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command is playing a highly important rôle in attacks on Jap bases off the northeastern coast of Australia.

Bomb laden allied planes launched attacks on airdromes where the enemy had concentrated his own air force in preparation for action against Vice Adm. Robert Ghormley's fleet as it neared the Solomons.

The plans, worked out several weeks ago when Ghormley conferred with MacArthur, resulted in many Jap planes being crippled the day before the action. Coöperation between MacArthur and Ghormley is said to have worked like clockwork.

Jap Planes Are Moved.

The Japanese, however, have numerous bases and plane depots thruout the Netherlands East Indies, and probably are able to move additional aircraft into the operational area very quickly.

Lae and Salamaua are said to be nearly empty of enemy aircraft as the result of transfer of equipment to bases farther south. This was shown by aerial reconnaissance and was further borne out by the absence of raids on Port Moresby and the Australian mainland in the last 10 days.

In addition to attacking runways, allied bombers have been paying particular attention to dispersal bays, which usually have high walls on three sides to protect the planes from bomb fragments or blasts. The blast from a 500 pound bomb will smash all of a plane's instruments from a distance of 100 yards, airmen say.

"Trickle" Statement Confuses.

Since 2,000 pound bombs were dropped in a number of recent raids, damage to enemy aircraft parked in the vicinity of airdromes is believed to be high.

A 2,000 pound bomb will make a hole in a landing strip big enough to bury a house, but with sufficient labor this type of damage can be repaired in a matter of hours.

Launching the allied offensive on the heels of statements here that American aid amounted only to a "trickle" left the Australian public somewhat confused about the true supply picture.

Thrust Is Ghormley's.

The main thrust at the Solomons is being delivered by Ghormley's fleet and ground forces, aided by vessels from MacArthur's command. At present none of MacArthur's ground troops are involved and the action did not originate here except for air coöperation.

There is a general hope among Australians that the supply position will undergo rapid readjustment in order to build up strength in this area in case the enemy launches a heavy counteroffensive.

It was pointed out that unless Ghormley has adequate forces at his command he may have the bull by the tail, which would make it necessary to draw on this area for help.

POLLEN STARTS ANNUAL NASAL BLITZ IN CHICAGO

Chicago's hay fever season has begun. Three grains of pollen per cubic yard were counted for the 24 hours ended at noon yesterday by the Chicago Society of Allergy. The number of granules will increase daily until later in August, when the season will be at its height, according to Oren C. Durham, aerobiologist. The nasal blitz will then gradually diminish until it fizzles out in October.

"Men who had very mild cases while working in cooped up offices may find it a very different story when they are exposed to the pollen in outdoor training camps," Durham predicted.

Durham, who has made more than 100,000 observations in his 15 years' study of hay fever, estimated that approximately 4 per cent of the population suffers in varying degree from the affliction.

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will be presented a set of large scale color maps of America's far north war front—a major portion of Alaska, part of Canada, and the strategic Aleutian Islands.

MARINES LAND IN TULAGI AREA; 1 CRUISER SUNK

We're Holding Own: Premier Curtin.

BULLETIN.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 11 (Tuesday)—(AP).—"We are holding our own," Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia announced today, despite strong Japanese counterattacks in the Solomon Islands. The prime minister said he regarded United States Adm. Ernest J. King's statement in Washington yesterday as evidence that united nations' gains so far have greatly outweighed their losses.

(Pictures on pages 2 and 8; map on page 8.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—United States marines, strongly supported by warships and planes, have landed in the Solomon Islands and engaged Japanese forces in heavy fighting which "is still in progress," the navy reported today.

"The enemy has counterattacked with rapidity and vigor," the official account said.

The landings and concurrent naval attacks have been accomplished at a cost of one American cruiser sunk and two damaged, and two destroyers and one transport also damaged.

Meanwhile, allied bombers hammered again at the enemy's positions north and west of the Solomon Island action, attacking Rabaul in New Britain where the Japanese had built up one of their major bases. Near Timor, in the Dutch East Indies, the bombers hit three enemy ships, probably sinking one, a communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported.

Japanese defending forces have suffered a "large number" of planes destroyed and surface units put out of action, the navy statement said, stressing the fact that information as to both American and enemy losses was incomplete.

Text of Statement.

The statement issued by Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of all American forces, said:

"[1] Offensive operations by United States naval and other forces, looking to the occupation of islands in the Tulagi area in the southeasterly Solomon Islands, have now been under way for about three days.

"[2] The operations are under the immediate command of Vice Adm. Ghormley and under the general control of Adm. Nimitz. Certain of the forces under Gen. MacArthur are coöperating.

"To Expel the Japs."

"[3] The objective of the current operations is to expel the Japanese from the Tulagi area and to make use of that area for our own purposes. The enemy has been in process of consolidating his positions, in which his purpose has been not only to deny them to us but to use them as a base of offensive operations against our positions which cover the line of communications to Australia and New Zealand.

"[4] An initial surprise was effected and planned landings accomplished. The enemy has counterattacked with rapidity and vigor. Heavy fighting is still in progress.

"Our operating forces are employing all available communications in the conduct of the operations, so that our information is incomplete, but it appears that we have had at least one cruiser sunk and two cruisers, two destroyers, and one transport damaged.

First U. S. Offensive.

"Likewise, information as to the extent of damage inflicted on the enemy is incomplete, but includes a large number of enemy planes that have been destroyed and surface units put out of action.

"5. This operation in the Tulagi area is significant in that it marks our first assumption of the initiative and of the offensive. All of the previous operations in the Pacific, however successful, have been essentially defensive in character.

"6. It should be understood that the operation now under way is one of the most complicated and difficult in warfare. Considerable losses, such as are inherent in any offensive operation, must be expected as the price to be paid for the hard-won experience which is essential to the attainment of far-reaching results."

Land Fighting in Progress.

The broad wording of Adm. King's statement possibly meant that landings had been accomplished not only on Tulagi and nearby Florida Islands, but also on the nearby large islands of guadalcanal and Malaita.

King's statement contained the first disclosure that the Tulagi action had involved landing operations and that violent land fighting—first on a large scale between American and Japanese since the fall of Bataan—actually was in progress. Previously the United States units had been described merely as "naval and other" forces.

King did not specify the landing groups as marines, but a naval spokesman did so. The spokesman was not at first clear as to whether troops other than marines were also on hand, but later said the best information here was that marines alone were doing the job.

This is the first time American troops have engaged in amphibious actions in this war, altho it has long been said by naval officers that amphibious attack against Japan's network of island bases in the Pacific is one of the ways by which victory eventually must be achieved.

Yet amphibious warfare is regarded as the most difficult of all warfare, because of the necessity of split second coördination between land, sea, and air forces. It is a kind of warfare in which the Japanese, with their long experience in the China sea campaign, excel.

There had been indications from the very first—when the Tulagi attack was announced by the navy Saturday—that the present operation might be the start of amphibious war.

The Solomons, it is apparent, would be a logical starting point since they lie like a frontier between the allied base of Australia and its subsidiary islands on the one hand and, on the other, the Japanese mandated islands and other holdings to the north.

Revenge for Wake Defeat.

Selection of marines to drive the Japs out offered a chance for the leathernecks to avenge Wake Island. Special marine units have trained vigorously for many months to do just this sort of task, and the selection appeared entirely logical aside from the sentimental purposes to be served.

Wake was captured from a small American marine detachment in the first month of the war, but not until the Japs had lost seven ships, many planes, and probably hundreds of men.

Admiral King's statement gave no further news on the Aleution situation. The navy reported Saturday that American forces had attacked the enemy at Kiska, in the Aleutians.

Ghormley Veteran of 1918.

Adm. Robert Lee Ghormley, 58 years old, is commander of United States naval forces in the South Pacific. He is one of the navy's better known officers and has been in his present job with headquarters in New Zealand since last spring.

Before that Ghormley was special observer for the navy in London, a position to which he was assigned after completing a tour of duty as director of the vital war plans office of the office of chief of naval operations here.

Graduated from Annapolis in 1906, Ghormley had active service at sea during the World war, his principal duty being flag lieutenant of the commander of battleship force one.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, 57, is commander in chief of the United States Pacific fleet, and is responsible for naval operations extending from the Bering sea into the southernmost reaches of the Pacific. Nimitz's most recent previous operation was the battle of Midway, where he was in general control of the task forces which engaged the Japanese assault fleet.

BOMBS DESTROY 13 JAP PLANES, SMASH 3 SHIPS

MacArthur Covers Flank of Solomon Islands.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Allied bombers covering the left flank of the United States naval-marine invasion of the Solomon Islands have destroyed 13 and possibly 19 Japanese airplanes at the big enemy base of Rabaul, New Britain, in the last three days, an army spokesman said today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters did not issue any news of the Solomon action which is being directed by Vice Adm. Robert L. Ghormley, supreme commander of allied naval forces in the south Pacific area. Its reports were limited to the coöperative operations under its control—mainly the continuing attacks on Rabaul, which is northwest of the present Solomon action now in its fifth day.

Allied bombers under Gen. MacArthur's command also flew far to the northwest from the Solomon action to strike successfully at three Japanese ships off Dutch Timor. One large Japanese destroyer was hit at least three times and badly damaged; a cargo ship was left on fire after three hits; a third merchant vessel probably was sunk after suffering two hits.

Fires Visible 50 Miles.

Large fires visible for 50 miles were left at Rabaul last night, the communique said, and a Japanese bomber was destroyed. The Rabaul aidrome was a special target of the army airmen seeking to cover the naval-airmarine fighting of their comrades in the Solomons.

In ground action in New Guinea, west of the Solomons, the allies also pushed back the Japanese in the Kokoda area, 60 miles east of Port Moresby.

Of the fighting, the communique used the phrase "strongly engaged" for the first time instead of referring to patrols, an indication that the allies had sent more men across the Owen Stanley mountains to combat the Japanese.

A spokesman said there were no Australian commandos engaged in the Solomon fighting. Reports to that effect had appeared in Australian newspaper. But there were apparently some Australian naval units attached to Adm. Ghormley's forces.

The trend of battle in the north Coral sea could not be learned, since fleet radio transmitters were sealed. But it was known that the Japanese garrisons, planes and warships were contesting the United States attack with every means at their command.

Centers at 2 Islands.

The fighting appeared centered on Tulagi, probably the strongest Japanese base in the Solomons, which lie 900 miles northeast of this island continent, and on Guadalcanal island, which is one of the few in the Solomon group suitable for airfields.

The Japanese were known to have concentrated considerable land and sea forces in the region under attack, and it appeared probably that Gen. MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz decided to strike powerfully at once to erase an invasion threat against this continent.

[Japanese propaganda continued to exult about the Jap "naval victory," reiterating their wholly unconfirmed claims of sinking 22 ships, including 10 transports, and damaging heavily six others. Nichi Nichi said the Japanese navy "for weeks has been trying in vain to meet the enemy fleet in battle. The Solomon Islands victory is one of the greatest in the history of Japan."]

Observers minimized the accuracy of the Tokio broadcast claiming to have sunk or damaged a large number of United States and Australian warships and transports.

Jap Version of Battle.

"At 11:20 a. m. on Aug. 7," the broadcast said, "Japanese reconnaissance planes sighted in the Coral sea a British-American combined fleet proceeding in a northerly direction.

"Japanese bombers and torpedo planes thereupon started at once for the attack. Altho a violent storm raged at the time, the Japanese planes made low-level attacks, dropping bombs and launching torpedoes from low altitude and quite close to the ships of the enemy convoy.

"Battle Not Yet Ended."

"In spite of the violent fire of anti-aircraft guns on the enemy ships, one ship after the other was attacked and sunk by the Japanese planes.

"In the meantime enemy pursuit planes had started and violent air fights ensued, in the course of which no fewer than 41 enemy planes were shot down by Japanese planes."

DRIVE JAPS FROM SOIL OF ALASKA, DELEGATE PLEADS

Senate Group on Way

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Four members of the senate military affairs subcommittee to investigate Alaskan defense left Spokane, Wash., this morning by plane and are expected to arrive Wednesday in Fairbanks, Alaska, it was announced here today. The group included Senators A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.], Mon C. Wallgren [D., Wash.], Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.], and Harold H. Burton [D., Ohio]. They are due in Edmonton, Alberta, today and will leave there tomorrow for Fairbanks.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Delegate Anthony J. Dimond of Alaska, in a speech in the house today, called for a "first front" in the Aleutian Islands and the immediate eviction of Japanese from Alaskan territory.

"I suggest," Dimond said, "that it is the part of wisdom to bring to that front ample forces to win victory there, on our first fighting front, before we undertake the prodigious effort necessary to set up and establish and carry forward a second battle front some thousands of miles away from our shores, in another continent. The first front in the territory of Alaska demands immediate attention."

Wants Foe Driven Out.

Dimond said that possession by the Japanese of Alaskan territory gives them access to the North American continent.

"It is just as important to drive the foe from our territory as it is to keep the same enemy from occupying any part of a continent some 7,000 miles away," he said.

The United States has not yet provided enough power to drive the enemy out, Dimond said.

"Whatever forces are necessary should be used to drive the Japanese from the Aleutians and to send them reeling back, at least as far as the islands which have traditionally been theirs," he added. "It would be still better to mass a full scale force against them and take over their base at Paramushiro Island and thus give some sort of guarantee against finding the Japanese eventually at Bering strait, just 54 miles from the mainland of Alaska.

"This view ought to be in accord with high strategic considerations because it is in harmony with the plain concepts of common sense."

Estimate 25,000 Japs in Isles.

The delegate said that latest official information indicates that the Japanese still hold the islands of Attu, Agattu, and Kiska in the Aleutian chain with 10,000 men and a substantial air force. Unofficial estimates, he added, place the number of Japanese in the Aleutians at 25,000.

The Alaskan delegate also said he believed the enemy had already built an air field on Kiska. Dimond said latest navy department information was unable to give positive assurance as to whethere the Japanese have occupied the Pribilof Islands.

Dimond also called for a "really unified command of all our forces in Alaska." He said that recent announcement of such a command in the Aleutians was admirable, but was only "one of these half measures" which might give false confidence without really remedying the evil aimed at.

Stresses Need for Oil.

Citing the location of the Aleutians on the great circle route, Dimond said this route was the shortest between Seattle, Wash., and Yokohama and added, "It must be obvious that Alaska, with its Aleutian Islands, is the most vital, strategic area in this war between the United States and Japan."

Dimond emphasized the need for a plentiful supply of oil and gas in Alaska to meet military needs. He asked that drilling be started immediately in Alaska north of the arctic circle, where it is thought petroleum exists.

WAR BOND STAFF ASKS FOR MORE CARTOON PRINTS

The Illinois war savings staff of the treasury department made its second request yesterday for copies of a cartoon by Joseph Parrish of THE TRIBUNE for use in the department's war bond and stamp sales campaign. Five hundred more of the cartoons, in poster form, were immediately furnished by THE TRIBUNE, which had previously supplied 1,500.

The first posters were distributed among all the Illinois county chairmen of the savings campaign and to the campaign administrators of the various states, and a number were sent to the treasury department in Washington. Harry W. Frier, chairman of the Illinois staff's committee on public information, said that more posters were required because of the many requests being received from leaders of the drive. The Clinton county chairman asked for 100 extra posters.

The cartoon, published last Thursday, urges bond purchases because war needs may make compulsory saving necessary unless bonds are bought voluntarily in sufficient quantities.

U. S. SEA ATTACK IN ALEUTIANS IS BEATEN OFF—JAPS

TOKIO, Aug. 10 [from Japanese broadcasts] (AP).—An imperial headquarters communique today asserted that Japanese naval units "beat off a strong enemy naval force which appeared Aug. 8 in Aleutian waters."

[There was no confirmation from any source of this claim. The United States navy department announced Saturday that a naval force was attacking Kiska, one of the Aleutians where the Japanese had established a foothold.]

A Domei news agency dispatch quoting Japanese naval quarters said "the Americans aimed at what is considered a weaker link in the Japanese chain of occupied territories in the Solomons."

The "counteroffensive" against the Solomon Islands and Kiska, Domei said, was described by the same quarters as "nothing but demonstrations of guerrilla warfare aimed to soften the censure of the American people of the impotence of the American navy."

QUISLING ORDERS DISSOLUTION OF BISHOPS' COUNCIL

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 (AP).—Vidkun Quisling, leader of Norway's pro-Nazi government, struck a new blow at the country's dissident bishops today by ordering dissolution of their "provisional church council," it was stated by news dispatches from Oslo.

The council was organized at Oslo two weeks ago by religious leaders who last Easter issued a manifesto challenging the right of the government to regulate church policies.

None of the council members or religious leaders who support the revolt against German control have been arrested, it was stated, but the friction between the religious community and the government appeared to increase in intensity.

TULAGI CAPTURE WOULD GIVE U. S. NAVAL-AIR BASE

Tiny Island Has Harbor 100 Feet Deep.

The United States offensive in the Solomon Islands mainly is against Japanese-held Tulagi, which has a deep hurricane-free anchorage almost vital in Gen. MacArthur's scheme to reconquer the southwest Pacific.

Tulagi is in the southeastern Solomons, and until the Japanese arrived, it was capital of a group of ten large islands and innumerable smaller ones which stretch in a double chain 1,000 miles long.

Two-mile-long Tulagi Island and the much larger Florida Island north of it form an inner cover for Tulagi's placid 100-foot-deep harbor, where United States forces almost annihilated a Japanese invasion fleet last spring just before the big Coral sea naval battle.

Ideal Site for Naval Base.

The reoccupation of Tulagi and other islands in the Solomon group would give the United States strategic naval and air bases extending from New Caledonia toward Rabaul in New Britain. Naval experts have long seen the possibilities in the waters around Tulagi as a naval base. Near Tulagi are several other islets inclosing an expanse of water known as Port Jarvis.

The world war admiral of the fleet, Lord Jellicoe, on a visit to Tulagi, was impressed by the possibilities of the adjacent waters as a naval base and maintained that the biggest fleet could be comfortably accommodated there.

Tulagi lies at the tip of Florida Island, which is in the center of an inland sea formed by other islands of the Solomon group. The flat lands of Florida and Guadalcanal make ideal sites for air fields.

Lands on Guadalcanal.

An outer ring consists of four larger islands, Guadalcanal, Santa Isabel, Malaita, and San Cristoval. The Japanese also have occupied Guadalcanal, where United States marines apparently have landed as well as at Tulagi.

Tulagi is 890 air miles due east of the allied base of Port Moresby in New Guinea, and 1,800 miles north of Sydney, Australia. It has government offices, a wireless station, several trading companies, a hotel, and its own "Chinatown." There are no roads. Traffic is by foot and boat.

The Chinese population in peacetime exceeded the white population of 100 by four to one.

Bougainville, an island 120 by 35 miles, is in the northwestern part of the long chain of islands which are ruggedly beautiful. Thick forested volcanic mountains rise as high as 10,000 feet. The Japanese have a base also on Bougainville, one of the first established in their southward push.

Some Natives Cannibals.

The 150,000 natives on the islands are nearly all fuzzy haired, ebony black people who have resisted European civilization. Their thick mops of hair range from jet black to blonde. [Some bleach their hair with lime.] They show little interest in community life beyond small tribal units. Some of the interior bush tribes still engage in canibalism and head hunting attacks on their neighbors.

"Black birding," the white man's commercial traffic in slave labor, offset European missionary work until a decade ago. Then a system of licensed labor recruiting which protected the natives' interests was introduced.

The Solomons were named by their Spanish discoverer, Alvaro Mendana, who landed there in 1567 believing he had found the source of gold for Solomon's temple at Jerusalem. Some gold has been found, but not for profitable workings.

After Mendana's visit the islands were lost for 200 years. Then in 1768 Louis Antoine de Bougainville, a French navigator, landed. The climbing South American shrub, Bougainvillea, is named after this explorer as well as the largest of the Solomon group.

Thieves Loot Lindbergh's Home on French Island

BERLIN, Aug. 10 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—A German radio report from Paris said today the island home of Charles A. Lindbergh, off the Brittany coast of France, had been pillaged by thieves who removed even the furniture from the villa.

SEIZE JAPANESE SIGN PAINTER FOR FEDERAL INQUIRY

George Miwa, a Japanese, was arrested for investigation just before midnight last night in the Union bus depot at Roosevelt road and Wabash avenue by Policewoman Helene Jasinski of the crime prevention bureau. He is 54 years old and says he lives at 1008 Lake street.

Miss Jasinski's attention was drawn to him by a small sign he was wearing which read "Miwa—sign painter." At the Central station, Miwa said he had been in the United States 36 years and was in business at 207 North State street.

He had no alien registration card with him. Asked why he was wearing a business sign at such a late hour, Miwa said he was "looking for some sign painting business." He will be turned over to federal agents today.

REDS ADMIT NAZI DRIVE REACHES OIL OF CAUCASUS

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Powerful German armies have swept to the vicinity of Maikop, an oil city, on the northern slopes of the Caucasus mountains, the soviet communique disclosed today. The Russians are fighting a defensive battle with their backs to the Black sea.

The Red army was engaged in what appeared to be the opening phase of a defense of the vital naval base of Novorossisk, 60 miles southwest of Krasnodar, where fighting was reported. Krasnodar is about 65 miles northwest of Maikop.

Menace Naval Base.

The Germans already had a firm foothold in the Maikop region, which is 175 miles south of Rostov and which produces 7 per cent of the Russia's oil. Furthermore the German hordes were menacing the naval base—one of Russia's most important and one of the last refuges of the soviet fleet in the Black sea.

[German fighting planes and dive bombers have attacked Novorossisk, according to German sources in Berlin. The Germans said they had captured Pyatigorsk in the Caucasus foothills 170 miles southeast of Maikop.]

It was the first official disclosure by the Russians that their retreat in the face of smashes by German mechanized and air units had reached the Maikop region. The Germans claimed the capture of the city, important as a petroleum distributing center, Sunday. On the same day the Nazis reported they had taken Krasnodar.

Veer Toward Seacoast.

The Russian communique said also that heavy fighting in this region extends to Krasnodar and Armavir, 60 miles northeast of Maikop, indicating a part of the German drive was veering toward the seacoast. Another German thrust appeared to be heading into the heart of the Caucasus, to the east. [This might refer to the German claim of the capture of Pyatigorsk.]

As the Russians withdrew from the areas near the Maikop oil fields explosions resounded over the vast areas and clouds of smoke hung over the countryside, indicating the Red army had applied the torch to petroleum installations.

Other fires consumed fields of ripened grain which peasants were unable to harvest because of the swift German drive with tanks and dive bombers.

Tanks Smash Thru Lines.

Large masses of German tanks smashed thru the lines defended by the Kuban Cossacks in the Armavir section after the famous Russian horsemen and soviet planes had chopped more than 1,000 Rumanian cavalrymen to pieces.

The Russian fighting a southward German push in the Kushchevka area, 50 miles south of Rostov, have not been mentioned recently. Whether they managed to fight thru to the main Red army forces on the Kuban river slopes was not known.

The depressing news from the Caucasus was relieved somewhat by Russian reports of the vigor with which industrial Stalingrad was being defended. Stalingrad, on the Volga river, is 275 miles northeast of Maikop.

There were battles near Kotelnikovo, 95 miles southwest of the metropolis, and in the region of Kletskaya, 75 miles to the northwest.

The Germans attacked in the Voronezh area, 320 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the soviet communique said. All enemy thrusts in that region were repulsed with heavy losses.

Attack Reds on White Sea.

BERLIN Aug. 10 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The DNB news agency today quoted high command announcement that German dive bombers yesterday attacked new concentrations of Russian troops and large quantities of war materials west of Kandalaksha bight.

[Kandalaksha bight [bay] or Kandalakskaya Guba, is a northwestward, land-locked arm of the White sea. It faces northern Finland and is pointed by the town of Kandalaksha, an important station on the railway from Murmansk, arctic port of entry for supplies to Russia.]

The high command was quoted as saying that the Russians were concentrated there to launch a strong attack on German positions.

The Russians suffered heavy losses in men and materials, DNB said.

SCRATCH SHEETS ORDERED OFF ALL STANDS IN LOOP

Sale Banned as Move to Curb Gambling.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the central police station issued an order last night banning the sale of scratch sheets and racing forms from newsstands in the loop. An official of the Daily Racing Form company, one of the leading publications of race track news, promptly announced that the police captain's order would be resisted by an appeal to the courts if necessary.

Capt. Duffy said numerous critics of police activities concerning handbooks had suggested: "Watch at the newsstands and follow the persons who buy race forms and tip sheets and they will lead you to the handbooks."

His idea is to prevent the operation of handbooks, the captain explained, so he plans to bar the sale of race information to the public.

Watch All Stand Owners.

"You will instruct every newsstand owner to discontinue the sale of scratch sheets and racing forms," said Capt. Duffy in a written order to his lieutenants. "This will be the work of citizens' dress and uniformed men. The patrol sergeants will supervise this work and during their tour of duty they are to keep the stands under constant observation and see that the order is enforced.

"Every member of this command will get evidence and arrest any news merchant or man who accepts a bet of any kind. Lieutenants will impress upon their subordinates that disciplinary measures will follow if this order is not respected."

Capt. Duffy said he did not confer with Commissioner Allman or Corporation Counsel Hodes before issuing the order, and he had not taken up the matter with Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, who has jurisdiction over the issuance of permits for newsstands. The city ordinance declares that only daily newspapers published in Chicago may be sold on the stands under its control.

Claim Status of Daily.

"We are a daily newspaper," said a Racing Form official when notified of Capt. Duffy's order.

"The order is meant primarily for the tip sheets," said Capt. Duffy, "but it goes as worded and that includes racing forms. If they get a court order it will be all right with me."

Capt. Michael Naughton of Police Commissioner Allman's office also adopted a new policy in regard to handbooks. He has refused to return to them adding machines, coin separators, and other articles seized by policemen in raids.

U.S. 'SKY DRAGONS' BOMB INDO-CHINA INVASION PORT

Raid Ships and Docks at Haiphong.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 10 (AP).—Catching the Japanese completely off guard, both fighters and bombers of the United States army air force attacked the big invasion port of Haiphong, Indo-China, Sunday and got back to base without a loss, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

It was the Americans' first raid on Haiphong, and the communique took special note of the "complete lack of hostile opposition" as proving the element of surprise.

Start Big Oil Fire.

The raiders, known as "Sky Dragons," concentrated on shipping and dock facilities, scoring a direct hit on one 4,000 ton steamer, starting a big oil fire near the docks, and dropping all their bombs in the target area. Then fighters, which escorted the bombers, machine gunned the piers.

The Japanese have been using Haiphong as a port of entry for troops and supplies since September of 1940, when the Vichy régime in defeated France made the first of its "agreements" with Tokio permitting progressive occupation of the colony.

Surround Jap Held City.

Meanwhile the principal land fighting of the China campaign was being waged around the enemy occupied city of Linchwan, in central Kiangsi province, which the Chinese say they have surrounded.

Some Chinese troops were actually in the suburbs, official advices said.

U. S. SEEKS SPIES FROM JAPAN ON EXCHANGE LINER

Quiz Passengers as Ship Arrives in Brazil.

BY MAX HILL.

[Associated Press chief of bureau in Tokio from 1940 until the outbreak of the war between the United States and Japan.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 10 (AP).—United States authorities are taking elaborate precautions to insure that Japanese or axis agents are not introduced into the United States aboard the repatriation liner Gripsholm.

The strenuous effort to check the sympathies and leanings of all non-officials aboard is shown by the provision requiring passengers to list five native-born Americans who will testify to their loyalty. All passengers who are not United States citizens also are being fingerprinted and extensively questioned.

Reliable quarters said high government officials feared that the drastic sweeping up of Japan's fifth column in the United States soon after the start of the war might have resulted in an attempt to send a fresh corps of agents via the Asama Maru and Conte Verde, the liners which brought us from Japan to Portuguese East Africa where we boarded the Gripsholm.

Hear Japs Build Wood Ships.

Among the passengers were some Nisei, or United States born Japanese, and some Chinese who say they are pro-Chungking.

When we left Japan it was reported the Japanese were launching a new and rapidly expanding program of construction of wooden freighters to replace their losses in the south seas and supplement an already over-burdened merchant marine tonnage.

The program for wooden ships indicated the supply of iron and steel was not sufficient for all current needs. Yards for such ships were reported under construction in Japan and also in the Philippines.

RED-JAP DEAL HINTED

BY JOSEPH DYNAN.

[A Chicagoan who was a member of the Associated Press staff in Tokio.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 10 (AP).—Altho our contacts were restricted after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, we were able to learn that current relations between Russia and Japan may be a tremendous factor in the course of the present war.

Japanese close to the foreign office let it be understood that last April or May the Japanese informed the Russians it would be "wise" to safeguard the Japanese-Russian neutrality pact of 1941 by giving Japan control of the Kamchatka peninsula, the northern half of Sakhalin Island with its oil and coal deposits, and the maritime province which leads down to Vladivostok.

These things, however, may have been told us to weaken our morale.

Our informants said that the Russians virtually agreed to give away Kamchatka and the northern half of Sakhalin, but flatly refused to give up Vladivostok and insisted that the territories ceded should not change hands until after the war.

COL. MACNIDER, 104 OTHER OFFICERS ARE DUE FOR PROMOTION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 [Special].—Col. Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., several times decorated for bravery in the last war and subsequently assistant secretary of war, United States minister to Canada, national commander of the American Legion, and once a leader in the America First group, was nominated to be a brigadier general by President Roosevelt today.

EDDY'S RISE SWIFT.

Promotion of Brig Gen. Manton Sprague Eddy of Chicago to major general by President Roosevelt yesterday, marked one of the war's swiftest rises to high rank in the army.

Maj. Gen. Eddy.

Just a year ago he was a lieutenant colonel. Last September he was promoted to full colonel. Five months ago he was elevated to brigadier general. Now, as major general, he is in full command of the 9th infantry division at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Gen. Eddy was born in Chicago 50 years ago. He entered the army in 1916, fought in France in 1917-'18, and was wounded twice in battle. He has a wife and a daughter. His mother, Mrs. George Eddy, lives in Evanston and near Oshkosh, Wis. He has three brothers, J. E. NEW RIOTS FLARE IN INDIA; POLICE FIRE ON CROWDS

Bombay Trains Stoned; All Business Suspended.

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 10 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi's zealots defied police bullets time after time in Bombay and elsewhere today, rioting and striking in prolonged response to the All-India Congress campaign of mass civil disobedience designed to drive the British from India.

The frail generalissimo of the passive resistance drive remained in such close custody tonight that he was reported deprived of newspapers, the radio, friends, and the right to write letters. A few congress leaders who were not yet jailed expressed the opinion that such tratment—far more drastic than any in the peacetime past—might cause Gandhi to start another fast to the death.

Followers Get Instructions.

Despite precautions the mahatma's voice reached the outside. Circulated among his followers was a list of "instructions to the people of India" promising success of the campaign within two months.

In Bombay alone in two days of disorder police and troops fired on crowds 10 times, a provincial government communique said tonight. There were numerous casualties today, in addition to the 15 dead and 169 injured on Sunday.

Late today the situation was growing worse in northern sections of this city, with crowds stoning trains, cutting wires and smashing police lamps. A postoffice was attacked; several buses were damaged and abandoned by their drivers.

Troops on Guard.

Regular troops were deployed thruout Bombay in patrols ranging from a dozen to a full platoon, but for the most part they merely stood armed guard about their trucks.

Twice in the Dadar area of Bombay policemen fired on a large and violent crowd which was attacking suburban trains with any weapon that came to hand. At least 27 of the demonstrators were wounded.

Police prevented attempts to set fire to the Bombay gas works and to the Central India railway station at Dadar, a communique announced. Elsewhere three police stations were set afire and two were destroyed. A municipal truck was overturned and set afire and a street car was upset.

Fire On Students.

One person was killed and several were injured at Ahmedabad when police fired on a crowd of students near Bujerat college. A battalion of British infantry arrived as strikes spread to the cotton mills.

In Poona, where Gandhi and his principal followers are held, 14 persons were reported injured today. "Goonas"—the Hindu term for hoodlums—threw bottles thru windows there.

Striving for "complete deadlock" thru so-called nonviolent means, workers walked out of 18 Bombay cotton mills. Trading on all Bombay markets was suspended, and there was talk of strikes in the big mill center of Ahmedabad. In a number of places schools, colleges, and shops were closed. A government grain store was burned.

The sales ran the total well over 76,000.

PLANES SAVE MALTA, AIR POWER WILL WIN WAR, SAYS RAF CHIEF

New York, Aug. 10 [Special].—The events of the last year in tiny Malta, which has been bombed for months on end in the greatest sustained aerial attack of the war, have proven one theory—that this war will be won by planes and bombs—beyond a doubt, Vice Marshal Sir Hugh Pughe Lloyd said today.

Sir Hugh, who commanded the royal air force squadrons in the Mediterranean from May, 1941, until recently, declared that the most important thing the United States can do now to win the war is "build airplanes—all kinds of airplanes."

Sir Hugh, who is leaving immediately for London, then moving on to Cairo to take an important post in the RAF in Africa, said that because of air power, Malta still is in the hands of the British—and probably will remain there.

BROOKS ASSAILS 'GESTAPO' SMEAR ON THE TRIBUNE

"Must Exercise Discretion."

"It seems to me we have placed on the attorney general and on the executive office of the United States a far greater responsibility. They must exercise their discretion as to whether particular acts are acts that are in effect in violation of the spirit of the laws that have been passed by congress.

"Of course I do not know all the facts in The Chicago Tribune affair but I have read the statement issued by that newspaper. It seems to me that if this kind of an indictment can be made, no editor in the United States hereafter can safely publish an account of any battle that has not been issued word for word by the communications office of the army and navy."

Convinced of Prejudice.

The imputation of prejudice in The Tribune case, Sen. Taft contended, is strengthened by the conduct of a grand jury investigation in Washington, which has resulted in the indictment of 28 individuals on a charge of seditious conspiracy and the smearing of many organizations, including the America First committee, which were named in the indictment but not indicted.

"The conduct of the grand jury in Washington — particularly because of the way they have handled their publicity—has shown that there is prejudice," Sen. Taft said. "I think the facts brought forward by the senator from Illinois show that there has been a prejudice against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"Therefore, I think it is right that there should be put on record in the senate a protest against any action which is not taken with the utmost and the most scrupulous fairness. I believe the senator from Illinois is justified in making that protest and I believe if we are going to preserve the freedom of the press in this country the department of justice must take a very different attitude from that which it has been taking."

CLARK JOINS TAFT

Denounces Announcement of Grand Jury Probe

Sen. Clark supported Sen. Taft's contention that the mere announcement of a grand jury investigation serves a smear purpose.

"I am informed—and I speak entirely from hearsay, because I do not read the sheet—that the little pipsqueak so-called newspaper, PM, in New York, which is merely the vermiform appendix of Marshall Field's Chicago newspaper, came out in blazing headlines saying, 'News axis chain under investigation by government,'" said Sen. Clark. "That is the effect of the attorney general's release; and it is very doubtful in my mind if that was not the purpose of the release."

Sen. Clark assailed the "aggregation of rag-tag and bob-tails who are attempting to besmirch and brand as outlaws everybody in the United States who did not happen to agree with their views as to precipitating the United States into this war."

Alluding to a denunciation by Sen. Brooks of the Washington smear indictment, Sen. Clark observed that Col. Hanford MacNider, a former national leader of the America First committee, has just been nominated by President Roosevelt to be a brigadier general.

Majority Leader Barkley began his remarks by stating that William D. Mitchell, a "former Republican attorney general" in the cabinet of President Hoover, had been asked to take charge of the grand jury investigation.

Not G. O. P., But Democratic.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] reminded Barkley that "Mr. Mitchell is a former Democratic attorney general" who served under a Republican administration. He said he did not believe that Mitchell's politics made any difference, but that so long as Barkley wished to put a political label on him, it should be the right one.

Barkley said he mentioned Mitchell's service in the Hoover administration "only for the purpose of pointing out the fact that the very appointment of Mr. Mitchell to take charge of the investigation robs it of any partisan character or nature."

The Democratic leader said he would not go into the propriety or wisdom of any effort on the part of any one to purge any one else. But he defended the right of newspapers, magazines, and individuals to advocate the election or defeat of any candidate for public office. To deny this right because of disagreement with their views, he said, would be to "deny the very foundation upon which freedom of the press and freedom of speech are buttressed."

"As far as I recall I saw him only once," Barkley said, "and that was when he appeared before the committee on foreign relations to testify as a witness on the subject of the lend-lease bill which was then before the committee. He made a very interesting statement. He did not declare himself for or against the lend-lease bill; but he showed an amazing knowledge of geography, and I listened to his statement with great interest.

"I had occasion later to listen to him over the radio. Here in my place I made a few remarks in which I complimented him for his radio speech, and later I received a letter from him thanking me. In that letter he stated that Pearl Harbor washed out or blotted out everything that had happened up to that date, and that from then on he was, without attempting to quote him literally, 100 per cent for the policy of our government. I was gratified with the letter because it seemed to me to reflect the proper course for a man who had opposed the administration's foreign policy to pursue.

"Whether he has justified that statement by his subsequent attitude I do not know. I am not a subscriber to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. I am not a regular reader of that newspaper, and therefore I am not in a position to say at this time whether Col. McCormick has followed out the course which he in the letter to which I have referred marked as his future purpose.

BARKLEY SEES MYSTERY

Favors Prosecution if Law Has Been Violated

"I also recall the articles contained in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and one or two other newspapers associated with it, either financially or by filial consanguinity, regarding the battle of Midway, and I recall that there were various comments made at the time to the effect that no other newspaper association, no other individual newspaper, had been given access to the intimate facts, if they were facts, which were revealed in the reports of Mr. Stanley Johnston, a correspondent of those newspapers, in regard to the battle of Midway.

"I recall there were some comments as to the mystery of any one particular newspaper correspondent obtaining what was supposed to be, or may have been, confidential information with respect to that subject. I do not know about that because I do not know Mr. Johnston, and I am not sufficiently familiar with the intimate confidential facts which were given into his possession to know whether Mr. Johnston revealed any confidential information, and therefore I express no judgment whatever upon the subject."

Reiterating that he expressed no opinion as to the facts, Barkley asserted, nevertheless, that if the espionage act was violated, neither THE TRIBUNE nor anybody connected with it nor any other newspaper should be immune from prosecution.

"The smear highway of which we hear so much, Mr. President," Barkley continued, "is not a one way street by any means. It has become fashionable in recent years to charge any one who opposes our views or anybody's views upon any public question, and especially with respect to our foreign relations, with seeking to smear somebody.

"The newspapers involved in this particular episode have deigned now and then to travel that highway in one direction or another; but I do not wish to go into that. I do not like the word smear."

Barkley Disputes Taft.

Barkley later interrupted Sen. Taft to suggest that federal grand juries as a rule are composed of "intelligent, level headed, substantial men and women." He questioned the probability that such a jury could be compelled by any attorney general or district attorney "to bring in an indictment against anybody for anything unless in their judgment, under their oaths, they thought that a prima facie case had been made to support the indictment." Taft replied that he had practiced law for a long time and had "seen few prosecuting attorneys who did not think they could get the grand jury to indict anybody they had any reasonable ground to indict, in time of peace."

"Vicious, Malicious Attack."

Sen. Brooks told the senate that a "vicious, malicious, and constant attack has been made and is being made upon THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE." He enumerated a long series of acts, culminating with the present grand jury investigation, in support of his charge that the Roosevelt administration is endeavoring to intimidate and destroy THE TRIBUNE.

"This attack happens to be leveled at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It is directed momentarily at the publisher, Col. Robert R. McCormick, and its managing editor, J. Loy [Pat] Maloney. They are among the eight million constituents I represent here, and I wish to review briefly their records of patriotism and sacrificial service to their country."

Brooks told the senate that Maloney served in the famous Rickenbacker aero squadron and participated in the battle of Château Thierry. He reviewed Col. McCormick's record as an officer on the staff of Gen. John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the A. E. F., and later in the front line, where he won the distinguished service medal for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services . . . in action against the enemy."

Brooks read a cablegram addressed to Col. McCormick from Melbourne, Australia, dated March 25, saying: "Appreciate greatly your fine message. Wish you were here with me. [Signed] MacArthur."

Commended by Drum.

"America's most gallant soldier records his desire to have the services of this gallant American by his side," the senator said.

A letter dated May 15, 1940, from Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the 1st army and second corps area, with headquarters at Governor's Island, New York, credited Col. McCormick with starting the mechanization of the United States army.

"Thanks for yours of the 13th instant," it said. "I am sure your approach to the mechanization question is sound. It is fine to realize that the one who really started mechanization sees its limitations and the necessity for the defensive side.

"Affairs are moving fast. Even public opinion, I think, is developing fast, and it is difficult to judge where we will be in another month or so."

Time Misrepresents Facts.

Another letter, dated Nov. 15, 1941, was written by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, retired president of the Citadel Military college at Charleston, S. C., to a representative of Henry Luce's Time magazine, who had inquired about Col. McCormick's war record. Only last week this purported news magazine published a smear attack on Col. McCormick's war record. Deliberately misrepresenting the official citation, Time said Col. McCormick's DSM was not awarded for combat service. It omitted the phrase "in action against the enemy" from the official citation.

Gen. Summerall, commander of the first division and later of the 5th, 9th, and 4th army corps in France, and a former chief of staff of the United States army, had told the representative of Time all about Col. McCormick's war record. Here is what he wrote:

"Nov. 15, 1941.

"Mr. T. H. Waring, The News & Courier, Charleston, S. C.

"Dear Mr. Waring:

"Confirming my telephone conversation with you, Col. Robert R. McCormick was a major commanding a battalion of the 5th field artillery when I assumed command of the 1st field artillery brigade in December of 1917 in the Gondrecourt training area. He took his battalion into the Toul sector in the middle of January, 1918, where the 1st division was actively engaged.

"One of Ablest Officers."

"In the early part of April Col. McCormick marched his battalion with the 1st division to the Cantigny sector, where he occupied one of the most exposed positions. He participated in the assault and capture of Cantigny on May 28.

"During all of that period and until he was returned from the battalion in the normal course of service I saw him practically every day and had many conferences with him. He was present at all operations and activities of his battalion. At all times he displayed ability, courage, loyalty, and devotion to duty which were in the highest degree commendable. His regimental commander, Col. [later brigadier general] Dwight H. Aultman, considered him as one of his ablest officers and admired him greatly. Col. McCormick was awarded the distinguished service medal for his superior service.

"He exemplified the best of American citizenship when upon the entry of our country into war. He qualified himself to be an officer and gave to the country his superior ability, character, and leadership.

"Sincerely yours,

"[Signed] C. P. Summerall."

"Such is the record," said Sen. Brooks, "of these men who are under attack."

TEXT OF SPEECH

Brooks Denounces Attacks as Fomenting Disunity

Following is the text of Sen. Brooks' speech:

"America faces her gravest task—a task that will demand greater sacrifice, greater suffering, greater service, and greater unity than our people have ever been called upon to make in the span of a little more than a century and a half of our nation's history.

"We must win this war—we will win this war. We must be willing and ready to lay our all—our individual lives and our fortunes upon the altar of this, our fight for freedom. The freedom we are determined to defend, perpetuate and extend by victory in this war is founded upon the original freedoms—the freedom of press, freedom of speech and assembly and freedom of religion. These freedoms are being challenged. They have been attacked from abroad. We must defend them against that attack from abroad but we must also be willing to lay down our lives, if necessary, to defend them here at home.

Outlines Series of Events.

"I speak today because of a series of events that have taken place thruout the country and particularly in my state, events which I believe will materially hamper our war effort and are destined to destroy the morale and the unity of our people.

"First: I wish to speak of the purge and smear campaign that was directed against members of the congress of the United States. The American people can still remember the vicious attacks made upon our Supreme court and they remember, too, that the people overwhelmingly supported each of the men who defended the court, even tho they, too, were marked for the purge at that time.

"There can be no question but what this present purge campaign is well organized, resulting, among other things, in the despicable and deplorable attack upon Sen. David Walsh of this body. It is well financed, aided and abetted by those who were the most determined and aggressive in their effort to get us into the war.

"Since then, a group of men have set themselves up as a committee known as the Union for Democratic Action, and with the aid of the Communist party and the left wing New Republic magazine, they listed a group of members of congress to be purged and defeated in the recent primaries or the coming elections. They honored me by placing my name at the head of the list of three United States senators who should be defeated at all costs and no matter to what extremes they must go to accomplish their ends. They named Sen. Arthur Capper of Kansas and Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas and myself as the three senators to head the purge list with some 26 other members of congress.

"In my state, a new paper was started and joined in the attack, soon announcing as a part of its policy, the defeat of Wayland Brooks for the senate. Joining in this demand and determined effort to defeat me was the Chicago Daily News, which is controled by the secretary of the navy, Frank Knox, and from which he receives $60,000 a year for 'advice,' while receiving $15,000 a year salary from the navy. Their attacks were made editorially, with vicious cartoons and by using carefully selected portions of my statements for incorrect interpretations and by other news stories intended to defeat me in the primary.

"I had made definite pledges prior to my election to oppose by every honorable means our becoming active shooting participants in foreign wars unless we were attacked. I pledged to support every measure to build the strongest possible national defense for our own country which would not directly lead us into shooting participation in foreign wars. I kept my pledges to the people of Illinois who had elected me and presented myself for renomination on my record.

"On April 14 the people of Illinois, at an open and free primary, rendered their verdict at the polls and by a vote of approximately five to one renominated me for the senate. Immediately, and in face of this overwhelming expression of the people, the Chicago Daily News, on April 16, printed a vicious cartoon showing Hitler wearing the iron cross and the Nazi swastika, smiling. The title of the cartoon was, 'Some One Else Was Happy, Too.' It showed Hitler smilingly holding up a newspaper with the headlines reading, 'Brooks Wins G. O. P. Nomination,' and in smaller type, 'Isolationist Victory in Illinois.'

BROOKS ASSAILS 'GESTAPO' SMEAR OF THE TRIBUNE

INSULT TO 695,000

Attacks in Knox Newspaper Causing Disunity

"This was more than an insult to the 695,000 patriotic men and women who had voted for me; many of them were former soldiers with whom I had fought against Germany in the last war. Many of them were fathers and mothers who had sons in the armed forces ready to die to defeat Hitler. In spite of the fact that we were at war, that we had been viciously attacked, that I had promptly voted to declare war on Japan, Germany, and Italy, that I again volunteered to serve in the armed forces of my country, that I had supported every measure to transform America from a nation dedicated to peace and national defense to an all out war nation, in spite of the fact that we needed national unity above all else, this paper, controled by the secretary of navy, made this attack on the people of my state who, by a vote of five to one, had renominated me for office.

"These attacks I have not publicly complained about, altho I believe they definitely caused disunity. I believe in the freedom of the press and even tho they attack me maliciously, I will fight for their right to continue to enjoy that freedom. I believe in the right of free speech and even tho designing people from without my state lay their malicious intrigue and plans to defeat me, I will fight for their right to continue to enjoy that freedom.

Illinois Needs No Advice.

"The people of Illinois need no assistance from the Communist party nor any other self-appointed purgers from without to tell them who will represent them in the senate of the United States during these uncertain and trying days which lie ahead.

"When this smear and purge attack failed to defeat members of congress, the agencies of government were brought into play to assist those papers who had opposed my renomination and used as an instrument to attack papers which had supported me.

"Specifically, a vicious, malicious and constant attack has been made and is being made upon THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Some have advised that I remain silent on this issue, but I cannot. Whether Wayland Brooks is returned to the senate or not is incidental, but whether the power of this government is to be used to suppress the freedom of the press is of vital and burning importance to all the American people.

INTIMIDATION METHODS

Present Smear Attack Directed at Chicago Tribune

"I speak of this today not because I speak of THE TRIBUNE, but I speak of the method that is being used to intimidate, coerce or control any legitimate newspaper, for if it can be done to one it can be done to all. I would defend the freedom of the press and protest against any undermining of this right, tho it were launched against the smallest newspaper in America, printed on a hand press. Freedom of the press guarantees every soldier in the front line, every worker in the factory, every father and mother an honest evaluation and appraisal of our war effort.

"The tragic truth is that wherever dictators have been set up freedom has disappeared. Freedom of the press was always the first to go and all other freedoms fell in rapid succession.

"This attack happens to be leveled at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It is directed momentarily at the publisher, Col. Robert R. McCormick, and its managing editor, J. Loy [Pat] Maloney. They are among the eight million constituents I represent here, and I wish to review briefly their record of patriotism and sacrificial service to their country, as well as the attack that has been and is being made upon them now.

In Rickenbacker Squadron.

"Pat Maloney enlisted as a private in the first officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan in 1917. He volunteered for aviation training, which he received at the University of Illinois and Chanute field. He went overseas Nov. 15, 1917, as a member of the 14th foreign detachment, was commissioned a first lieutenant of the air service in April, 1918, and ferried planes to the front and from England to France in May and June, 1918. He was ordered to the front July 14, assigned to the famous Rickenbacker squadron and participated in the battle of Chateau Thierry. After the armistice he served with the Rickenbacker squadron in the American army of occupation and was stationed at Coblenz. Lieut. Maloney was transferred to Gen. Pershing's headquarters at Chaumont in March, 1919, and there aided in the preparation of a manual on scout plane fighting. He was ordered home in May, 1919.

"Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, served as a major in the First Illinois cavalry on the Mexican border in 1916-'17. He was ordered to France on Gen. Pershing's staff, assigned to the Intelligence section, and later assigned to the front line at his own request. He was cited in the brigade orders and was promoted from major to lieutenant colonel and from lieutenant colonel to colonel for service at the front.

RECIPIENT OF DSM

Text of McCormick Citation Is Read to Senate

"He was awarded the distinguished service medal, and following the armistice was returned to the United States and served as a commander at Fort Sheridan. His name was on the list of officers suitable for general staff assignment and for appointment to general rank. I wish now to read the citation he received:

"'Awards of distinguished service medals: Robert R. McCormick, colonel, field artillery officers reserve corps, then colonel, field artillery, United States army, for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As commander of the 1st battalion 5th field artillery, in the Ansauville sector and in the Cantigny sector, France, between Jan. 18 and May 28, 1918; and as lieutenant colonel, 122d field artillery, May 13, 1918, he displayed rare leadership and organizing ability, unusual executive ability, and sound technical judgment. By his ceaseless energy and his close supervision of training, discipline and command in action against the enemy he contributed materially to the successful operations of the artillery of the American Expeditionary Forces.

"'By order of the secretary of war: John J. Pershing, general of the armies—chief of staff.'

Tribute from MacArthur.

"But that is not the only chief of staff of the United States army who appreciated Col. McCormick's courage, his devotion to duty, his love of country. And now I wish to read a cablegram sent to Col. McCormick March 25, 1942. The dateline is Melbourne, Australia. It reads:

"'Appreciate greatly your fine message. Wish you were here with me.

"'Signed: MacArthur.'

"America's most gallant soldier records his desire to have the services of this gallant American by his side.

"I would not and I do not approve the reporting of any information that would in any way aid the enemy and neither would Col. McCormick nor 'Pat' Maloney. I have not always agreed with Col. McCormick. . . . He has not always agreed with me, but I have always believed him to be, and believe now that both he and 'Pat' Maloney are outstanding, patriotic, heroic American citizens. They are subject at the present moment to the continuing investigation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, this time by a grand jury in the city of Chicago.

"May I remind you that we are bringing home our gallant heroes from the various fronts of the war to have the President decorate them with the distinguished service cross, the American navy cross, and the congressional medal of honor. Those who are wounded and live to tell the tale will be eligible to wear the Purple Heart. Do you suppose that these same heroes of today will be belittled, smeared or indicted 20 years from now, merely because they want to enjoy the rights of freedom for which they were willing to die—merely because they may not agree entirely and subserviently with whatever administration may be in power at that time?

"Are we fighting this war just to talk about the four freedoms everywhere else in the world, or are we fighting to be sure that they will never die in America?

Campaign Is Not New.

"This campaign against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of government discrimination goes back a considerable time. In November, 1940, when the army was planning to take a prominent group of Washington correspondents on an airplane tour of various army camps, Walter Trohan of The Tribune Washington bureau, who had been covering the war department, reports the following:

"He had been approved to make the trip. Lowell Mellett, then chief of the Office of Government Reports, appeared at the war department and, scanning the list of correspondents who were to make the trip, scratched off the name of Trohan. 'What are you doing that for?' asked an army officer. 'Don't you know he represents THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE?' said Mellett. 'Yes, what of it?' continued the officer. 'Don't you know THE TRIBUNE is opposed to the administration?' continued Mellett. 'If you cross that name off the list, I walk out,' said the officer. 'Nothing like that is going to be done here while I'm in charge.' Grumbling, Mellett returned to his own office and Trohan was finally permitted to make the trip.

FBI AID ENLISTED

Agents Sent Out to See Members of AP

"In April of this year, Archibald MacLeish, librarian of congress and at that time director of the Office of Facts and Figures, in two speeches delivered in New York, made a bitter attack on newspapers which had been critical of the inefficient conduct of the war. He spoke before the American Society of Newspaper Editors and before the annual meeting of the Associated Press. Prior to this meeting of the Associated Press, the FBI sent agents to visit every member newspaper which held Associated Press franchises thruout the country and, I believe, every newspaper in my state having such a franchise was visited by a member of the FBI.

"At that time the new competitor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and with an announced policy to defeat me for office, was asking to obtain an Associated Press franchise. The Associated Press was threatened with indictment, and I believe for the first time in the history of America, the FBI was sent to visit all of the members of this great press association thruout the country.

"Can there be any thought that it was not for the purpose of intimidation? Can any one suspect that this is a part of the American way of protecting freedom of the press? Under threat of indictment the Associated Press changed its rules and then promptly and as free men voted to refuse THE TRIBUNE'S competitor a franchise.

"On July 22 THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE printed a story revealing how secret service agents, again acting on specific orders from Washington, descended on The Tribune plant and seized a cardboard mat, photostatic reproduction and prints of two canceled United States treasury checks. The checks had been reproduced in connection with a story of an administration payroller charged with being on both the federal and the University of the State of Illinois pay rolls. A number of papers thruout Illinois also reproduced these canceled checks, but only THE TRIBUNE was visited by federal agents.

"Recently THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE revealed again that a customs official found himself hounded by government investigators because he had ordered a well deserved and authenticated refund to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in connection with an overpayment of duties on imported paper pulp. It was the first time in 30 years of service to the government that suspicion was cast in the direction of this man. There was nothing in the record on which to base the investigation except chronic determination on the part of the administration 'to get' THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

OTHERS ATTACKED

Condemns Smearing Individuals Thru Organizations

"Nor has the activity of the department of justice been confined to the discrediting of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It was leveled against others. Recently an indictment was returned against 28 individuals, charging them with violation of the sedition laws and with violation of a law prohibiting interference with the armed forces. No one wishes to complain against an indictment against any individual who is guilty of the violation of either of these laws.

"I have consistently supported the attorney general on the appropriations committee and in the senate in his request for funds and increase of staff and commend him upon his splendid work in prosecuting criminals and enemies of our government. But I condemn smearing the names of many honorable citizens by naming the organizations to which they belong in a general indictment.

"True enough, the organizations were not indicted, but they were included by name as being guilty of wrongdoing in connection with an indictment for sedition and interfering with the armed forces.

"Among the organizations named and thus charged with associating with some known criminals was the America First Committee. That organization was headed by the distinguished American citizen, Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman; by the distinguished American, Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, head of the Illinois division; by R. Douglas Stuart Jr., national director, and Col. Hanford MacNider, national committeemen. To drag the names of these distinguished, loyal, and patriotic Americans and thousands upon thousands of others who were associated with them by innuendo in connection with known criminals is a crime against decency in free America.

Where Are They Today?

"Where are these men today? Gen. Robert E. Wood is a member of the advisory board of the Chicago ordnance district. He joined the district last January as chief of purchasing. He was forced to resign when the job as acting president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. was added to his duties as chairman of the company board. His responsibilities were increased by the loss of Donald Nelson to head the War Production board of the nation.

"Gen. Thomas S. Hammond is serving as deputy chief of the Chicago ordnance district. He left his post as president of the Whiting corporation to serve this important ordnance district. R. Douglas Stuart Jr. is a lieutenant in the armed forces and Col. Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, is in Australia, in charge of the shipping problem for Gen. MacArthur.

"This was an insinuation against the good character of thousands upon thousands of citizens of Illinois, equally patriotic and loyal, included among them fathers and mothers who have contributed their sons upon the altar of the defense of America's liberty.

PROTESTS ASPERSIONS

Quarrels Over Past Called Way to Lose Future

"I protest against this method of casting aspersions on the loyalties of such heroic and patriotic men and women merely because they did not agree with the administration before Pearl Harbor. If we continue to divide our strength quarreling over past opinions, we will lose our future.

"This present grand jury investigation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE resulted from the publication of a story concerning the battle of Midway which was provided by Stanley Johnston, who had written a series of articles on our navy's gallant achievements in the battle of the Coral sea. The Coral sea stories were released by THE TRIBUNE without charge to all press services and all newspapers of the nation. These stories, I firmly believe, did more to build confidence and renew faith in the power of the navy of the United States than any other thing or series of things have done since the beginning of this war.

Revived Faith in Navy.

"Our commercial ships were being sunk faster than we could build them along our Atlantic coast, in the Gulf of Mexico, in the Caribbean sea, and finally the startling news that an enemy submarine had sunk a ship in the mouth of the Mississippi river. The question was in the minds of all Americans—what has happened to the leadership of our navy? Where is our navy? And out of a spirit of confusion and growing despair, like the rising of the morning sun came the stories of Stanley Johnston, relating the heroism, the brilliance, the daring courage, and the excellent achievement of our American navy in the Coral sea.

"Many officers of the navy have written and wired their thanks and appreciation to THE TRIBUNE. People everywhere have expressed their joy and gratitude for the graphic story not only of the heroism and the detailed significance of the brilliance of our American boys but for a new insight into the tactics and the problems of modern warfare at sea and in the sky. Not alone did Johnston, the only reporter present to give this detailed news to America and to the world, perform an excellent service to the navy and our people in general, but because of his personal courage and perseverance he was cited for bravery. Altho a noncombatant, daring beyond the call of any duty, he faced death to render a service to the boys of the navy, before the Lexington, the carrier on which he stood and worked and wrote, was sent to the bottom of the sea.

SPECIAL U.S. ATTORNEY MEETS WOLL TODAY TO BEGIN TRIBUNE INQUIRY

William D. Mitchell, special assistant United States attorney appointed by United States Attorney Francis Biddle to investigate a news story printed in THE TRIBUNE on June 7 on the Midway battle, will arrive in the city today to confer with J. Albert Woll, United States attorney for this district.

According to announcement in Washington, Mitchell is to take the matter before the grand jury. Woll said that the investigation will be handled by the regular July-August grand jury which will convene tomorrow or Thursday.

The story provided by Stanley Johnston, Tribune reporter and naval expert, described the type of ships in the Jap attacking force. Johnston had previously returned from the Coral sea battle with descriptive stories of the rout of the Jap fleet there.

INSTIGATED BY KNOX

Insinuating Implications of Probe Denounced

"But, because he was a representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, grand jury action, grand jury inquiry, investigation by the department of justice is being made with the insinuating implications to be mouthed and distorted by the originators and the propagators of the purge.

"And this, if you please, according to the press, instigated by the navy headed by a man who controls and receives $60,000 a year from a competing paper in the city of Chicago. I speak of this because I believe these tactics will do more than anything else to break the morale and the faith of the American people in the system of our American government, for which perhaps a million men will lay down their lives.

"When our allies cry for steel, for supplies, for support, for food, for planes, for bombs, there are those who would divide the energies, the efforts of a nation to purge, to intimidate, to smear members of congress, members of the press and loyal American citizens whose heroic patriotism can never be challenged, merely because they did not agree before Pearl Harbor.

Protests Gestapo Tactics.

There are dark days ahead for America. More than 250,000 of the sons and daughters of Illinois have already responded and wear the uniforms of the armed forces of this country. They are serving on all the fronts, in all the skies, and on all the seas of this vast war. Thousands more will be called upon to respond and they will respond to defend their country, their freedom of the press, their freedom of speech, their freedom of assembly, their freedom to worship their God. They will be called upon to die, and they will die to defend the freedoms of every American citizen, but they were not told that they were to die to defend only those who wish to smear and intimidate and cast aspersions on the loyalty of men who have proven their willingness to lay down their own lives on the altar of American freedom.

"I protest against these Gestapo tactics and these procedures because they do not support the sons of Americans and sons of allies far from home, facing death by day and by night to defend America—the free America that they love.

PEOPLE'S WAR

No Sacrifice Too Great if in Cause of Freedom

"This is now the people's war. It will not be fought by those of any one nationality, any one creed, any one color or any one political party within our country. There will scarcely be a home in all America that won't display a blue, a silver, or a gold star before this war is won. There won't be a home in all America that will not have made a tremendous sacrifice either in blood, flesh, funds, or energy before this war is over and won.

"No sacrifice is too great for the American people to make willingly, with courage and with confidence, if they know that they make that sacrifice for their right to be a free people and continue with their freedom of press, freedom of worship, freedom of the individual, and the freedom of their own conscience.

Must Not Import Purge.

"We all have a duty—a duty to sacrifice everything we possess and hold dear, if necessary, but we have also a right in the effort of this war to have a voice as well as the right to die.

"To dogmatically smear, destroy, or dominate the congress, to intimidate and arbitrarily control the press, to set up a government of fear thru investigation and intimidation is not a part of the American way for which we fight, and will die. These tactics are only causing fear in the hearts of the American people.

"I protest in the name of our common country. I protest in the name of our people. I protest in the name of our national unity, in the name of the supreme effort that we must all make to win this war. We must stop this smear—we must stop this insidious intimidation—we must stop importing the purge into America."

REP. E. J. HOLLAND RENEWS ATTACK ON THE TRIBUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—In a speech on the house floor today Rep. Elmer J. Holland [D., Pa.] asserted that the publishers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the New York News, and the Washington Times-Herald, were guilty of "moral sabotage."

"All the physical sabotage planned by the six Nazi saboteurs who were executed could not accomplish one-half the damage done by the moral sabotage committed by Robert R. McCormick, Joseph Medill Patterson, and Eleanor Patterson," he declared.

Holland is the newest member of the house, arriving here last May to fill a vacancy. He began making daily speeches almost immediately. Eleven members were on the floor when he spoke today.

Holland's theme was that the three newspapers, by criticizing the administration's conduct of the war, were following "the Nazi propaganda line."

He centered his attack on Capt. Patterson, publisher of the New York News, but said the three newspapers were all in the same category.

BUY U. S. WAR BONDS

WAR BOND SALES HIGHER IN JULY; SHORT OF QUOTA

$69,991,000 Is Total for Illinois, Highest Month.

Citizens of Illinois bought $14,150,000 more war bonds in July than in June but nevertheless fell short of the quotas established by Washington for the second month. This was shown yesterday by preliminary figures prepared by the treasury department.

The July sales in Illinois were $69,991,000. This was the highest point yet attained but missed by 17 per cent the July quota of $84,925,000. For August the quota was revised downward to $57,500,000 in line with seasonal variations in income.

Ask 10% From Every One.

Investment in the E bonds, suitable for small investors and buyers under the pay roll allotment plan, totaled $36,685,000 as against $32,854,000 of the same series in June. Purchases of F and G large denomination bonds totaled $33,306,000 compared with $20,431,969 in June.

"While sales have steadily increased we still have to face the fact that Illinois has failed to meet the quotas for the last two months," said Norman B. Collins, state administrator of the war savings staff.

"This is not the Illinois way of meeting obligations and we are calling on all persons, regardless of their source of income, to put at least 10 per cent into war bonds regularly. We are testing whether the voluntary means of helping to finance the war effort can be successful and its success is measured by the extent that quotas are met."

May Sales Passed Goal.

In June sales fell about 15 per cent below the goal, after May sales had exceeded the quota by 6 per cent.

The war savings staff compiled a list of representative Cook county towns showing June sales. Not until about five weeks after the close of a month does Washington send thru a breakdown of the E bond sales according to residence of purchasers. To this then must be added the sales of F and G bonds in each community.

The following table shows the sales per capita in Cook county communities outside of Chicago during June, when a standard quota of $12.18 a person was set for these towns on the basis of 1940 population figures. The August quota averages $11.00 a person.

Arlington Hts.	$ 6.38	Forest Park	1.76
Barrington	12.64	Glencoe	7.04
Bellwood	2.10	Glenview	9.12
Berwyn	5.07	Harvey	9.21
Blue Island	5.11	La Grange	19.54
Brookfield	1.99	Maywood	1.97
Calumet City	2.45	Melrose Park	14.56
Chicago Hts.	5.32	Oak Park	10.99
Cicero	6.31	Park Ridge	8.18
Des Plaines	6.58	River Forest	8.58
Elgin	4.49	Riverside	10.36
Elmwood Park	1.26	Wilmette	6.83
Evanston	9.45	Winnetka	11.53

Indiana communities near Chicago are listed in the following table showing June sales and quotas for each person. Here the community quotas are scaled according to economic strength as well as population.

City.	Quota.	Sales.
Crown Point	$18.31	$13.26
East Chicago	8.64	9.50
Gary	9.04	6.04
Hammond	5.12	4.47
La Porte	11.50	11.90
Michigan City	7.03	6.86
Whiting	14.07	7.08

Eugene W. Kasper, deputy war bond sales administrator in charge of Cook county, was asked why the community quotas here do not take economic factors into account. He said that standard quotas were used thruout because industrial workers have in general had income increased while in the white collar suburbs income has remained close to former levels.

GERMANS TRADE PRISONERS FOR FRENCH WORKERS

Laval to Greet First Trainload Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 10.—The first group of French prisoners released from German prison camps in return for French working men volunteering to go to Germany to work in German factories will arrive "somewhere in France" tomorrow morning, it was announced tonight. The number of prisoners released was not disclosed.

Chief of Government Pierre Laval, who six weeks ago made a nationwide appeal to French workers to take employment in German plants and thereby "relieve" some of France's million and a half prisoners, will meet the repatriated soldiers' train and make a speech which will be broadcast to the nation.

Many Families Cheered.

This first exchange of prisoners for working men has brought much satisfaction to many French families and the hope is everywhere expressed that it will be followed by many more group liberations of soldiers who have been languishing behind barbed wire fences in internment camps for more than two years.

The rate of exchange has not been disclosed. It has never been stated that the "relief" was on a 50-50 basis and it has been emphasized that the occupying authorities specified that the flow of workers to Germany must be on a sufficiently large scale before the exchange would become warranted.

For months French workers have been going voluntarily to Germany and early last spring it was estimated that more than 150,000 had crossed the Rhine. Then last June the plan to exchange French workers—the reich wanted skilled workers and metallurgists especially—for prisoners was adopted by the government.

Believe 200,000 Go to Germany.

Laval appealed to workmen on patriotic grounds, asserting that the exchange was the only way to save France. At the same time [June 21] Laval declared France was to take its place within a European framework and expressed hope for a German victory.

Since that time a steady trickle of volunteer workers has flowed to Germany. Recent estimates put the number at 65,000. This would mean that in all more than 200,000 workers have gone to Germany, altho there is no official confirmation of this figure.

The arrival of the first prisoners is expected to spur further volunteering, especially as the Nazi pay is three or four times the rates paid in France.

Report 1,000 Return.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 (AP).—DNB, German news agency, said tonight 1,000 French prisoners of war, who have been engaged in farm work in East Prussia, have arrived at the town of Aachen, on the Belgian frontier, preparatory to reëntering France. The men are to be repatriated under terms of the French-German agreement whereby French civil workers are to go voluntarily to Germany.

FOUR PLANES ARE RAF'S MAINSTAYS ON BOMBING RAIDS

Air Destroyers in Color on Back Page.

The second air front in Europe is being maintained chiefly at this time thru the activities of royal air force night flying squadrons equipped with the three types of English four motored bombers depicted in the color photographs reproduced on the back page of today's TRIBUNE. British war production of heavy bombers is being concentrated on these types, according to RAF sources.

The newest in this group is the Avro Lancaster. It appeared first in news dispatches on last April 17, when 12 of these airplanes were sent on a suicidal daylight raid on the M. A. M. Diesel Submarine Engine works at Augsburg, Germany. Four were shot down by fighters before they reached the target and three others were downed after they dropped their bombs, but five of them returned after what was one of the most gallant efforts of the war.

RAF's Best Heavy Bomber.

The Lancaster was chosen for this raid because it is the fastest of the heavy bombers. At sea level its speed is said to be over 260 miles an hour and at its best operational height—around 18,000 feet— it will do just over 300 miles an hour. The motors supplying power for this speed are Rolls-Royce Merlins that deliver 1,400 horse power for take-off.

Originally the Avro company, builders of the Lancaster, conceived this airplane as a twin engined craft. A 24 cylinder type 1,850 Rolls-Royce motor, the Vulture, was to be the power unit—one motor to each wing. The first versions were called the Manchester and were used in night raids, but the Vulture engine soon developed teething troubles that ultimately led to the decision to halt not only production but also further experimentation on it.

Change to Four Engines.

Then the Avro company, taking the same fuselage, tail, and basic wing center section used in the Manchester, developed a four engine version with the well proved Merlin motor. The addition of the two extra engines raised the wing span of the Manchester about 10 feet and completely changed the flight characteristics of the plane. Hence, the decision to call it the Lancaster. As it is flown now it is one of the finest big bombers in the world.

The big Stirling was the first British four engined plane to go into service, and it still carries the heaviest load. Stirlings used on short raids have carried up to 10 tons of bombs. With their greater power and special rocket motors used at take-off, they are operated out of the same airports used by twin engined night bombers of only half their weight.

Well Armed and Armored.

Neither the fastest nor the greatest load carrier, but definitely a useful, reliable night bomber is the Handley-Page Halifax. It is a war model of a long range passenger line type the company was planning to build when war came in 1939. The Halifax uses the same Merlin motors as the Lancaster, but is slightly smaller in its dimensions. Like all three of these big bombers, the Halifax bristles with machine guns and is well protected by armor.

The bi-motored Bristol Beaufort torpedo bomber also shown on the page is a mainstay of the RAF coastal command. These craft, carrying torpedoes and bombs at 300 miles an hour, scour the channel, the Bay of Biscay, and the North sea, attacking German shipping and any Nazi warships that appear. The Beaufort is one of the first modern bi-motored torpedo planes.

93 'TERRORISTS' EXECUTED, NAZIS IN PARIS REPORT

VICHY, France, Aug. 10 (AP).—German authorities in Paris tonight announced the execution of 93 "terrorists" as the result of a series of recent anti-German attacks.

The announcement was signed by Brig. Gen. Oberg, chief of the SS [Elite guard] and police in occupied territories. It warned the population it must "exercise the greatest vigilance to enable the detection of terrorist machinations, otherwise I will be obliged to take measures under which the entire population will suffer."

Gen. Oberg said the "terrorist attacks" were perpetrated by persons in the pay of Britain.

ALERT SOUNDED IN LONDON; RAF RAIDS GERMANY

LONDON, Aug. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—An air raid warning was sounded in the London area early today, but the all clear followed soon and there were no reported bombings.

Last night a few bursts of fire from anti-aircraft cannon were heard in London suburbs, but no warning was sounded and no bombing was reported.

The key railway center of Osnabrueck was rocked Sunday night by "an enormous explosion" while a strong RAF force unloaded a great weight of bombs on the northwest German city, returning pilots said. Fires were visible from the Dutch coast and reconnaissance planes reported the city still was smouldering today. Osnabrueck is one of the main railroad outlets for the German arsenals in the Ruhr. It also has a big steel works. Six British bombers were lost and one fighter was missing.

The docks at Le Havre, France, and airfields in Holland and Belgium also were attacked.

Airmen to Join RAF Raids on Hitler Territory.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—American fighters and bomber forces "within the immediate future" will join the RAF in blasting Adolf Hitler's great industrial cities and driving his planes from the English channel.

Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz.

The pledge came today from the commander of the United States air forces in the European theater, Maj. Gen. Carl "Toughy" Spaatz.

He declared further that United States air forces eventually would rise to 400,000 flyers and ground crew men and that there was complete cooperation and understanding with the RAF, which now has nearly three full years of active fighting experience with Hitler's planes.

More U. S. Troops Arrive.

Giving point to his assertions, made shortly after a flying inspection of United States airdromes in these islands, was the announced arrival of additional contingents of American troops. Air force men as well as units of all other combat forces were in the fresh convoy which arrived on an unspecified date.

Thousands upon thousands of American airmen and soldiers have been working day and night adapting British fields to their use, enlarging others and carving out additional bases. Every effort has been made to complete a vast amount of ground work necessary within a record time despite the difficulties of transporting men, planes, gasoline, parts, and ground equipment from the United States.

"Scourging the Reich."

The American air force is expected to begin operations on a considerable scale and gradually shoulder a full share of the burden from the RAF in "scourging the reich."

"Within the immediate future, operations in accordance with plans that have been in the making between the royal air force and the American air forces will commence," Gen. Spaatz said.

"The American and royal air forces have worked in such full coöperation that we are proceeding ahead of actual schedule. Our enemy at the appointed time will feel the might of a thoroly coördinated British and American air force."

Draft Attack Program.

What targets the Americans will bomb has not been decided fully. The program is being drafted by the British ministry of economic warfare and the American economic warfare board. When their decision is reached the targets will be parcelled out to the RAF and the United States air force, according to the capabilities and planes available.

Bad weather and the vast amount of unspectacular ground work preparatory to the actual raids had been delaying American operations.

The weather, which has kept the RAF grounded for a good part of the last six weeks, has prevented American crews from taking necessary practice flights around Britain to acquaint themselves with the countryside. This is necessary before raids abroad can start.

TRIBUNE SHIP OFF FOR CANADA WITH 4,000 TONS OF COAL

The Diesel powered ship Chicago Tribune yesterday morning started a trip to Fort William, Ont., that marked the opening of the Canadian market to midwestern coal. Loaded to the top of her unusually high superstructure, the ship carried 4,000 tons of coal on a 150,000 ton order.

Capt. Fred McIntyre said that he expects to dock the 260 foot freighter in the Canadian port on the upper shore of Lake Superior on Friday. Loading at the Calumet river dock at 102d street required 22 hours. At Fort William the unloading job is expected to be done in one-fifth the time. If the new coal business increases sufficiently, loading facilities here may be improved.

The Chicago Tribune and another paper ship, the Heron Bay, will carry many loads of coal before the season closes. Formerly they made the run empty from Chicago to Heron Bay, 150 miles from Fort William, as part of the system which takes pulpwood from Heron Bay to Thorold and paper from Thorold to Chicago. The Canadian shipping commission was eager to open the new coal route to aid the war effort.

Jury Opens Probe of Vice in Calumet City Area Today

The grand jury is expected today to begin its study of vice conditions in the southern end of the county, Samuel Freedman, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday. He said Mayor John W. Jaranowski and Police Chief Henry Wieklinski of Calumet City will be summoned to testify. The probe was ordered last Friday after four housewives and two clergymen had gone to the jury to charge that vice is rampant in the area and is corrupting soldiers and war workers.

'THE STRAFER,' EXPERT BRITISH TANK CHIEF, KILLED IN EGYPT WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10.—News that Lieut. Gen. W. H. E. [Strafer] Gott was killed in action in Egypt recalls bad luck that has befallen other British generals in the desert warfare. Early in the battle of Libya, Generals O'Connor and Gambien-Perry, both highly rated as tank experts, were captured, and Gen. Vyvyan Pope, perhaps the best tank leader, was killed in an air crash. Gen. Jock Campbell, also highly rated, died after an auto crash.

Gen. W. H. E. Gott.

Gen. Gott, who was 45 years old, was one of the youngest generals of the British army and was regarded as one of its ablest experts on tank warfare. Before the campaign opened Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, middle east commander, was quoted as saying the main weight "will fall on the Strafer's broad back."

Three successors are suggested, and Maj. Gen. W. H. C. Ramsden is regarded as the likeliest choice. The others are Maj. Gen. H. Elumsen and Maj. Gen. Gatehouse. Ramsden, 54 years old, fought in the last war.

U. S. BOMBERS SMASH AT AXIS PORT IN LIBYA

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 10 (AP).—A large formation of United States army bombers attacked the supply port of Bengasi in Libya at dawn Sunday, scoring direct hits on at least one ship and doing other damage in the harbor. All returned safely.

Simultaneously RAF and South African bombers attacked enemy shipping off the North Africa coast and bombarded grounded axis warplanes at airdromes in the El Daba area west of El Alamein. There were no developments on the land front yesterday, the British said.

Forward groups of United States army tank crews have virtually completed advanced training in the Egyptian desert and are ready to go into action with "Gen. Grants" [medium tanks]. Other groups are getting additional training in methods of desert warfare.

ROME, Aug. 10 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command today said air and land activity was limited in Egypt, but that axis planes carried out day and night attacks against air and sea bases at Malta.

U. S. ARMY TAKES OVER RED CROSS FIELD HOSPITAL

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The American Red Cross Harvard field hospital unit, after one year's service in Britain, has been taken over by the United States army, it was announced here today. Many of its 62 nurses have volunteered to stay on with the rank of second lieutenant and others will be scattered thru Red Cross clubs thruout the British Isles.

This hospital, which was brought to Britain in 250,000 pieces comprising 22 huts, remains intact and will be the central laboratory of the United States armed forces in the British Isles. The hospital was provided, staffed and financed by the American Red Cross. Harvard university provided its laboratory, medical and technical staff while the British ministry of health prepared its sites, erected the buildings and shared in its operating cost.

The primary work of the unit was to study wartime epidemics.

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Aug. 10 (AP).—Pvt. Travis P. Hammond, 25 years old, of Keltys, Tex., first American soldier of the second AEF to be tried by general court martial in Britain, pleaded innocent today to a charge of assaulting a 16 year old English girl.

If convicted he is liable to a death sentence or life imprisonment as a violator of the 92d article of war. It is charged that Hammon attacked the girl July 17.

Smartly dressed, the tall, dark haired shop girl, whose name was not disclosed, appeared before the court to testify against Hammond. She said she met him in a YMCA canteen where she was a volunteer worker, accompanied him to two pubs where they drank beer and wine, then went with him and another soldier and girl to an air raid shelter.

She said that Hammond kissed her and that when the other couple left she suggested leaving, too. Instead, she testified, Hammond picked her up.

Tells of Drinking Beer.

"I protested," the girl told the court. "I fought him and struck him and kicked him, but he put his hand over my mouth."

Pvt. E. Boutwell of Wolfe City, Tex., who accompanied Hammond the evening of July 17, told how they drank several bottles of beer.

Asked whether the beer had any effect on Hammond, Boutwell said, "I cannot say about that. It certainly did on me."

The trial was opened to the public altho United States headquarters had announced earlier it would be conducted in private at the request of the girl's parents.

The court convened four days after King George assented to an act of parliament placing all United States soldiers in Britain under jurisdiction of their own courts.

Col. Milton M. Towner, an air force officer, is presiding over the 11 man court which, with two exceptions, is made up of air force officers. Capt. Lester Prichard of St. Louis, Mo., Hammond's counsel, objected to the description of the charge as "rape." Capt. Donald Reed of St. Joseph, Mo., is the prosecutor.

Manslaughter Case on Docket.

Upon conclusion of the case the court will consider a charge of manslaughter against another private involved in an automobile accident. The public will be admitted to this hearing.

The rape case attracted considerable attention among the British press and public because of what are considered here to be "peculiarities" in American court procedure and the severity of the sentence for this offense—death or life imprisonment.

There have been several summary and special courts martial previously since the second AEF arrived. Summary trials are conducted by one man for minor offenses; special courts martial deal with penalties involving sentences of less than 90 days; and general courts martial hear cases where punishment may be 90 days or more.

Name Head of Courts.

Army headquarters announced that administration of United States military justice in the European theater would be under the judge advocate general's branch headed by Brig. Gen. Lawrence Hedrick, a native of Indiana who took a law degree at the University of Missouri and was state's attorney of South Dakota before 1917.

Headquarters said that persons convicted by American army courts in the European theater will be imprisoned in places maintained by the United States army but that those who must serve more than five years will be sent back to the United States.

"Death sentences, if they are imposed, will be carried out in the theater of operation by hanging or shooting," the announcement said.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

H. G. writes: "A relative of mine enlisted 14 months ago in the navy and is now on sick leave. The physician has recommended a medical discharge. If he is released in that manner, will this young man be able to enter any navy or marine hospital in the future, should medical care be necessary?"

ANSWER: He would not be eligible for care in a naval or marine hospital, but could apply thru the Veteran's administration for care in one of the hospitals operated by that agency.

Mrs. C. writes: "I am worried and wondering about my son. We have written to him repeatedly, on the average of twice a week, but since last Christmas we have not heard from him. A letter I wrote in March has just been returned to me unopened. He has always been good about writing, and we used to hear from him frequently. Can you tell me how I can locate him?"

ANSWER: Your letter is similar to many we receive. Since you do not say how the letter was stamped, it is difficult to know why it was returned. If it was stamped "unclaimed," the address was incorrect. You do not mention which branch of the service your son is in, but since his last address was in care of the postmaster, he is presumably overseas. Mail to some of the more remote stations is often unavoidably delayed. If you will send detailed information, perhaps I can make some helpful suggestions.

From Mrs. O. R.: "My husband was drafted into the army six months ago. He has made an allotment to me but as yet I haven't received a cent. I expect a baby in two months. In the paper it stated that no allowances would be paid until after Nov. 1. I haven't any money. What am I supposed to do until then?"

ANSWER: The Army Emergency relief is set up to handle situations such as yours. It has offices in every army camp, and if your husband will apply there and explain your predicament necessary assistance will be given until his allotment is sent to you.

Mrs. W. writes: "My husband is a second class petty officer in the navy. I have been told that the government will furnish transportation to me to his home port, even if I go there for just a short visit. Is this so, and if so, how can I go about applying for same, since I am very anxious to see him?"

ANSWER: I am afraid you have been misinformed. There is no branch of the navy or the federal government which will provide transportation for you under the circumstances you mention.

AMERICAN TANKS PASS WAR TEST, WORKERS TOLD

General Describes How 1 Survived 50 Hits.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP).—Workers in the Chrysler tank arsenal heard today how a German 88 millimeter anti-tank gun had to hit an American built M-3 army tank 12 times before the latter was stopped.

Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance, services of supply, related the incident in presenting to the plant and workers the joint army-navy "E" award for high achievement in the production of war equipment.

New Tanks Heavier.

He also told how another M-3 tank was hit by 50 armor piercing high explosive shells from a 50 millimeter gun and was not put out of action.

Chrysler recently switched from the M-3 to the newer, more powerful M-4, an all welded tank, and Gen. Campbell said this already is at the front. He said the M-4's have heavier armor and are faster than the fleet M-3.

Take a Year to Duplicate.

"Altho the enemy may capture the first M-4 to appear on the battlefield [and he hasn't]," Gen. Campbell said, "it will take him a year to duplicate the tank or even make corresponding improvements."

Telling of a "mysterious flurry of criticism of our M-3 mediums, which we have good reason to believe was enemy inspired," Gen. Campbell said:

"We have made comparisons with enemy equipment and we were satisfied the M-3 was superior to anything the enemy had in action.

"Our 75 millimeter high velocity cannon on the M-3 outranged the 75 mm. howitzers on the standard German Mark IV. by more than 700 yards, our armor was thicker, and the tank was faster."

AIR AND GROUND FORCES TO GET WAR GAME TEST

Teamwork Is Aim of New Maneuver Problem.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wadesboro, N. C., Aug. 10.—Blue bombers will roar across the Peedee river at dawn tomorrow in the start of an assault on Red territory defended by strong infantry and artillery forces.

The attack will mark the opening of the third phase of the maneuvers in progress here under Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley, 6th army corps commander. Rested by a four day lull since completion of the second problem last week, troops today were streaming into the combat zones and taking up positions.

The new problem is intended primarily to develop teamwork between air and ground forces in offensive operations, according to Gen. Dawley. Thruout the maneuvers he has placed major emphasis on the necessity of practice in achieving clockwork synchronization of air and ground forces.

Blues to Have Most Planes.

The attacking Blue army will have all the aviation in tomorrow's battle except for a small Red reconnaissance group. This aviation will coöperate with armored and mechanized ground forces in an attempt to force a crossing of the Peedee river and invade Red territory to the west.

The planes will be fully manned and their equipment will be the same used in actual combat, including full bomb and gasoline loads.

In the Red territory officers were busy today attempting to conceal their forces from the Blue air observers, who will begin seeking them out at daybreak. Pontoon bridges again are expected to play an important part in the exercises.

12,000 Pay Visit to City.

Commanding officers have been lenient with passes during the rest period since completion of the last problem. An estimated 12,000 men visited Charlotte, N. C., yesterday.

Civilians thruout the area have been hospitable in entertaining men in uniform, and it is common for soldiers to be invited to dinner. Civilian facilities are inadequate to the demands of soldiers on leave, however, and restaurants repeatedly have closed their doors for lack of room or food.

Hotels are packed and bus lines are swamped. Men stand in long queues for hours trying to get long distance telephone calls thru, and taxicab companies have grown so tired of reporting that no cabs are available that they let their telephones ring unanswered.

Troops Eager for Change.

Soldiers go to nearby towns and wait hours for the privilege of buying a dinner inferior to the one they could have had free in camp. They explain they want a change.

The weather remains hot in the daytime but always cools off at night, enabling troops to rest well. Comment on good sleep is heard from all sources.

American army observers have been coming and going in large numbers since the beginning of the maneuvers. Last night a group of English officers arrived to observe the new problem.

WOMAN, 70, DEAD OF STAB WOUNDS; ARREST BOARDER

Mrs. Ann Siller, 70 years old, was stabbed to death, and her son, Julian, 38, was seriously wounded yesterday in the kitchen of their flat at 3119 West 39th street. Police held Paul Priginski, 52, a boarder in the Siller home, for a coroner's inquest this morning after a neighbor said she saw Priginski quarrel with the Sillers and then stab them with a pocket knife.

Paul Priginski.

Lieut. William Smith of the Brighton Park police said that Priginski was unable to make a statement and was sent to County hospital for an examination.

Mrs. Siller died shortly after being taken to Holy Cross hospital. Her son was in a critical condition from knife wounds in the chest and wrist, physicians reported.

MURDER CHARGE FACES DICE GIRL WHO SHOT LOVER

The county grand jury tomorrow will be asked to return a first degree murder indictment against blonde Eleanor Williams, 25 years old, who last week shot and killed her lover, Gordon J. McNaughton.

McNaughton, onetime big league ball player, who was slain when Mrs. Williams found him in the hotel room of another woman, Mrs. Dorothy Moos, estranged wife of Fred Moos, speculator and race horse owner, was buried yesterday in Calvary cemetery. Brief funeral services were held in the chapel at 4611 Lincoln avenue.

Matrons at the county jail, where Mrs. Williams is confined, said that the blonde dice girl appeared unrepentant, but told them that she would "love to attend the funeral" of McNaughton. She told police that dread of losing McNaughton's love had been "making a bum out of me," in explaining why she shot and killed him.

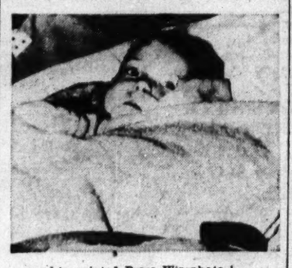
Key Removed



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Sharon Bell after arrival in Philadelphia hospital.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—A tiny key used to open a peanut can was removed today from the larynx of Sharon Bell, 4 years old, who came by plane and train from Vancouver, B. C., for the operation at Temple University hospital.

The half hour operation was performed by Dr. C. L. Jackson, son of the inventor of the bronchoscope, used for removing foreign bodies from the throat.

Hospital attendants said the child was "resting comfortably" and would be released in about a week. Her father, Gordon Bell, Vancouver policeman, arrived about two hours after the operation. The child was brought here by her aunt, Mrs. Eileen Murchison.

LENDS GLASSES TO NAVY; NIMITZ WRITES HIM NOTE

The binoculars he lent to the navy brought a personal note yesterday from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, to Paul G. Warren, 210 West Jackson street, a printer.

Mr. Warren turned over a pair of Zeiss 7x50 binoculars several weeks ago. Yesterday he got the regulation announcement from the navy that the glasses had been received and put to work. But what startled him was the note in the corner.

"I will take good care of your fine glasses and will see that they are returned after the war.

"Signed: C. W. NIMITZ.

The note was dated July 12.

San Pedro, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Rev. Frank T. Wood, who retired as a chief gunner's mate in the navy nine years ago after 21 years' service, is back in uniform. He resigned last January as bishop of the Full Gospel Church of the Kingdom of Christ to return to active duty, again as chief gunner's mate and as range master at the San Pedro naval section base. "The scriptures tell us that we should obey the magistrates of our country and obey its laws, and that there is no authority that does not come from God," Wood said.

VOTE IN 5 STATES TODAY; NEW DEAL TEST IN NEW YORK

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

As candidates go to the primary post in five states today, two New York contests involving presidential power and prewar policies, take the political spotlight away from the polling activities in Idaho, Ohio and Nebraska and the Democratic run-off between two Arkansas senatorial aspirants.

Vying for voters' attention in the empire state primary scramble is the Democratic gubernatorial battle between James M. Mead and State Attorney General John J. Bennett, and the Republican intraparty fight featured by the efforts of three candidates to unseat Rep. Hamilton Fish.

Roosevelt Favors Mead.

President Roosevelt has said he would support Mead if he had a vote in the party's August 19 convention, while the President's onetime campaign Manager, James A. Farley, is back of Bennett. [Delegates to the convention are chosen today.]

Fish, caustic critic of administration foreign policy before Pearl Harbor, represents Mr. Roosevelt's home district. Opposition to the representative was split among Augustus W. Bennet, Newburgh attorney; State Assemblyman Emerson D. Fite, Vassar college professor, and Edward J. Bowen, who has made the race several times.

Ohio's Republican governor, John W. Bricker has no Republican opposition in his quest for a third term. Five men sought the Democratic nomination: Frank A. Dye, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, Walter F. Hefer, a county Democratic committee chairman, former State Treasurer Clarence K. Kinsley, and former Rep. John McSweeney. All Ohio incumbent congressmen seek renomination except Democratic Rep. Robert T. Secrest, who resigned to keep his lieutenant commander's post in the naval reserve.

7 Seek Norris' Seat.

In Nebraska, Republican Gov. Dwight Griswold has one opponent for renomination, while three seek the Democratic nod. Three Republicans and seven Democrats vie for party endorsement for the United States senate post of Veteran George W. Norris, who has not yet said whether he would run again on the independent ticket.

Idaho's governor, Chase A. Clark, a Democrat, is seeking renomination and William Detweiler, Thomas D. McDougall and C. A. Bottolfsen are battling for the Republican endorsement. Republican Sen. John Thomas had two party opponents, while five Democrats are in the race to oppose him.

The Arkansas run-off places former Rep. John McClellan and Attorney General Jack Holt against each other for the senate spot on the Democratic ticket. Democratic Gov. Homer M. Adkins already has won renomination and Republicans will pick their candidates at a convention.

50 JOIN COAST GUARD AT NEW BRIDGE STATION

The United States coast guard prepared yesterday to tap the reservoir of youth in the Chicago area by opening a new recruiting office in the southwest tower of the Michigan avenue bridge. The office, established to ease swamped facilities at the recruiting center in the United States courthouse, was put into service during a two hour program. Fifty recruits were sworn in by Lieut. A. C. Stewart, coast guard recruiting officer for the Chicago area.

Entertainment for hundreds massed at Michigan avenue and Wacker drive was supplied by Benny Goodman and his orchestra, Bill Anson of W-G-N, master of ceremonies, and other radio personalities.

The ceremonies were broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Meanwhile, the first week's returns in the "Fly for Navy" drive were released by Lieut. Comm. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval aviation cadet selection board. They showed 409 had made applications, of whom 116 already have been inducted. The drive will last two months.

NEGRO LEADERS DEMAND RENT CEILING ACTION

Earl Dean Howard, Chicago area rent director, was criticized yesterday by Negro leaders for failure to enforce federal rent regulations vigorously. Immediate registration of landlords and more realistic enforcement of rent ceilings were demanded at a conference of church and other Negro organizations.

The resolutions dealing with rent and price control were adopted by the National Negro council, the National Baptist convention, and the Baptist conference of Chicago and vicinity at a meeting in the Prairie Avenue Baptist church, 6020 South Prairie avenue.

Leonard Downie, business manager of the Chicago Real Estate board, said Ronald J. Chinnock, president of the realty group, has left to confer with Office of Price administration rent officials in Washington about the board's request for a 4½ per cent increase over present rent ceilings based on last March 1 rates. OPA rent investigators are in Chicago analyzing operating costs of Chicago rental property.

Women Join the "Field Artillery"

as International Harvester Dealers Teach Power Farming to an Army of "TRACTORETTES"

THE SUN is just over the ridge. Breakfast is just under the belt. The farmer and his helper sample the breeze as they stand on the back steps, and the farmer says:

"I've got to go into town this morning and I'll be gone a while. Meantime, Emily, you might as well start in on the south forty."

Emily? A girl? Sure, why not? For Emily is a Tractorette . . . and she knows her stuff. She'll check her tractor for fuel and lubrication. She'll make those minor engine adjustments she noted mentally last night. She'll roll out early and do a first class job of field work, straight down the rows.

What is a Tractorette?

A TRACTORETTE is a farm girl or woman who wants to help win the battle of the land, to help provide Food for Freedom. She is the farm model of the girl who is driving an ambulance or running a turret lathe in the city. Like her city sisters, she has had the benefit of special training.

Last winter International Harvester dealers began to train this summer's Tractorettes. The dealers provided classrooms, instructors and machines. The Harvester company furnished teaching manuals, slide films, mechanical diagrams, and service charts. The girls themselves were required to bring only two things—an earnest willingness to work and a complete disregard for grease under the fingernails or oil smudge on the nose.

They studied motors and transmissions, cooling systems, and ignition. They studied service care. They learned to drive tractors. They learned to attach the major farm implements that are used with tractors. And they were painstakingly taught the safe way to do everything.

• • •

Today, on their family farms or elsewhere, thousands of "graduates" are doing a real job for victory. Tractorettes are working to provide the food that is a vital weapon in the war that America wages. They are doing the work that used to be done by the boys who now are flying bombers or riding the slippery, slanting decks of a destroyer.

» BUY WAR BONDS
» TURN IN YOUR SCRAP
» SHARE YOUR CAR

Their Tractorette training cost them nothing, except the energy and intelligence which they put into it. The company conceived and launched the program. Its financial costs are shouldered by both the Harvester dealers and the company.

• • •

This fall and winter Tractorette training courses will be broadened to meet new needs as they arise. Thousands of new girls will take the course and join the "women's field artillery" next spring, fit and ready for the every-year battle of the land. Until Victory is won, Tractorette training will continue to be one of the important extra services gladly rendered by Harvester dealers, as typical American businessmen, to the farmers and to the nation.

THE OFFENSIVE AT LAST.

At this writing, the outcome of the second battle of the Coral sea is still in doubt. But there can be no doubt that the strategic considerations which led to the decision to attack were sound. We are at last taking the offensive against Japan and it is thru such offensive operations that we shall win the war.

With relatively small forces, the Japanese pushed their conquests on the mainland and from island to island southward and eastward until they were in possession of Hongkong, Malaya, Singapore, the Philippines, Burma, Guam, Wake, and many of the islands in the vicinity of Australia. The enemy's forces engaged in these operations were small by the standards of the fighting in Europe, but the Japanese enjoyed at the time the superiority of both sea power and air power. They were thus enabled to concentrate at any point the strength required to overcome the local garrisons.

Now, thanks to the successes in the first Coral sea engagement and at Midway the balance of sea power is tipping in our favor and it is entirely probable that we are on equal or nearly equal terms in the air in the area of battle. If so, we can now drive the Japanese before us as they formerly drove us. If this operation proves successful it will be the prelude for others of the same sort. We shall approach Japan, steppingstone by steppingstone, until the moment arrives when we shall have air bases close enough to Tokio and Yokohama to destroy Japan's fighting power.

That is the goal. Just as Japan advanced southward and eastward in its conquest of British, Dutch and American soil, so we shall move northward and westward to regain the lost territory and finally attack Japan itself. If the campaign is pursued with vigor and determination it cannot fail.

The type of warfare employed is relatively new and unfamiliar. It calls for a maximum of coördination between air, sea, and land forces. It is possible that mistakes will be made and some of them may be sufficiently serious to result in temporary checks. That is to be expected, but it is also to be expected that we shall learn by experience and that the veterans of the first battle will be that much better prepared for the subsequent ones.

The American people await the details of the fighting in the Solomon islands with confidence. We know that our men are acquitting themselves gallantly. We know that at last the American doctrine of offensive action against the enemy is operative. A brighter day is dawning.

A SOURCE OF RUBBER.

As was indicated in the news columns on Saturday, this newspaper is willing to go ahead and make rubber without waiting for the report of Mr. Baruch's committee of college presidents.

The raw material we propose to use is a by-product of our paper mills, known as sulphite liquor. The sugars in it can be fermented and turned into alcohol, the alcohol into butadiene and the butadiene into rubber. It has long been known that the alcohol could be made from sulphite liquor. We have reason to believe that our chemists have found a better process than was known before and this method has been placed at the disposal of all paper makers. If it is generally employed it will produce enough alcohol to make about 10 per cent of the synthetic rubber called for in the government's program.

We can make alcohol to be sent to other plants for conversion to rubber or, as our chemists would prefer, we can do the whole job from first to last. We are ready to risk our own money in the process and take the chance of losing it. We can start as soon as the government will grant priorities for the purchase of a limited amount of equipment required.

Unlike petroleum, grain, and coke, the raw materials which are generally relied upon for the making of synthetic rubber, sulphite liquor is not needed for any other war purpose. The rubber which might be made from it would not reduce the food supply, the fuel supply or the supply of anything else which might be useful in winning the war. The quantity of equipment required would be relatively small because steam and power are available at the mills together with storage capacity and technical skill. If the government will give us the green light, we shall do our part.

ABOUT A LETTER.

We publish this morning a letter from Mr. Montgomery B. Angell of Putnam county, New York, who is working for the defeat of Hamilton Fish for renomination to congress. In a covering note he suggests that we may lack the courage to publish his views. "I shall be curious," he says, "to see whether you will publish my letter." It is not our custom to pay attention to challenges of this sort; indeed, about as good a way as any to discourage publication of a letter is to dare the editor to print it, but in this instance an exception is made because we think our readers will wish to know how venomously and unfairly the purge is being conducted.

PVT. EGIZI AND MR. WILDE.

Our Mr. Korman, sojourning in England, reports that a classic insult has been avenged. He interviewed the commander of American ground forces at his headquarters in an ancient castle, and, upon leaving that stately pile, encountered a fellow townsman, Pvt. Louis Egizi. Mr. Korman asked Pvt. Egizi what he thought about the noble ruin where his commander was established.

"It's a nice old place," said Pvt. Egizi tolerantly, "but these Britons can't really imitate our old Chicago landmarks." As for him, give him the Chicago avenue water tower every time.

Thus were the tables neatly turned on Oscar Wilde, who came to Chicago as a sightseer in the elegant 80's and shocked the natives by scornfully stating, "Your water tower is a castellated monstrosity with pepper boxes stuck all over it."

Chicagoans themselves sometimes pretend to laugh at the water tower, saying it looks like goldfish bowl architecture, but if the tower is to be disparaged, they insist on doing it themselves and are resentful when strangers put on superior airs. For, down in their hearts, they are fond of the old landmark, and 'mid the old world's palaces, if not pleasures, they are certain to share Pvt. Egizi's prejudice.

PROFITLESS WAR BOOM.

The government gave itself an 18 per cent participation in the profits of corporations in 1939. It upped its ante to 24 per cent for 1940, and added a 50 per cent levy on what were described as excess profits.

Last year the ordinary rate [normal plus surtax] was advanced from 24 per cent to 31 per cent, and the excess profits tax was made 60 per cent instead of 50. The bill passed by the house provided for a further increase in the ordinary rate for 1942 from 31 per cent to 45 per cent. And the excess rate was raised from 60 per cent to 90 per cent.

At what rate corporations will pay taxes on their 1942 business won't be determined until both houses of congress have agreed on a measure and the President has affixed his name to it. Meanwhile corporations have made two quarterly earnings reports to their stockholders, neither of which could be accurate, with deductions for taxes indeterminate. Boards of directors have voted dividends without knowing whether what would remain after taxes warranted the action. Industry has been called upon to expand production, but has been kept in the dark about what the consequences of the expansion would be.

Factors other than taxes are eating into profits. The business of many companies has been severely reduced because of inability to get supplies. For others, selling prices have been frozen at levels prevailing five months ago, while costs have continued to rise.

Some companies with highly profitable war contracts are making a killing out of the war. But by and large that is not true. National income is at an all time high, and wage payments will be nearly twice as large as in 1940, but business income is falling. On the basis of available information it seems certain that corporation profits in total will be less in 1942 than in either of the past two years. Some corporations have reduced dividends and others will have to take similar action before the year is over. There are some war profiteers, but few legitimate business men or investors are making money out of war.

MODERN MINDED ADMIRAL.

The first great demonstration by an American naval commander of the devastating possibilities of the new kind of war at sea was provided in the Coral sea victory by Capt. Frederick C. Sherman of the aircraft carrier Lexington, who has since been promoted to rear admiral. The American navy's successful introduction to this new kind of sea fighting can be attributed to the insight of Adm. Sherman. Years before his methods were to be put to the test, he had foreseen the demands of the new kind of warfare and had prepared himself for them.

When other high ranking navy men were still bemused by preconceptions about the might of the battleship, Adm. Sherman was equipping himself with a complete understanding of the striking weapons of the future war. For six years, including the span of the first World war, he was a submarine officer. In 1934, at the age of 46, he saw that the airplane was to play a predominant part in future naval warfare and during the next two years qualified himself as a naval aviator. He is today the only man in the entire navy entitled to wear both the dolphins of the submarine service and the wings of the naval air service. He is the only man in the navy who has commanded in war both submarines and aircraft carriers—the two most potent naval weapons of this war.

This is not to say that Adm. Sherman does not know surface ships. He does. He has taken tours of duty aboard battleships, cruisers, and destroyers. He knows their capacities, but his preference lay with the undersea boats and with aircraft. He went out of his way to specialize in them when to do so was to run the risk of incurring the displeasure of the old line admirals who believed in the tradition that the way to rise thru the ranks was to be a battleship man.

It may be that this attitude explains why Adm. Sherman, when he came up with other officers of his age group to be considered for promotion, was passed over by the naval board. In 1940, when he was assigned to the command of the Lexington, he could have expected in the normal course of events to have spent a two year tour on the carrier, after which, having been passed for promotion, he would shortly have faced retirement with the rank of captain.

It was accident that war intervened and that the Coral sea presented him with the opportunity of demonstrating all that he had patiently learned of the new technique of war at sea. His unique talents, acquired against the unspoken opposition of traditionalists, were translated into a terrible Japanese defeat. The demonstration of how correct Sherman had been in foreseeing the character of the new naval warfare was so convincing that promotion could not be denied. Even so, he has lost seniority to other rear admirals promoted at the time he was passed over.

Perhaps it is too late to be of service in the present war, but the suggestion may be submitted on sound grounds that no man is fit to be an admiral commanding a fleet under the new conditions of warfare unless he has been both a submarine man and an aviator. Ships that move on water are no longer as important as craft that move above it and under it, and a commander who does not understand all three dimensions cannot even estimate the forces that are at his disposal.

ARMY JAUNDICE.

[Indianapolis News.]

Disturbing rumors about an epidemic of jaundice, or inflammation of the liver, in the army were explained by Secretary Stimson's official confirmation. He said that the army had reported 28,585 cases, and that of those stricken 61 had died.

According to Secretary Stimson, the epidemic was caused by the use of a serum for yellow fever inoculation which was defective.

Assurance by the surgeon general of the army that the vaccine has been modified to eliminate the trouble is timely, but it will hardly satisfy the people, especially the families of victims of the disease. The American Medical association did not help matters by defending the army's health record with the statement that "its sickness and death rates today are, even with the temporary invalidism associated with the vaccination, far less than those of similar age groups in civilian life." Since soldiers are picked men, must be in good health to enter the army, and are under constant medical supervision, their health should be far better than that of "similar age groups in civilian life."

Secretary Stimson's frank confession of the fault is commendable, but congress should make a complete investigation and report to the people.

A TOUCH OF REALISM.

No matter how hard the composers work to prevent it, realism occasionally sneaks into that most unrealistic of enterprises—grand opera. Each of the 30,000 persons attending the open air performance of Carmen in Soldiers' field Saturday night became uneasily aware of this.

* * *

The night was made for Carmen with its blood and thunder, toreadors, smugglers, gypsies and torrential love and hate. All evening lightning jagged low and blue and ominous above the cardboard cutout scenery, and the imitation trees and rocks and houses swayed as in a sirocco, and no one could have been any more surprised at the sight of six live dragons on the stage than they were when six horses from the Chicago traffic corps, each inadvertently wearing the badge of its servitude, galloped across the scene. In fact, the audience could have been surprised by nothing except what actually did happen.

* * *

Every one fights in Carmen, but especially Carmen, sung this time by Gladys Swarthout, and Don José, sung by Jan Kiepura. They fight and fight and Don José finally kills her, a pleasure he ordinarily reserves for the fourth and final act. This night he was precipitate. When, in the third act, he hurled Carmen a mighty eight feet, she did not rise. But the 30,000 spectators did.

* * *

The lights went out. Only the lightning continued its weird chiaroscuro. Fearful comments went around: Miss Swarthout had fallen on the knife [a wooden facsimile]! She had broken a leg! Sprained an ankle! An arm! Etc.! Dim figures could be seen gathered around her prostrate figure. She had been knocked out—cold.

* * *

Veteran opera goers later scoured their minds for other instances of realism. They recalled one. Once, in Tosca, Geraldine Farrar, slightly annoyed by the rough-and-tumble realism of Scarpia, played by Scotti, retaliated by biting his hand. Blood spurted over the stage and the lovesick tenor came out with a surprising "Owwww!"

AT THE CONCERT.

We sit here locked in music's close embrace,
While melody builds walls of mirrored light—
And note steps high on note in some swift race
To be the first to reach the dizzy height.
Our thoughts, like butterflies, are lifted, too,
On wings of harmony, to dip and dart
And weave a pattern close around us two
Who are already one in mind and heart.
Ah, love, I see the memories that shine
Within your eyes and linger 'round your lips,
And I match them with memories of mine
While reaching for your restless fingertips.
Yet wonder in my heart—which can it be?—

"Get a Horse . . ."

Chicago motorists at the turn of the century were limited to a speed of eight miles an hour. Despite their complaints that a good team of horses frequently went faster than this, the speed limit was not raised until 1904. The council then raised it to 10 miles an hour. Instead of horns they were required to be equipped with an alarm bell or gong no more than four inches in diameter "to be sounded at street crossings and whenever deemed advisable . . . to notify pedestrians or others of the approach of any such vehicle."

A Hard Case.

The veteran state's attorney was fully aware, as he brought the blonde wife for arraignment in court, that it was the second time she was in court for slaying a husband. So, when he overheard her clever criminal attorney say, "She's just a mild mental case," he turned swiftly and replied, "Possibly so, sir, but in my office we refer to her type as a gun metal case."

SAFE SURGERY FOR OUR OLDSTERS.

AMONG our numerous correspondents a fair proportion may be considered elderly. For them it is but natural that aches and pains will multiply with advancing years. Because of better understanding and a wiser attitude physicians are nowadays more helpful to these worthies.

The question is asked frequently, "My doctor feels that I should have an operation. Will it be safe at my age?" This raises the query, "What is the relationship of the year age to the condition of the tissues? Would we consider Douglas MacArthur at 62 too old to lead the armies of the allies?" The chances are that his blood vessels and body framework are younger than many another who has not reached middle life [45].

In all fairness it may be stated that the present day safeguards which surround skilled surgery have lengthened the period when we can say, "The risk is slight." But much will depend upon whether or not the patient can be given adequate preparation. We cannot blind our eyes to the fact that when a tumor obstructs the bowel and the victim is rushed to the operating room, the hazard is increased. But this would be true of any hurried event. On the other hand, if there is plenty of time to rest, to flush the tissues, to reënforce the heart, to lower the blood pressure, our elderly friends will do just as well as they would were they younger.

We must recall, however, that healing may not take place as quickly as with teen age youngsters. In consequence, a few extra days may need to be allowed for the development of a firm scar. If the rush and bustle can be eliminated, we can with reasonable certainty look for recovery. Of course malignant masses add somewhat to the peril. This is due largely to the fact that the true nature of the difficulty is not recognized early enough to permit easy removal.

Then, too, the heart can be placed in the best possible condition—which means that an impending "failure" must be treated first—before the rôle of the knife is invoked. Cases showing liver disease can receive generous quantities of glucose, while sufferers from damaged kidneys can be relieved of surplus fluids.

Nutrition is probably the most important single factor. The obese individual may well lose 20 pounds or more while the undernourished and the anemic type can be strengthened under a proper food regimen. As a rule the percentage of hemoglobin can be restored without trouble and the whole picture changed for the better.

It should be clear that when speed is not a question, with plenty of time to bring the ill person as nearly to normal as possible, the hazard is but slightly higher than with relatively young people. In a sizable group reported upon recently, the ratio of complications was lower than average. The greatest care was observed in "getting ready."

We must not forget that we need not say good-by to our oldsters until inexorable Time wields his scythe. But they will require more attention—their tissues will demand more gentle handling. But slapdash surgery has no place in the healing art at any time.

This is probably a stroke sometimes called apoplexy. A blood vessel within the brain has ruptured. Gentle handling is essential; otherwise bleeding may be increased.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

THE VOTERS WILL DECIDE TODAY.

Putnam County, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Your recent editorial about Hamilton Fish entitled "A Hard Man to Smear" has come to my attention. You say that those who are endeavoring to defeat him for reëlection to congress are "the Communists, the do-gooders, and their draft dodging pals." The fact is that we who are supporting his opponent, Augustus Bennet of Newburgh, Orange county, are all enrolled Republicans actively supporting the Republican party, and are men who in the last war had as good if not a better war record than Mr. Fish. We have not attacked Mr. Fish's patriotism or his courage, altho his proven association as recently as last fall with the German agent Viereck and the Nazi propaganda machine lays him open to attack from this angle. Fish, himself, has undertaken to assert that the campaign against him is a smear campaign, in an effort to draw a red herring across his record. We have attacked him wholly on the ground that his judgment in the past has been so bad that he is not a fit man to be returned to congress.

You say that Mr. Fish has "a strong sense of his public responsibilities and a whole souled devotion to his country." Let us examine the record, as Al Smith, one of our great New York governors, used to say. In July and August, 1939, Fish was in Europe. He advocated a conciliatory conference on the pattern of Munich. An avowed isolationist, who stoutly maintained that we should not meddle in European affairs, here he was, definitely meddling in European politics and definitely advocating appeasement, when every one on both sides of the Atlantic knew that appeasement was playing directly into the hands of Hitler, our most dangerous enemy. Does this show "a strong sense of his public responsibilities"?

Fish in 1939 was against the fortification of Guam, saying that as an airplane base it would be "a dagger at the throat of Japan." Consider what it would mean now if Guam had been fortified and it did constitute "a dagger at the throat of Japan." He was opposed to enlarging our air forces; he was opposed to increasing the number of airplane carriers; he was opposed to the transfer of 50 destroyers to England, but championed the sale of helium to Germany; he voted against the final draft bill in 1940, and he led the forces opposed to the extension of the draft bill in August, 1941. Finally, when the measure for arming United States merchant ships was before the house in 1941 he voted "yea" to recommit the bill and voted "yea" when the question on the bill was put, thus voting on both sides of an extremely important question within a short five minutes.

Is this the action of a man who has "a wholesouled devotion to his country"?

On Dec. 5, 1941, two days before Pearl Harbor, and when even the average citizen in the street knew that we were on the verge of war, Fish rose on the floor of the house and said: ". . . I believe the day we go into war we will have lost, altho we may be victorious in 5, 10 or 20 years . . . and at a cost of 100 billion dollars a year. One or two years of war would bankrupt America. . . . That is the alternative, communism abroad and the loss of our free institutions, bankruptcy, impoverishment, and ruin and disaster at home."

And on Jan. 9, 1942 [make note of the date], 30 days after we had declared war upon Japan and Germany, Fish spoke in the house as follows: "Our economic, financial, and American system of free enterprise will be set back a hundred years as a result of the war. . . . The victor goes down with the vanquished into bankruptcy, lower standards of living, and economic chaos."

Such a statement, coming at a time when this country is in the midst of its gravest national peril, does not stamp Fish as competent to represent a congressional district in time of war. If we are to win, defeatism of this character must be stamped out the country over. But now Fish is going around his district saying that we cannot lose the war. This is equally a disservice in the war effort.

What kind of a record is this upon which to ask the voters to return Fish to congress? MONTGOMERY B. ANGELL.

BARFLIES.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—I think it is time women stop thinking only of themselves. Most of them still hold the idea that the law to keep them away from the bar was passed deliberately to rob them of a right. That isn't at all so. The law was passed for the purpose of protecting the soldier and the sailor from the so-called "knee pushers," "hostesses," or "barflies," whichever term one might want to give them.

At the same time doesn't the law also protect our own husbands and other respectable men? I know mine has been embarrassed when he refused buying a drink for one of these "come on" girls, but he decided that was better than being made a fool of. MRS. ROSE SALAKAR.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Just a few words in praise of our city council for passing the ordinance barring women from drinking at bars. The female barflies should turn their minds to doing some constructive work to help in the war effort. A. C.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—After reading this morning's paper about the cleanout of the barfly I would like to say to Mayor Kelly and Clayton Smith: Keep up the good work and you may rest assured that all the respectable people will support you. There is nothing that lowers a woman's character more than to sit at a saloon bar, amongst a flock of men, puffing her cigaret and drinking. I am not a crab and do not object to a woman taking her sip of wine, a little drink of beer or even a mixed drink, if she prefers, but for heaven's sake, let her stay in her own territory, with her own company. TRIBUNE AIDS NAVAL AIR ENLISTMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—On behalf of our committee I wish to thank you for Carey Orr's wonderful cartoon to stimulate naval air corps enlistments that appeared on the front page of THE TRIBUNE yesterday. We have had numerous telephone calls and I thought you would be glad to know that there is a substantial increase in the number of applicants who are applying at the flight selection board.

Your representative assured us when we launched the drive that we would have the continued cooperation of THE TRIBUNE. This was no surprise to us, because we have had the very finest cooperation from THE TRIBUNE for a year before Pearl Harbor, and it is appreciated by all the members of our committee.

WARREN V. WOODY,
Chairman, Citizens' Naval Air Committee.

FLYING BOXCARS.

Chicago, Aug. 4. — The giant troop transports and freight planes are, indeed, the answer to the shipping problem. As soon as these planes are produced on a mass basis, we shall have turned the U-boat menace on Hitler. The Nazis will then worry over the allied sky menace and their own now useless submarines and U-boat factories.

Victory will not stop production of these flying boxcars. Our merchant marine will be converted to fast air service; America will rule the air, both in war and peace, as it should have done long ago. THOMAS ZUBERSKY.

EMPLOYMENT FEE.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I received a job from an employment agency for which he charged $15. I paid $10 cash and signed a promissory note for $5 and a wage assignment slip. About two months later I paid the $5 in money order. Now the employment agency claims that it has mislaid the promissory note and wage assignment slip, but he will send me a receipt for $5.

1. Is this receipt just as good as the note?

If he finds the note later on [2] will he be able to collect again? J. M.

1. No, in the sense that you might be required to pay a second time to a holder in due course. In general, a promissory note should be paid only to the holder and the canceled note should be obtained at the time the payments are completed.

2. No, but some other person having no notice of your payment might be able to collect. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEW PLANT READY TO BUILD LIBERTY SHIP IN 35 DAYS

Oregon Yards Expected to Cut Time 11 Days.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Oregon Shipbuilding corporation, which has built a Liberty ship in 46 days—a national record—promised today to cut at least 11 days from that record.

The corporation reported completion of a new assembly plant which will permit construction of the 10,500 ton cargo carriers in 35 days or less. The new plant operates something like sub-assembly plants in the automobile and aviation industry, and feeds completed sections of ships to assemblymen on the ways.

Edgar Kaiser, general manager and son of Henry J. Kaiser, who proposes to build 500 75-ton flying boats for the government, said this new development in production speeds construction of ships in three ways:

1. It eliminates congestion of men and materials in hulls on the ways.

Unhindered by Weather.

2. It offers overhead protection to workmen, eliminating the weather as a factor in efficiency.

3. It breaks down assembly into many specialized jobs.

The plant is divided into 11 bays, each 240 feet long and 75 wide. As the men and women workers assemble the bulkheads, forepeaks, bottom sections, and other parts, some weighing 70 tons, huge tractors ferry them onto the ways for final assembly.

At the head of each bay are storage areas holding material and parts for a half dozen completed parts.

"We plan in terms of several ships at once, and do not complete one ship before we start on another," Kaiser said.

Hitch in Cargo Plane Plans.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board tonight gave Henry J. Kaiser a letter authorizing the Pacific coast shipbuilder to submit a report showing engineering plans, facilities, and materials to be used in building 500 "Mars" type cargo planes.

If Kaiser's report shows that construction of the 70 ton flying boats would not interfere with the combat plane program, Nelson said, it is "expected that a contract for the construction of the planes will be negotiated."

The letter did not mention the navy as the agency for which the planes actually would be built, altho this was the original program.

Official sources, declining to be quoted by name, indicated the navy had balked at the plan despite Nelson's approval. The navy's objections, a WPB spokesman indicated, were based on doubt of Kaiser's ability to build the planes in shipyards, as he proposes.

When Kaiser's detailed plans are submitted, they will be considered by the WPB and the navy department, the announcement said.

Reports Gestapo Chief Dies When His Auto Overturns

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—A Polish government source today reported that Lieut. Col. Richard Gassler, German Gestapo chief of the Cracow district of Poland, was killed July 30 when his automobile overturned. This source said the German press was blaming Polish sabotage.

THE QUESTION.

Has the drafting of any member of your family affected the course of your home life?

WHERE ASKED.

La Salle and Washington streets.

THE ANSWERS.

Esther Stone, public office representative, 7757 South Park avenue—My brother-in-law has been drafted and my husband expects to be called any day, so my sister and I are going to keep house together. We shall spend our evenings making fudge and cookies to send to our husbands so they'll remember we can cook.

Antoinette Moreen, clerical worker, 5712 Newark avenue, Norwood Park—We had been married 11 years when my husband was drafted. We both had planned that after our home was our own I would quit work and keep house. It isn't working out that way now. I'm both working and keeping house.

Eleanor Bragiel, money sorter, 4429 South Rockwell street—Before my brother-in-law was drafted he and my sister moved in with us so she wouldn't be alone after he left. That naturally changed our home life and now that she has gone back to work her life is changed a lot.

Joseph Hanasz, clerk, 5335 Sunnyside avenue—When my brother was drafted I was left without a roommate and assumed all the responsibilities at home. We had been living with my mother. Now I'll have a room to myself until I follow in his footsteps.

George R. Planert, Jr., accountant, 5422 Byron street—My younger brother used to be the life of the party and he used to hold many parties at our house. Things at home seem dull now. His friends used to do a lot of group singing but now it is deadly quiet at home.

Anna Blecka, teller, 412 Addison avenue—When the draft came along it took most of our family. My three brothers and I had our home together and now they're serving in the forces. It's hard for me to get used to not waking three sound sleepers in the mornings.

WPB PROHIBITS TIRE REGROOVING WITHOUT OBTAINING PERMIT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The War Production board today prohibited the regrooving of tires without its written approval. Officials said the WPB regarded regrooving as uneconomical and that it made a tire unsuitable for possible recapping in the future. Regrooving is a deepening of existing treads to provide better traction without the addition of any rubber.

NEW DEALERS HIT 'DEFEATISM' IN ARMY AND NAVY

Cling to Old Fashioned Methods, Say Senators.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—War policies of the administration were subjected to full scale debate in the senate today, with New Dealers openly charging the navy and war departments with old fashioned conceptions of waging warfare.

The debate also produced accusations of "defeatism" among officials of the War Production board and other governmental agencies as well as criticism of failure of the navy department under Secretary Frank Knox to curb the German U-boat siege on shipping in American waters.

New Dealers Lead Attack.

There was no Republican participation in the debate and it was unnecessary since Senators Josh Lee [D., Okla.], Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], and Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], all New Dealers, led the spirited attack on conduct of the war. Sen. Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] attempted to defend the navy's policies.

that more attention must be given to air power—the development of air fleets and cargo planes. He urged that an officer from the air branch of the war department be placed in charge of all strategy, with the navy and army made auxiliary to air power.

"I think every one of any responsibility at all wants to win this war but some of them need to revise their thinking and their judgment of things," Lee declared. "It seems to me like it was only two years ago that some of the high officials of the war department before the committee on military affairs were ridiculing the use of parachute troops," said Lee, who is a member of the military affairs committee.

Fail to Use Inventions.

"I know one thing after another we invented that Hitler has taken and used to his advantage after we had discarded it on this side," the Oklahoman continued. "Today if there is any one thing that has been proved in this war it is that air power is going to win.

"Even in the two battles which are pointed to as great naval battles—Coral sea and Midway—the navy did not fire a single gun except into one of her own ships, the Lexington, in order to sink her. The naval ships of the two countries were not within striking power of each other except by the air arm. And land based planes played an important part in both of those battles."

"Why go on and on uselessly with something which we can see is a losing venture, in order to maintain so-called navy traditions?" he asked. "What about our submarine campaign? The estimates show that about 100 of Hitler's submarines are today plying the ocean, and from the increased number of slips it is estimated that there will be 430 submarines by December. Those submarines have concentrated on the sinking of our coastwise trade on this side of the ocean.

Lucas rose to question Lee's qualifications to criticize navy policy, asking whether the Oklahoma senator's judgment should be taken in preference to those "upon whom the government has spent literally millions and billions of dollars to train."

Answers Criticism.

"It is often true that the common man has more common sense than the experts," Lee retorted. "I say that time and again the army and navy experts have been proved to be wrong. I attribute much of Hitler's success today to the fact that he was a layman and planned this war from the standpoint of a layman, he overruled his generals and liquidated some of them.

Lee began the discussion by reporting to the senate on the investigation of his subcommittee of the military affairs committee on cargo aircraft. It was the unanimous opinion of every person who testified before the committee that more cargo and troop transport aircraft are needed, but officials within the government have protested that materials are not available, he said.

Despite evidence that there is plenty of iron ore and scrap iron available for conversion into steel "every time we come to the question of building cargo planes and building more planes we are told there is a shortage of steel," Lee declared.

Official Defeatist Tone.

O'Mahoney interjected that there is a "defeatist attitude" among government officials, who complain that materials are not available. There are plenty of resources in the United States which need only to be utilized, said O'Mahoney.

Lee asserted that while Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman whom he praised, has been sympathetic with the effort to have Henry Kaiser, known as the shipbuilding wizard, build giant cargo planes, there are influences at work against the program and no contract has been awarded to Kaiser yet.

In urging speedy production of huge cargo and troop transport planes, such as the Martin flying boat Mars, to counteract the submarine attacks on shipping, Lee said the government should increase aircraft production by using more plywood, should launch immediately large scale production of big cargo and transport planes, and give the highest priority rating for construction of aircraft, both combat and cargo.

CANADA'S CHUTE TROOPS TO TRAIN IN U. S., BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10 [passed by Canadian censor].—With the training coöperation of American and British authorities, Canada is organizing a new North American specialized fighting force in the formation of the 1st Canadian parachute battalion.

Twenty-six carefully selected Canadian officers and noncommissioned officers are proceeding at once to the United States to take the complete American parachutist course, while an additional Canadian group, chosen from Lieut. Gen. Andrew G. L. McNaughton's troops overseas, is being trained in Britain.

Canada will blend the best features of the American and British systems in a parachutist training camp of its own. Thirty per cent of Canada's parachutists are to be bilingual French Canadians, and linguists will get the edge when it comes to selecting personnel.

"The American authorities certainly have been most coöperative, said Brig. Gen. E. G. Weeks, deputy chief of the Canadian general staff, in announcing plans at an Ottawa press conference today. "They have put their facilities and equipment at our disposal. They are willing to train more of Canada's parachutists if necessary."

STREET CAR CRASH JOLTS EIGHT.

Eight Negro women were shaken and bruised yesterday morning when a northbound Broadway street car on which they were passengers crashed into the rear of a truck at 13th and State streets. The motorman was Harry Latsch.

ASSERTS CANADA RECOGNIZES U. S. WAR LEADERSHIP

Canada recognizes the leadership of the United States in the war and in the postwar peace that is to come and is determined that nothing shall rupture the unity existing between the two countries, Dr. W. G. Hardy told members of the City club at a luncheon yesterday in the La Salle hotel. He is head of the department of classics at the University of Alberta and spoke under the auspices of the Canadian ministry of speakers.

Canada, he said, has 500,000 volunteers in its active fighting forces. Of this number, he explained, 200,000 are serving overseas and an additional reserve army of 130,000, made up of veterans and men over army age, comprises its home guard.

Canada has lent $2,600,000,000 to its own government to prosecute the war and this year made an outright gift of another billion to Great Britain, he said.

Later, during an interview over W-G-N, Dr. Hardy was asked "about criticism of the government [Canadian]."

"My own feeling," he replied, "is that criticism is one of the greatest strengths of a free people if it is based on fact and aimed toward winning a war. Our press has criticized the government and so have some of our leaders, but only to help the war effort."

TWO CONDUCTORS IN FESTIVAL ARE FAMOUS ARTISTS

Nelson, Weber in Charge of Show's Music.

Festival Tickets!

Tickets for the 13th Chicago Music Festival, to be held next Saturday night in Soldiers' field, are on sale at $1.10 at THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices in Tribune tower and at 1 South Dearborn street. Mail orders should reach the Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune tower, no later than today. Checks should be made to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. All 55 cent seats have been sold.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Two of the most profound moments at the Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field next Saturday night will be brought about thru the efforts of two men, each a master in his field. Each dominates a great musical organization that has made Festival history.

They are Henry Weber and Dr. Edgar Nelson. Weber conducts the Festival Symphony orchestra which will number 112 fine musicians this year. Dr. Nelson directs the massed Festival Chorus, which will have more than 3,000 voices.

Annual Closing Number.

The Hallelujah Chorus, from Handel's "Messiah" has been the closing choral number of the Festival every year since it was started in 1930. The blending of hundreds of voices in the soaring, inspirational movements of this work always has stirred the more than 1,100,000 persons who have made up its visible audiences and countless millions who have listened on the radio.

"This year," Dr. Nelson said, "I think the majestic Hallelujah Chorus will have a greater significance for its hearers than ever before. The attitude of America's enemies, their repudiation of God, is the reason for this. Think of those closing lines:

"'For the Lord God omnipotent reigneth

"'And He shall reign forever and ever.'

"It is an assurance, a pledge—and to our enemies a warning—of the ultimate triumph of God and right. The festival this year will have a stirring theme of patriotism and will symbolize the armed might of a nation. The Hallelujah Chorus at its close will supply the theme of religion and faith."

Nelson Brilliant Conductor.

Dr. Nelson took over the Festival chorus on short notice in 1939 and its performance that year was one of its most brilliant. Only a man with great command, with genius, and infinite knowledge could have taken over the thousands of voices and have achieved a success.

That year, as always, the massed chorus was made up of many fine smaller choruses that had been trained by other men. This year, three Chicago groups— two of them with many years of history behind them—will form an important section of the great chorus.

They are under Dr. Nelson's direction all year and are the Apollo Musical club, the city's oldest; the Marshall Field Choral society, in its 37th year, and the Chicago Sunday Evening club. In addition, there will be the great Festival Negro chorus, directed by J. Wesley Jones—which will have a big moment of its own earlier in the show—and many other fine choruses and choirs from the Festival contests.

Dr. Nelson is president of the Chicago Conservatory of Music and in 1920 he won recognition abroad for Chicago singers by taking 80 members of the Swedish Choral club on a European tour. The tour in Sweden assumed the character of a national holiday.

King Gustav V. decorated Dr. Nelson and four others with the order of Valhalla. The entire club was received at the royal palace.

Conducted Civic Opera.

Henry Weber has won a permanent place for his name in Chicago musical history. Tho he was a conductor in his own right and was immensely popular in Vienna and Bremen when he was 23 years old, his work was virtually unknown in this country until the year following —1924.

Then he returned home to conduct a season of the old Chicago Civic opera. The Weber family, one of the city's oldest, founded the Weber wagon works, dating to 1842. Henry was born in Berlin in 1900 while his parents were on a European tour. For more than 20 years he lived abroad and in his early years—when he was about 5—he came in contact with Hungarian gypsy musicians whose work determined him to make music his career.

Refuses Offer in Berlin.

He became a pupil of Richard Strauss — whom he still calls "my master" — later coaching and becoming assistant director of the State opera, formerly the Imperial, in Vienna. From Vienna he went to Berlin, conducting with brilliance at a tryout for Schillings, the director of the largest opera in the German capital.

Schillings offered young Weber a post as assistant director, but Henry wisely refused, going instead to Bremen, where he had been assured six performances at the Municipal opera. He conducted 60, then returned to Chicago, where he conducted "Tannhäuser" as his debut and created a sensation.

His fame in America has grown steadily. He has served both as musical and artistic director of the Chicago City opera, has conducted many concerts, and has become known thruout the nation as musical director of radio station W-G-N. He has been musical director of the festival since 1936, thereby being three years more a veteran of the festival than Dr. Nelson. This year his orchestra's outstanding offering will be the new march overture, "Victory," by Nathaniel Shilkret.

Many factors have entered into the festival's outstanding success as the world's largest presentation of mass music, but it is agreed generally that its classical triumphs of the last few years have been largely due to the efforts and genius of these two men.

VOTE TO INDICT EX-POLICEMAN ON FRAUD CHARGES

A true bill was reported voted yesterday by the grand jury naming Herman Wolff, 2536 North Sawyer avenue, on charges of confidence game and obtaining money under false pretences. Wolff is a former state policeman arrested July 27 for an alleged shakedown of a trucking company executive.

Assistant State's Attorney William Oplatka said Wolff has admitted contacting Israel Harrison, head of a truck transport company, 333 Iron street, and offering to use his influence to "fix" arrest tickets for overloading and other violations by drivers.

Milton Sachs, 7120 Cyril avenue, a brother-in-law of Harrison who signed a warrant against Wolff, was reported to have refused to testify before the grand jury when called yesterday.

CALL MAYOR, 33 OTHERS IN PEORIA GAMBLING PROBE

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 10 [Special].—Thirty-four Peorians, including Mayor E. N. Woodruff, will be subpenaed to appear before a state liquor commission hearing on gambling charges, Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the commission, said today.

Smith's action, which is being made, he said, at the request of Mrs. Helen Lee Lichtweis, Peoria, is the result of charges brought by Mrs. Lichtweis and others last week that there is gambling in Peoria. The hearing at that time was recessed until a later date, which has not as yet been set.

In addition to the mayor, those subpenaed will include Police Chief Edward Wombach, the mayor's secretary, three police officers, the city controler, the city treasurer, other city officials, including four aldermen, among them William P. Buchanan, himself an official of the state liquor commission.

Katharine V. Adams Is Engaged to Midshipman of Abbott Hall

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE young men who come to Chicago to attend the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university's downtown campus continue to take away with them Chicago brides by the score. The latest romantic news concerning a Chicago girl and an Abbott hall midshipman is contained in the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams of Winnetka of the engagement of their daughter, Katharine V. Adams, to William K. V. Volkens, son of Mrs. H. Walter Volkens of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Miss Adams, a graduate of the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., attended Smith college and was graduated from Sarah Lawrence last year, and is a member of the Chicago Junior league. She refused a formal debut party, however, unlike her younger sister, Miss Mary Adams, who was introduced to society in September, 1940.

Mr. Volkens prepared at the Phillips Exeter academy and was graduated from Williams college in 1939. He also was graduated from the Harvard school of business administration.

Elizabeth S. Berryman's Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Scattergood Berryman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Berryman of Riverdale, N. Y., and granddaughter of Mrs. John W. Heywood of Chicago and Minneapolis, to Ensign George Richard Puckhafer, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Puckhafer of New York. Miss Berryman, a graduate of Dobbs Ferry, is a senior at Bryn Mawr college. Her paternal grandfather is John B. Berryman, also of Chicago. Miss Berryman also has two great-grandfathers, Edwin A. Wright and H. O. R. Seifort of Milwaukee.

Capt. and Mrs. Bartle Bull are having a brief reunion in Chicago as Capt. Bull is here for a short time giving lectures at factories. He and the former Rosemary Baur are at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jacob Baur. Capt. Bull has been stationed in Libya, and will return to active duty soon with the British army.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner are expecting their son, Rawleigh Warner Jr., for a two week visit at the end of the month in Lake Geneva, Wis. He is taking the accelerated course at Princeton university in which four years' work is crammed into little more than half that time, and when he is graduated next year he will be a second lieutenant in the artillery. The Warners' youngest daughter, Suzanne, will be introduced to society during the Christmas holidays.

John Fischbecks Parents of Daughter in California.

Congratulations on the birth of their second child, a daughter, are reaching Lieut. Comm. and Mrs. John Fischbeck [Anne Mather-Smith] at the Oakland hotel in Oakland, Cal., where Mrs. Fischbeck and her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Mather-Smith, formerly of Highland Park, are living. Lieut. Comm. and Mrs. Fischbeck arrived in California from their Honolulu home on their annual visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Fischbeck, in San Francisco, on the day Pearl Harbor was bombed, and Lieut. Comm. Fischbeck now is stationed on the west coast. The baby, who has a little brother, John Jr., has been named Grace Harriet, after her two grandmothers.

Members of the John R. Leonard family are looking forward to their usual pleasant holidays at the family summer home in the Adirondacks, war or no war. Daniel Leonard drove his father east recently to open the house. Young Mrs. Leonard departed last night for the camp.

Mrs. William Turpin, who is busy settling a new house in Wayne, may not go to the Adirondacks this summer, but the Hibbard Casselberrys [Mary Elizabeth Leonard] of Winter Park, Fla., and Capt. and Mrs. Frode Jensen [Deborah Leonard] of Syracuse will visit there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan M. Ferguson and their little girls, Margay and Sharon Ann, have arrived from Washington, D. C., to spend two weeks with Mrs. Ferguson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde T. Hays, in Wilmette.

Outward bound are the Charles H. Morses, whose destination is Arrowhead Springs, Cal.; also Mr. and Mrs. Vernon M. Welsh, who left yesterday for a rest in the Teton mountains.

Granstrom-Mangel Wedding Will Take Place on Friday.

When Robert Almar Granstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Martin Granstrom of Winnetka, found he could get away from his studies with the medical detachment at a Florida air base this week, he and Miss Venita Mangel, daughter of Mrs. John Mangel and the late Mr. Mangel, also of Winnetka, decided to be married on Friday. The ceremony will take place in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church. Ensign Bruce Granstrom, who has just received his wings from a southern naval air base, will be his brother's best man, and another brother, Norman Granstrom, whose wife is the former Elaine Mangel, sister of the bride, will usher. The Granstroms have a third son in the service, Lieut. Donald M. Granstrom, U. S. N., who is somewhere in the Pacific.

Mrs. Norman Granstrom will be her sister's maid of honor, and George Mangel will give his sister in marriage. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Georgian hotel.

Two Olympic divers and two comic divers will entertain between 6:30 and 7 o'clock next Saturday afternoon at the North Avenue Day nursery benefit party for which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham are opening their Winnetka home. The party will start early in the afternoon with tennis, swimming, and badminton on the program, followed by cocktails, an outdoor supper, and dancing in the house. Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr. is in charge of decorations, which will be kept simple but colorful. Mrs. William W. Miller is the entertainment chairman. Each member of the nursery board is inviting 10 couples to the party. Among Mrs. Robert McKenna's guests will be Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Collins of Omaha.

Fashion Show.

While Henry Barbour, director of continuity writers at W-G-N, was busy helping stage The Tribune fashion show preview last Friday afternoon, his staff, taking advantage of unaccustomed leisure, cooked up their own idea of a fashion show script, giving their chief a gentle ribbing by making him the mannikin. Here are some colorful excerpts:

Music: "You Slay Me to Peeeces" . . . Fade for:

Announcer: And now comes the piece de stuff of the entire showing. Here is that exquisite thing, Henry Barbour—wearing a costume which is truly a masterpiece of artful chicannery! It is of gabardine, or possibly tropical worsted cut in the most beautifully droopy lines you have ever seen. The double breasted effect provides a truly tasteful droop-drape, with room to carry a camp stool concealed in the bosom. The necktie is largely subdued by the flopping wings of the collar, but now and then an artful movement discloses the full glory of this cravat. The swirling, spiral effect of the trouser leg is achieved by cutting the mannikin's knees on the bias and putting a swivel effect at the end of the spine. . . . The other leg is, of course, geared to do the opposite motion. . . . The coat can be used as a spare top for the roadster, or in case of being called to the colors, as a pup tent. The pants are designed to carry a complete week's laundry, or if desired, can be fitted out as a portable bar.

Historic Timepiece.

Our recent mention of an ancient clock seen in a Lebanon, Pa., hotel prompted Lenore Healy to mention an equally interesting timepiece that stands in the main floor corridor of Mercy hospital. Presented to the institution many years ago by Charles Lehman of Fort Wayne, Ind., the clock still keeps time. On it is this inscription:

"This clock was the property of Col. Charles Lehman of Valley Forge, Pa., an officer in the Revolutionary war. During the winter of 1776, Gen. Washington and Lafayette stopped at Col. Lehman's home and frequently set their watches by this clock. This ancient timepiece was presented to Sister Mary Ignatius Feeney in April, 1871, by Charles Lehman, grandnephew of Col. Lehman of Valley Forge, Pa."

Conductor.

Pierre Monteux gave added proof of his unfailing graciousness at a recent Ravinia concert when the audience, forgetting its musical manners in its enthusiasm, applauded between movements of Tschaikowsky's Fourth, which he was conducting. Monteux not only accepted each salvo, but at one point signaled to the orchestra to rise and bow. Thus the exception proved the rule, and everybody was happy.

Tribute.

"Bus drivers are philosophers. If I catch the 4 o'clock bus coming toward town I always hope the seat just behind the driver is vacant, because I do enjoy hearing his comments on people and things. His unfailing courtesy even under the pressure of enough questions to stump the experts is refreshing. Such as where to get off and how to get there after getting off, making change, being patient with people who get on at a nonstation stop, watching traffic, making the time schedule. Bus drivers should be eligible for the diplomatic corps. Here's to Lyle, Art, and Dick—gentlemen!—6 o'clock bus taker."

Action, Camera!

With many publications sponsoring photographic contests for men in service, the boys who spend their leisure hours at the Wabash avenue USO club, sponsored by the National Catholic community service, have reason to be pretty pleased these days. Thanks to Mildred Bruder of the Chicago public library, a camera has been made available to those who want to browse around Chicago and snap possible prize shots, or just take pictures of their best girls.

Lange Makes Park Audience Forget Cold

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Neither cold winds, ominous blue-black clouds, nor a sullen lake can dismay the more robust type of music lover, and a fairly large group of the faithful turned up at Grant park last night to hear the Chicago Symphony orchestra play the third of its lake front concerts.

Hans Lange and his musicians did everything they could to make their listeners forget their bleak surroundings. If good music, magically played, can take one's mind off of one's physical sufferings [and it can, indubitably, if the sufferings are not too great], then Smetana's "The Moldau" must have done it.

The glorious melodies which have kept "The Moldau" one of the dozen most popular works in the whole symphonic repertoire were delivered with a wonderful ease and flexibility and aliveness. The passion which the composer put into this musical delineation of the river of his Bohemia reached and moved even last night's half frozen audience.

"The Moldau" was preceded by Smetana's "Vysehrad" [from the same cycle, "My Fatherland"] and followed by his sunny overture to "The Bartered Bride." The program held still another Czech work, Dvorak's "New World" symphony.

The soloist was Dudley Powers, a member of the orchestra's cello section. He played the Fauré elegy with a luminous tone and an unforced nobility of phrase. After that he proceeded to project successfully both the languor and the frenzy of a Popper Hungarian rhapsody—the languor a little more successfully than the frenzy.

For an encore he offered the berceuse from Godard's "Jocelyn," and actually made it sound like a beautiful and important melody again. At its conclusion cheers were mixed in with the applause—a rare and surely a welcome sound in the ears of a cellist.

Mrs. Harold Bishop, newly elected president of the Southtown Woman's club, will entertain the club members today at her summer home in Long Beach, Ind.

Parley Planned on Children's Wartime Care

A committee of nursery school and child welfare leaders will meet in the office of the Association of Family Living, 220 South State street, at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon to advise the newly formed WPA child protection program on the care of children during wartime. The program combines the administration of 18 nursery schools in Cook county, and 14 play groups and 13 family living teacher units in Chicago.

One plan will be to convert certain present nursery schools into schools designed for the children of working mothers, as provided in a $6,000,000 fund earmarked by congress. The development of Christopher House, 2507 North Greenview avenue, already has begun. The expansion in most of the nurseries, which are located in settlement houses, churches, and suburban schools, will consist of instituting a 12 or 13 hour daily schedule, and serving two or more meals every day. The rest periods and supervised play periods also will be lengthened.

Mrs. Amelia H. Baker, district director of the WPA service division, said there will be a small charge at nursery schools for the children of employed mothers, but that free nursery schools will be continued in needy communities.

Mrs. Baker said the development of the schools is hampered by the lack of qualified persons on the smaller WPA rolls who could act as supervisors. She expects the program to depend more and more on volunteers. Currently there are 21 volunteers giving a minumum of six hours service every week.

The committee will discuss improvement of the WPA play groups, which are located in park fieldhouses and housing projects, where split shifts, night work, and other problems must be met. The Family Living teachers' program offers instruction to parents on the questions of food, morale, and housing and is closely integrated with the nursery schools and the play groups.

SYNOPSIS.

Covering the Spanish Civil war in Madrid, James Milcom, an English journalist with Loyalist sympathies, meets Raquel, the Condesa de Verdura, seeking a tin of milk for her starving child. Once wealthy, her beauty famous, her husband notorious for his infidelities, she now lives in a basement and her husband is in prison. James befriends and aids her, but her child dies. Then he takes her into France near the frontier so she can be with her sister, the duquesa. Rosemary Oldhead, an English girl, vacationing with her parents at a frontier hotel, is intrigued by the duquesa and becomes greatly interested in newspaper men and spies.

INSTALMENT VIII.

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE.

They sat down. Mr. Crumpaun of Universal Press beckoned to Ladislas, the spy. Drinks were brought. Mr. Crumpaun, who had a rather undefined Canadian accent, put thru a few genial inquiries as to why the Oldhead family were in S. Jean, but he did it very nicely—he was a comfortable sort of man.

Having satisfied himself that it was for reasons of health, he next inquired if Mr. Oldhead was comfortable at the Grande Bretagne. "It's the best food here, if the pub itself is a bit mothy."

And then, as usual, he began to discuss the war in Spain. Both he and the blonde were rather pro-Franco, it appeared. She used the expression "those Reds" more than once. Mr. Oldhead began to get restive, and at last asked her why she thought the Republicans were worse than the Franquistas?

"But they're Red!" she protested, opening immense pale eyes, under plucked and darkened eyebrows.

Mr. Oldhead gave a helpless shrug.

"All Spaniards are a lot of killers, anyway," Mr. Crumpaun observed easily, "but I think maybe the Barcelona lot got in a bit ahead of the others and did a bit more. There were some terrible things done. There's a woman in this town who had her husband and son killed before her eyes in a way I couldn't describe to you."

"Do you mean the duquesa?" Rosemary inquired.

"Yeah—know her?"

"No—do you?"

"Not to mention. I know a bit about her, tho. I hear she's shifting to our hotel—food's too bad at the Moderne."

"Have all these people got money—in spite of the revolution and all that?" asked Mrs. Oldhead, whose first week's bill at the Grande Bretagne had slightly alarmed her.

Mr. Crumpaun cocked a shrewd eye at her.

You've hit on one of the great Spanish mysteries, Mrs. Oldhead—how the refugees live! Her husband was one of the very rich men in Spain, but I guess they've lost pretty well everything. All their property was over that side. I hear she's going to take some sort of job, tho—going back to run the female Falange."

"But what does Franco want with spies out here?" Mr. Oldhead asked, a little incredulously.

"Don't know what he gets, but it's quite a racket, by all accounts," said Mr. Crumpaun. "They're supposed to have a big organization this side of the frontier, and I was told the other day that the head of it stays quite close by here—Guethary or Biarritz."

"I wonder if there's any news of the condesa," Mrs. Jones observed to Mr. Crumpaun. "That's the duquesa's sister," she explained to the Oldheads—"the condesa de Verdura. She's the famous beauty, you know. They say she's the most beautiful woman in Europe."

"So far as I know there's been nothing heard of her for months," said Mr. Crumpaun. "She and the child were supposed to have been in Madrid."

He turned to Mr. Oldhead. "That's one of the real horrors of war, this time," he said. "Half of these people have no idea whether their nearest and dearest are dead or alive."

"The conde de Verdura is alive. He's in a prison on the Barcelona side, somewhere," Mrs. Jones volunteered.

"Yes, that's so. Shouldn't think that would break the condesa's heart, if she's still got a heart to break," said the journalist, lighting a cheroot.

"Why not?" Rosemary asked, her brown eyes immense with interest.

"Well—" Mr. Crumpaun hesitated, and glanced sideways at Rosemary's parents. "He's a bit of a tough guy, the conde, and runs around rather a lot," he finally said, inconclusively. Mrs. Jones had no such scruples, however.

"Rich as he is, they say he'd pretty well ruined himself over his ladies," she said airily. "Why, he gave that dancer a pearl necklace that they say was worth a hundred thousand pounds."

"It was his wife's, anyway, so that won't have broken him. But we needn't go into all that, Madeleine," said Mr. Crumpaun, with a significant glance at Rosemary. "The best of that family," he went on, briskly changing the subject, "was the duquesa's brother, Juanito. He was one of the straight Spaniards—went in for politics, and really tried to pull things round. And when the war began they say he made a magnificent soldier."

"You say was—is he dead?" Mr. Oldhead asked.

"Supposed to be—very stickily finished off by the Reds, when they caught him."

"Anyway they said he was a spy," Mrs. Jones as usual added her quota.

It was time for the Oldheads to leave. Mr. Oldhead still insisted abroad on lunching at his home hour of 1:15. They walked down the draughty little street toward their hotel.

The Hotel Bretagne was built in the days of Queen Victoria, when the regular winter sojourns in Biarritz of the prince of Wales brought an annual flow of English visitors to the Basque coast, and its solid, comfortable, slightly shabby furnishings recalled that epoch, if they did not indeed date from it. The hall was always light, but as no windows were ever opened in either, the same stuffy warmth at all times pervaded both. Crumpaun was fond of cutting a joke about this—"The hotel's air conditioned," he would say; "the air's in the same condition now as it was when it was built."

Rosemary liked it, undoubtedly being here was fun; only the meals were awful, especially lunch, when they and an old parson were the only people eating in that hot bright room. She wished the journalists didn't always lunch out, and so much later. It was much more amusing at dinner, when they were there to be watched.

About the middle of the afternoon, when Mr. Oldhead had rested, Mrs. Oldhead had read the "Epoch," and Rosemary had fidgeted over her Spanish grammar, they prepared as usual to set out for a walk. In the hall of the hotel they encountered Mr. Crumpaun, cigar in hand, bright and jolly after his morning of drinks and a late lunch.

"Like a drive?" he inquired. "I have to go over to Irun, in case this nonintervention party comes out. They say he may be along this afternoon. Care to come? Lots of room in the car."

Mr. Oldhead did not care to. He had his elaborate camera strung round his shoulder, and all his little special gadgets in his pocket. He was going to do some photography, he explained. But Rosemary and her mother cared to very much indeed, and they squashed into the back of the hired car, one on each side of Mr. Crumpaun's cheerful bulk, and set out for Irun.

To island dwellers like the English, frontiers have not the same significance that they bear for continentals. Mrs. Oldhead's and Rosemary's personal experience of frontiers had so far been limited to Swiss customs officials coming into their second class carriage at 3 in the morning at Valorbes. They had never seen one in their lives, and when Mr. Crumpaun's car pulled up in the long straight street that approaches the International bridge at Irun they got out and looked about them with the liveliest interest.

The bridge certainly looked the part perfectly. It was closed at either end by wire barriers, painted red and white. As far as the middle, tricolor flags fluttered from little masts on either parapet, beyond that hung the red and gold of Spain—below flowed the muddy Bidassoa. A group of journalists already hung about the passport office on the left of the French barrier, others were chatting to the functionaries from the police and customs depot on the right—their cars extended up the street in a long, shiny line.

"No sign of him yet," they told Mr. Crumpaun. Mr. Crumpaun beguiled the time of waiting by pointing out various items of interest to the two Oldheads. Above the bridge the Bidassoa curved between flat, damp fields. Along the Spanish bank little sentry boxes stood at intervals, and between them soldiers in shabby indeterminate uniforms, with rifles, strolled to and fro.

"They look bored," said Rosemary.

"Guess they are," said Mr. Crumpaun. "They're so bored they'll shoot at anything. In the summer they shot a girl who went swimming and got farther across than they liked."

"Who can go into Spain?" Mrs. Oldhead asked.

"Only people with salvo conductos, and only those if their names are on the list. They keep a list of the people who have salvos, but the chap can't always find their names," said Mr. Crumpaun. "Terribly sticky and illiterate these little Spanish officials."

A car drove up, and the journalists, bored with waiting, gathered round it while the papers were examined. Crumpaun saw the duquesa de las Illas get out of it and start to cross the bridge on foot.

"Hullo! What's she after?" he asked his colleagues.

Double Header of Fun, That's Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Because I know that baseball games and the movies are favorites with most of you boys and girls, the program coming to the Palace theater seemed just perfect for our next party because it's a combination of the two.

One hundred boys and girls will have an opportunity to see a pretty fine show with me on Thursday, Aug. 20, and the winners won't be selected until day after tomorrow, so if you haven't already written for an invitation to that party you still have time to do so.

We're going to see "The Pride of the Yankees," which stars Gary Cooper and has a number of famous baseball players, including Babe Ruth and Bill Dickey, in the cast. It's the story of Lou Gehrig and portrays his life from the time he was a boy of 11.

There's all sorts of talent in this film and in addition to baseball stars we'll enjoy Veloz and Yolanda, the dancers, and Ray Noble and his orchestra.

Any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation to this party. All you have to do is convince me that you'd have a very good time if you were invited to be my guest. If you write a good letter, remember to tell me your full name, address, and your age, and see to it that I have your note not later than next Thursday morning. You may be a winner.

The lists of youngsters selected as my guests for this party will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, and if you expect to be included, better send that letter right away to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Thru the Looking Glass

There is a decided trend, we find, toward lighter nail polish shades, especially for everyday wear. Some women, particularly those with jobs that require handling of machinery, are leaving polish off entirely. It gets too messy—and they would rather have no polish at all than a lacquer coat that's grubby and chipped.

For them, the old method of polishing the nails has decided advantages. If they don't want color they can at least have gloss—and a method of having that is to use powder polish and a buffer. They'll get a nice high sheen, and as a matter of fact will find that the nails will be a little healthier than they might otherwise be. Buffing is good for nail health.

* * *

It's important not to buff the nails until they literally get hot. A little friction is healthful for them—too much is not. Buff with light, firm strokes and for just a few minutes at a time. Don't pound away at it until the nail begins to sting; that's a good way to bruise it. The best method is to buff the nails a couple of times a day for short periods rather than for one long session.

Keep the nail tips as clean as you possibly can if you're not using a colored polish. But don't dig beneath the tip any more than you absolutely have to. Digging tears the skin there, which only means that dirt has an even better chance to get lodged. Use a little brush or a blunt tipped stick, or a hand brush, with lots of warm soap suds.

Coats with Fur Trim Included in August Sales

BY REA SEEGER.

All the exciting August fur sales prices are not confined exclusively to furs . . . for your next winter's fur trimmed fabric coat is tagged with a special price during these last days of summer. Consequently it's good shopping to buy your winter cloth coat now. Some of the most beautiful fur trimmed models ever displayed have been on sale for a week now with more to come.

These are the days to see and succumb to the beauties in dull black wool trimmed lavishly with such brown furs as mink, kolinsky, nutria, silky sheared beaver and brown Persian lamb. This sophisticated contrast of black with brown is still one of the smartest and most popular combinations, next the always classic all-black models [fur and fabric]. Brilliantly colored wool coats also boast the flattering contrast of brown fur. Almond or emerald green is combined with nutria, red with brown Persian lamb, and beige, caramel, and the neutral tones of gray are particularly effective accented with bands, collars and deep cuffs of these spicy brown pelts.

Winter coat silhouettes are varied enough to assure easy shopping selections. There are dozens of the newer tuxedo collared, slightly flared fox coats designed for all-purpose or dress parade wear, according to the color and fabric. Also listed among the top favorites are the dress parade coats of dull black wool fashioned in softer silhouettes . . . fulness evenly shirred at the sides or at the waistline, then held in position with narrow belts. Unbelted coats, luxuriously fur trimmed, are available for all figurelines, short and petite, mature, and the stunning coats with much fur for the tall and willowy.

The best shopping news is that a winter fur trimmed coat can be selected during the August sales for an August sales price mark and held for winter, just like an all-fur coat.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Gelatin desserts based upon the flavored, prepared mixes need no sugar to sweeten them. They're easily made, and many of them are very good. Take cherry port wine pudding, for example.

I made this dessert just recently and served it with a soft custard. It "went over" so well that I thought I'd better pass on the directions. I used lemon gelatin, dissolving it in 1 cup of hot water. I then added ⅔ cup port wine and 1 cup chopped fresh sweet cherries, and chilled the mixture until sirupy. Then I folded in half a cup of whipped cream and piled the pudding in sherbet glasses to chill. How simple, but how good!

Here are a few other suggestions. In addition, there are the innumerable simple combinations of flavored gelatin and fruit.

Peach Cola Dessert.
[Serves Six.]

1 package lemon gelatin
2 bottles cola beverage
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup diced fresh peaches

Heat one bottle of soft drink with the water and use it to dissolve gelatin. Cool, add other bottle of cold beverage, salt and chill. Add peaches when mixture begins to congeal. Chill until firm, and serve with whipped cream. Peaches may be omitted, if desired, or other fruit may be used.

Applesauce Fluff.
[Serves Eight.]

1 package lime or lemon gelatin
2 cups warm water
1 cup thick, strained applesauce

Dissolve gelatin in warm water, chill until sirupy. Place in bowl of ice or ice water, and whip until fluffy and thick. Fold in applesauce, turn into a mold, and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with custard sauce or whipped cream. Applesauce may be spiced, if liked.

The same kind of dessert may be made with prune pulp, stewed or canned plum pulp, or other fruits.

Fruit Macedoine.
[Serves Eight.]

1 package orange gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water or orange juice
2 peaches, sliced
¾ cup raspberries
¾ cup seedless white grapes
1 cup blueberries

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add cold water, and pour a thin layer into the bottom of a loaf pan. Chill. Chill remainder of gelatin until it begins to set. Arrange layer of peaches on firm gelatin in the pan. Cover with layer of thickened gelatin. Add layer of raspberries, then grapes and blueberries, pouring some of the thickened gelatin over each layer. Chill until firm, slice, and serve with soft custard or whipped cream.

Apricot and Sherry Jelly.
[Serves Six.]

1 package strawberry gelatin
1 cup hot water
½ cup apricot juice [from canned fruit]
½ cup sherry wine
6 halves canned apricots

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and add fruit juice and wine. Pour into six molds, in each of which you have placed half an apricot. Chill until firm, turn out, and garnish with whipped cream.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

TOMATO LIME COCKTAIL
[Four small servings.]

½ cucumber, chopped fine
1 14-ounce can tomato juice [about 1¾ cups]
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon fresh lime juice

Have cucumber finely chopped and add to tomato juice. Let stand in refrigerator for at least 1 hour. Strain juice, forcing thru as much cucumber pulp as possible. Just before serving, add salt and lime juice.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 10.—Jinx Falkenburg has been given a big build-up as the typical American girl, which she is. So what does Columbia do for her? Cast her as a Russian princess. Now I ask you! . . . New York Newspaperman Tex McCrary, who has been seen frequently with Jinx, is here with Walter Marvin, New Yorker, to start a ground training school for high school boys, ages 18 and 19, to be modeled after those in England. Understand the government is interested in the movement, but will do nothing for or against it until mid-November.

Jinx Falkenburg.

When Stars Are Fans.

The story that Red Skelton stopped his show at Fort Riley, Kas., when he spied Joe Louis in the audience, came down off the stage, and asked for an autograph, reminds me of the time some years ago when Mr. Hearst entertained Lindbergh on his yacht. Among the guests was Charlie Chaplin, who waited until Lindbergh was leaving, and as he saw him disappearing in the tender said, "Gee, I wish I'd had nerve enough to ask for his autograph!" . . . The Jack Dawns have separated, with Maria filing suit for divorce and custody of their two children this week. She will charge mental cruelty. Once before there was a separation. The Oxford movement reunited them, after which a child was born. . . . Gene Tierney didn't want her sister, Pat, aged 16, to start a career, so Pat ups and changes her name, hires herself an agent, and already has made a test. . . . Two horse drawn cabs, headed for Producer Gregory Ratoff's street scene in "Something to Shout About," passed a couple of elderly lady visitors on the lot. "My," said one of them, "they told me back in New York the gasoline shortage hadn't reached California!"

Comediennes' Paradise.

No wonder Joan Davis is right up there in the front row of our comediennes. While shooting scenes at Pickfair for my next "Hedda Hopper's Hollywood" short, in which were modeled costumes that have appeared on the covers of the Saturday Evening Post since that magazine was started, we came upon one bathing suit that was so funny I didn't think any one would wear it. But up pops Joan and asks whether she can't pose in it. Wait until you see her! . . . June Havoc did the same thing with Gay Nineties sweaters and bloomers, etc., and when Mrs. Meyer of the Post gave her an old-fashioned feather boa, you would have thought some one had handed her a diamond necklace. . . . Lola Lane, in a red velvet gown, was doing "bumps" on one of our hottest days. . . . June Duprez, in gingham, carried a bowl of apples. . . . Ona Munson, in the audience, had such a good time with the soldiers who come to Pickfair every Wednesday she asked whether she might come every Wednesday, too. . . . Among the onlookers were Mack Sennett, who knows all about bathing beauties, and Mal St. Clair, who directed them, and I don't know why these two aren't doing pictures today. . . . Joyce Matthews, like any good wife, was boasting about Husband Milton Berle's success on his personal appearance tour. . . . And Anita Louise lent her lovelinss as one of the original Vacs canteen girls.

Mr. Cugat Makes Good.

Xavier Cugat is returning to Hollywood. After looking at the rough cuts of him for "You Were Never Lovelier," they're bringing him out for a comedy part in "Cover Girl." Sure, his band comes with him. What did you think? . . . Megan Taylor, star of the "Icecapades," has been set for one of the feminine leads in the new Arlene Miller play, "Out of This World." . . . Maxie Rosenbloom says he doesn't like a suit with two pairs of trousers—it's too warm. . . . Rita Hayworth is trying to arrange a screen test for her young cousin, Carmina Cansino, who has just arrived here from New York. She is 13 years old, which is the age at which Rita started her career, and bears a striking resemblance to her. . . . Billy Gilbert defines an optimist as a guy who starts a conversation with an actor—and expects to finish a sentence. . . . Wouldn't you know Sam Goldwyn would refuse to let Warners have the last glamor opening in Hollywood before the dim-out? Sam's turning proceeds from "The Pride of the Yankees" opening, Aug. 20, to the naval aid auxiliary. Dim-out goes on two nights later, which will end an era of flashy premières. Sid Grauman started them at the Egyptian theater, March 25, 1923. Picture was "The Covered Wagon."

Weddings—Las Vegas Style.

Over on the "Presenting Lily Mars" set we got talking about weddings. Judy Garland's was a prize. She, her parents, and Dave Rose flew to Las Vegas, where a friend of Dave's was to prepare things. Friend never showed up, but a tall, skinny stranger met them, stopped en route to crowd a friend into the car, detoured to deliver friend at his home. When they arrived at the judge's office Judy, who'd insisted on a bride's bouquet, found three little blooms in a glass on the judge's desk, which she pinned to her dress with a bobby pin. Then the judge insisted on calling her Louise, instead of Frances, her real name. When he said: "Repeat after me, please —'I, Louise, take thee, David——'" Judy burst into tears and wailed: "I'm Fraaances." As they left the judge called cheerily: "Congratulations, Dave and Louise." . . . Then Director Norman Taurog told about his wedding, also at Las Vegas. Took along a friend who was entrusted with the ring. At the crucial moment, of course, he couldn't find it. After practically tearing his clothes off, ring was discovered in the lining of his coat, rescued, promptly dropped, where it lodged in a crack in the floor. Judge finally pried it out with a pocketknife.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Since Joan Crawford's screen appearances are infrequent nowadays, wouldn't you think that her producer would make a slight attempt to find a story with something in it to challenge her talents? "They All Kissed the Bride," a rehash of the hackneyed tale of the business woman who has to be softened into love by cave man tactics, does very little for Miss Crawford. Anybody else could have done her part passably well, for the scenario is patchy, disorganized, and finally extremely dull, and she seldom has anything to get her teeth into.

It is with sadness that I report the deficiencies of this second rate film, for even after seeing it I am convinced, as always, that Miss Crawford is one of the real first raters of the screen. As a personality she is positive and forceful, and yet both beautiful and likeable; and as an actress she knows every side of her business as few others do.

The first part of the film is rather more entertaining than the last. When Miss Crawford is hewing to the line as a bloodless business executive she remains quite interesting. The softening process, however, takes a long time, and turns into a monotonous bore.

Some of the other people in the cast help to make the botched and meandering story more palatable. Melvyn Douglas seems to be turning into something of a William Powell, tho he has not acquired Powell's elegant finish as an actor. Billie Burke has a few chances to flutter amusingly in familiar vein, but she is a sad victim of type casting, as also are Roland Young and Allen Jenkins. Nydia Westman has a few appealing moments as a secretary, even if she is hard put to it to feel at ease when she delivers platitudes upon the beauty of marriage to the receptive ear of the feminized Miss Crawford.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

On many occasions the opponents' bidding gives much more reliable information than can be had from any table of probabilities. It is only logical, in those cases, to put aside the rules of play that are based on probabilities. As every beginner knows, a declarer who has nine cards of a suit, in his own hand and dummy, missing only the queen among the honors, should "play for a drop." This rule, however, applies only in the absence of better guidance. In the hand below it was perfectly logical for the declarer to finesse for a queen even tho his own hand and dummy had nine of the suit.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	4 hearts	4 spades
Pass	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
Pass	5 spades	[final bid]

The bidding is worthy of note, if for no other reason than that each player bid perfectly. West was tempted to double five spades, but, realizing that his partner must have extraordinary length in hearts, sensed that he could not count on two heart tricks. There was too good a chance to defeat the contract to incur a possibly large penalty at six hearts, but not enough assurance of defeating it to warrant a double.

West opened the heart king and continued with the ace. Declarer ruffed, drew trumps, and then had to face the proposition of finding the club queen. So-called "normal" play was to lay down the ace, then to play low to the king, hoping for a 2-2 break. The bidding, however, had been extremely significant. West had shown the ace-king of hearts, and was marked with the ace of diamonds to give him an original bid. East, then, could hold no card higher than a queen and yet had bid four and five hearts. This left an overwhelming presumption that he had depended on extraordinary distribution and made it unlikely that he had started with two club losers. On that sound reasoning, declarer cashed the club ace and, when both opponents followed, finessed on the next round to dummy's jack. When it held, the contract was safe.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

An example of how individual women have made their own special places in war work is Mrs. Irene Webb's knitting class. Mrs. Webb, who lives at 1202 Granville avenue and who recently was installed as senior regent of the Greater Chicago chapter of the Women of the Moose, has been teaching knitting every Monday evening for the last year. She conducts her class in the Moose clubrooms at 130 North Wells street. When the club installation took place this summer part of the ceremony was devoted to giving 10 women Red Cross pins for 144 hours of service. Their hours of service were amassed for knitting, and of the 10 only two knew how to knit when Mrs. Webb began the class.

Mrs. Irene Webb.

Mrs. Webb doesn't devote all her time to being senior regent of Women of the Moose and a knitting teacher. She's also a business woman—an accountant for a large theater supply house.

The United Service Organizations club in Highwood operated by the National Catholic Community service publishes a weekly paper, The Mike, with a complete social calendar of events which should make planning by the club's "patrons" an easy matter. Last night, for instance, was Write-a-Letter-Home night. Tonight is the occasion for the midweek dance, a day ahead of time because of tomorrow night's black-out. Thursday and Friday are listed as game nights. There's a dance Saturday night, and the fellows who don't do so well evidently have an opportunity to brush up in time for the next party. The paper reports a dance class the day after, Sunday, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The Mike makes up its news budget from such items as a Highwood housewife's donation of a batch of cookies or a report of the progress of the letter writing between the canteen hostess, Mrs. Margaret Dean, and the small boy in an eastern sanatorium. The youngster is the little brother of a private who just happened to ask Mrs. Dean to send a greeting.

The Women's War Service club is the name of a group of Chicago women engaged in packing boxes for men in service. What these little boxes of simple items can mean to men in the armed forces is exemplified in this excerpt from a letter sent by Col. Robert Wemette: "At a time such as we are undergoing now these things that seem so small to you bring a great deal of cheer to us. To know we are not forgotten is a feeling of joy in itself." He also suggests: "In the next box which you say you will send several items may be eliminated. 1. Needles. 2. Bandages. 3. Toothbrush. 4. Comb. Every soldier can use a 'blitz cloth' for polishing brass, etc. A fingernail file may be included. . . ."

Members of Zonta Club International will meet at luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Illinois room of the Palmer House. The occasion will be a sendoff party for Miss Gretchen Kroch, first member of the club to be enrolled in the women's army auxiliary corps.

The woman's auxiliary to the Chicago Medical society may now post a service flag. One of its members, Mrs. Nicholas A. Ferri, has been accepted as a candidate for a commission in the Waac and is in training in Fort Des Moines, Ia. Dr. Ferri also is in the army and expects to be called into service soon with the medical corps.

When Miss Hilda Beal, geography mistress of Yorkshire, lectured in Chicago last month she said, in an interview for this column, that the English people considered education for the peace after this war so important that, in general, men school teachers past 35 are excused from military service. Miss Beal came to this country at the invitation of the American Association of University Women to tell about the English women's rôle in war work. Her emphasis on the importance of training a generation for carrying out the peace was evidently a kind of prediction of the trend of training for British service women.

A release from the British information services describes the ABCA, the initials standing for the Army Bureau of Current Affairs, as Britain's newest thought stimulating organization. Its aims are to help British women return to civilian life at the end of the war with enough initiative and training to choose a career intelligently, if they want one. It also is devoted to helping women gain enough general knowledge to enjoy the life they choose and to aid other people in enjoying theirs.

With a curriculum founded on the theory that all Auxiliary Territorial Service members [those women enrolled in cooking and clerical jobs and in manning anti-aircraft guns] have much in which they can interest each other, the ABCA is setting up "teach each other" classes. Bookkeeping, singing, dancing, beauty culture, and dozens of other subjects are thus available. A popular class is a course of instruction in how to deal with small household emergencies such as repairing the vocuum cleaner or putting a new washer into a faucet. Charity James is the name of the woman selected six months ago as principal senior commander for the women's work in the ABCA. She began her job of interesting the ATS girls in lectures by training with them as a private for five weeks in order to find out what they'd like to know.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Baby Health Is War Work on Home Front

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Health for babies and their mothers is right at any time. But now, with our eyes on so many aims in connection with the winning of this war, we [the general public] must be especially vigilant to secure that health for America's mothers and babies. Now, with so many young fathers in the armed forces, extra care, thought, and effort are needed to see that their wives and babies are cared for.

Perhaps you've been saying to yourself, "What can I do to help my country?" Perhaps the many ways in which women are helping these days are not for you. Perhaps you know, as I do, that certain organizations attract quantities of women, while other fine causes are unpopular. Here, then, is something you can do that will help, not only during war, but later when peace has come: Work for health of babies and their mothers. To do so:

Know what good maternity care is, and see that such knowledge reaches every family in your community.

If you are expecting a baby in your family and do not know how to obtain good care for the mother, ask your physician, a public health nurse, or your city or county health department to advise you.

See that some organization to which you belong studies what your community does to provide good maternity and infant care.

Join with other citizens in getting support and a qualified staff for public maternal and child health services.

If you are not sure how to help, write to your state health department or the United States Children's bureau, for suggestions.

That is what you can work for. And this is what your community should provide:

A local health department, under a fulltime public health officer, well staffed with doctors, sanitary engineers, and public health nurses.

Health centers:

Home visiting service by public health nurses.

A welfare department prepared to give adequate assistance to needy families.

Medical, dental, nursing, and hospital care at public expense for families unable to afford these services.

A hospital that provides:

Special care for maternity patients, including separate wards, delivery rooms, and nursing care.

An obstetrician on the staff. He should be available for consultation with other physicians.

Nurseries and equipment for adequate care of newborn babies, including those born prematurely.

A child specialist [pediatrician] on the staff. He should be available for consultation with other physicians.

With such facilities, baby health is assured.

Is the intelligence test a permanent guide to a child's mental limits? How can the teacher hold the interest of children in studies? Answers to these and scores of other problems are given in "Talks with Teachers," new 28 page booklet by Gladys Huntington Bevans. Get your copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

It's a Gift.

If you return and never even mention
Your sunburn and the lazy days you spent;
The griddle cakes and sausages for breakfast
At 10 o'clock . . . if you are quite content
To show no snapshots of the handsome "looey"
Who overstayed his leave because of YOU;
To tell no tales about the days of sailing
Or nights of glamor in a birch canoe;
Returning, if you get right down to business
And say, "Now this is what I call REAL fun!"
The while you shake the boss' hand and MEAN it—

—Midge.

School vs. Job?

Continuing the discussion begun in yesterday's column whether the girl who is working during the summer but has not completed her education should forget her studies for the duration or go back to school this fall, Clarence H. Faust, acting dean of the college at the University of Chicago, was of this opinion:

"Since education is not a luxury but essential to the preservation of democracy, every woman should have a liberal education if she is capable of acquiring it. On the other hand if a girl is holding an absolutely essential defense post, she should not hesitate to sacrifice her immediate educational aims at a time when men of her age are being asked to sacrifice everything."

Doris Larsh, placement counselor at the university, was also interviewed. She feels that by all means the summertime white collar girl should go back to school.

"Either the college graduate's job is a better one to begin with, or there is a better future in it," she said. "In the competitive life of the business world, the girl who has a degree usually has an edge on those who do not have."

For girls to whom the deciding factor might be the cost of tuition, Miss Larsh spoke of the Study-Employment plan now in effect at the University of Chicago whereby students have classes three days a week and work on alternate days for firms coöperating in the plan.

Dis and Data!

St. Luke's hospital has employed girl elevator operators for the first time since the World War and they are in uniform . . . Girls, back in 1920, used to get $8 to $10 a week for work in the pearl button industry . . . now they get $30 to $35 for the same jobs . . . The placement department of a business school reports, encouragingly enough, an increasing number of requests for 40 year old secretaries. . . . One of the largest wire companies supplying cable for communication to the signal corps has a woman president, the mother of four children, a typical "home woman" whose husband died a few years ago. Without previous business experience the wife stepped into her husband's business, and the story of her success, as told by her admiring young son, is a headliner.

AROFF'S TRIAL CLOSES; GUILTY VERDICT HINTED

Knox to Announce Result of Court Martial.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 10 [Special].—The pageantry of the navy's court martial of Lieut. Comm. Maurice N. Aroff ended here today with no announcement from the gold braided judges as to his guilt or innocence.

The verdict of the court, composed of five retired naval officers and one marine officer, will be announced in Washington, D. C., by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, it was said. Aroff was accused of misconduct and falsehood in seven counts, including a charge that he accepted a gift of an automobile from Tony Martin, screen and radio singing star, for facilitating Martin's navy enlistment.

Late in the day after hearing final arguments and deliberating for an hour and a half, the judges ordered the courtroom cleared and then closed.

Hint Verdict of Guilty.

Experts in naval etiquet said this is the procedure prescribed by regulations when a defendant has been found guilty. These regulations provide that the court's findings and recommendations be forwarded to Washington for review by naval authorities and for subsequent announcement of sentence.

Before adjourning the judges reopened court to permit the defense to offer evidence "in extenuation or mitigation of punishment."

Aroff took the stand and showed the court a cashier's check for $675 which he said he intends to turn over to Martin as final payment for the automobile. With a $375 war bond already given to Martin, this check will compensate him in full for the car, Aroff said.

Stresses His Long Study.

Reminding his judges that he had spent six years preparing himself as an officer, Aroff said, "My service as executive and engineer can be utilized today by the United States navy and I know that if given an opportunity to do so I will acquit myself well to make this court and the navy proud of me."

Lieut. C. Ray Robinson, Aroff's counsel, pleaded that Aroff be sent to the south seas, Alaska, or Tokio. He said that Aroff's acquittal would assure the 6,000 young men who entered the navy thru Aroff's office that their records are clean. Aroff was assistant director of the navy's San Francisco office of officer procurement until relieved of duty in April.

Leland Morris Nominated U. S. Minister to Iceland

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Leland B. Morris of Pennsylvania was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be United States minister to Iceland. Morris, formerly charge d'affaires at Berlin, would succeed Lincoln MacVeagh, who has been made minister to South Africa.

FORMER GERMAN CHIEF OF PRESS HERE; TALKS TO U. S. SEDITION JURY

C. K. Spiecker.

He is Charles Karl Spiecker, who was chief of the German press department before the rise of Hitler. The job now is held by Joseph Goebbels.

Spiecker conferred with J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, and the latter assistant, William J. Connor, who is presenting the evidence to the grand jury, before going into the jury room.

He said he fled from Germany with the rise of the Nazis in 1933 and was harried thru most of the countries of Europe by the Gestapo before he reached England. For about a year he has made his home in Canada. He came to the United States at the invitation of the state department and had been in conference the last few days with officials in Washington.

Officials said his testimony yesterday was expected to provide background for further searches into seditious activities here.

Three other men were called before the grand jury to testify. They are Otto Greiner, 7824 Karlov street, Skokie, national director of the German-American Vocational league; Weiner Steinbeck, 4855 North Bell avenue, treasurer of the league, and Ainsley Horning, 511 Roscoe street, an organizer of the American Guards.

DEFENSE QUIZZES PROSECUTOR IN MOLZAHN TRIAL

Win Order to Talk with Other Defendants.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 10 (AP).—Lawyers defending the Rev. Kurt E. B. Molzahn from espionage charges even called the government's prosecutor as a witness today in their repeated efforts to win permission to question three men who have pleaded guilty in the case. They finally obtained a tentative order allowing them to do so under certain restrictions.

Federal Judge J. Joseph Smith agreed, however, to hold his order in abeyance until tomorrow morning when the prosecution asked for time to prepare further arguments against it.

Seek to Question Others.

This development came at the close of the 10th day of the trial, devoted mainly to the testimony of defense character witnesses.

The defense wants to question Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, Dr. Otto Willumeit, and Dr. Wolfgang Ebell, bund leaders who will be sentenced when the Molzahn trial ends.

Prosecutor Thomas J. Dodd Jr. asserted the government felt that, "especially in wartime," men who had admitted a "serious crime" against the safety of the United States "should not be allowed to talk to any one." The defense sought to learn from Dodd whether he had talked to the defendants while preparing the case against Molzahn.

Wins Court's Approval.

After lengthy arguments, the defense obtained the ruling that they might question Kunze, Ebell, and Willumeit in the county jail in the presence of attorneys for the three and with the court stenographer to make a record, to be impounded by the court, of everything said.

Earlier, three women, including a Lutheran sister, were called to the stand by the defense and testified that the Rev. Molzahn was loyal to the United States, and one of them burst into tears after protesting that the pastor's trial was "unfair."

Special exhibits will be on display in the Chicago Historical society museum and commemorative events will be held thruout the city.

FIND BOMB-LIKE OBJECT ON RAIL CROSSING IN CITY

An object believed by some to be a bomb was found last night on the Chicago Belt railway, near the crossover used by the Pennsylvania railroad, at 73d street and Bell avenue.

It was found by a Pennsylvania system switchman, and turned over to L. L. Rauchenberger, a special agent for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, who in turn gave it to Chicago Lawn police.

The bomb-like object was a pipe 4 inches in diameter and 8 inches in length, sealed at each end with a screw cap. Inside the pipe was a bottle, four inches long, its mouth taped, containing a dark fluid. There was no fuse. Police said they could not understand how the bomb—if it was genuine—could be touched off. The contents of the bottle will be examined today.

WARNS OF RAIDS AFTER FINDING OF GROUND MARKERS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—James M. Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense, declared today that the discovery of markers designed to guide enemy planes to vital war establishments was proof that the axis was laying the groundwork "for an attack on eastern air bases and eastern aircraft plants."

The civilian air patrol under OCD jurisdiction has carried on a systematic hunt for such activity, Landis said, and "has been responsible for the obliteration of many markers and some ground installations that might have aided enemy planes."

Landis said the announcement that arrows and other markers had been placed in the neighborhood of eastern air fields and industrial plants stressed the importance of the job assigned to air raid wardens.

Army Takes Over 21 Story Garage for Storage Today

W. C. Makinney, owner of the Electric garage at 609 South Wabash avenue, said last night the 21-story building with 150,000 square feet of floor space had been taken over by the government for storage purposes. The building, he said, will be closed for garage purposes this morning, and the government will take it over by evening. The garage adjoins the Congress and Stevens hotels, recently taken over by the army for a radio school.

SOX DEFEAT INDIANS, 3 TO 1; NINTH STRAIGHT

ZUPPKE'S FIGHT TALK SPURS ALL-STARS' PRACTICE

PLAYERS TURN ON POWER IN TWO WORKOUTS

Coaches Look for Special Abilities.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

If there had been any doubt that Bob Zuppke considers his assignment as coach of the 1942 College All-Stars the most important in his long career, it would have been removed yesterday as the wily little tactician called his squad together for the second day of double duty in Dyche stadium.

In a morning lecture, called at 8:30, Zup stressed the importance of fighting spirit to the end that the game against the Bears in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28 shall be even more inspiring than the eight which have preceded it.

Then, when his eloquence had reduced his listeners to rapt attention, he said "That's all men, let's go!" The ensuing workout, which saw four full teams in action, was perhaps one of the most enthusiastic ever seen on this or any other field.

Coach Ascertains Their Abilities.

Zup concentrated on individual assignments as he began to ascertain the abilities of his boys in the various departments of play, all members of the big squad taking over positions here and there as starters began to tire under their chief's continual drive. Intensive efforts on plays were continued during the first portion of the afternoon workout, which started at 4 o'clock. This signal drill was necessary to acquaint players who reported for the first time yesterday with the fundamentals of Zuppke's system of designating plays.

The All-Star squad was further augmented yesterday by the arrival from Oklahoma City of Roger Eason, Oklahoma tackle.

The Nation's Best on Squad.

The 1942 All-Star squad will be composed of players from 33 universities and colleges, an all-time record for distribution of the nation's best football men. This points again to the caliber of the ninth annual game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities and associated newspapers and radio stations in 38 states and the District of Columbia.

Seats in the $1.10 sections still are available, but it is apparent that a capacity crowd of nearly 100,000 will watch the battle in the lakeside stadium. Normal profits of the game already have been increased by a special contribution of $108,000, so that the army and navy relief societies will receive approximately $160,000. This will be the largest sum accorded to army and navy relief from a single athletic contest.

Zuppke continued to emphasize forward passing in both drills yesterday. The backs alternated in carrying out their assignments and in attempting to break up passes.

Zuppke Emphasizes Timing.

"The boys must learn to catch passes," Zuppke reiterated in explanation of the time spent in the type of work. "Timing is most important for pass plays developing after deception of fake plunges and for optional plays that may be a run or pass."

While Zuppke, Lon Stiner, Oregon State coach, and Homer Norton of Texas A. and M. concentrated on the back field talent, the tackles, guards, and centers worked under the supervision of Lynn Waldorf and Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern coaches.

Linemen charged on signal and in the manner and direction each play required. Defensive linemen attempted to break off the attack after it was called in the huddle. This strenuous exercise followed earlier drills designed merely to condition the players. For the third day the heavy dummies were brought out and the All-Stars blocked with shoulders and arms. They charged thru

Westfall Gets Up Steam

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bob Westfall, Michigan's great full back, exhibits the power which brought him fame in his college days as the All-Stars drill at Northwestern for their battle with the Bears Aug. 28 in Soldiers' field. Head Coach Bob Zuppke counts on Westfall to give the Bears more than they can handle in the game sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Bears' Turner Has College Stars Worried

Members of the College All-Star squad are beginning to suspect that Bulldog Turner, the Bears' mighty center, is a name to conjure with. Hardly a practice session goes by but that Coach Bob Zuppke stations himself in front of the team and shouts, "On this play, Bulldog Turner will be here. What are you going to do about him?"

Turner, who made All-Star history as a member of the 1940 squad and then reversed his rôle to wreck the Collegians' attack last year, will be watched closely when the two teams clash on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28.

Carl Snavely of Cornell, coach of last year's All-Star squad, was a visitor yesterday at Dyche stadium, where he watched both the morning and afternoon workouts. Coach Snavely has been lecturing at a coaching school at Louisiana State and is on his way to his home in Ithaca, N. Y. Red Grange, Coach Zuppke's most famed pupil at Illinois, dropped in to pay his respects to his former chief. Red also is a Bear alumnus and will have a difficult time deciding which team to root for in the clash between the All-Stars and the professional champions.

The All-Star practice must seem like old times for three Notre Dame linemen, who are playing side by side again. They are John Kovatch, end, Paul Lillis, tackle, and Bernie Crimmins, guard, who have been assigned to the same team during the early practice sessions.

SOLDIER OWNS THAT VICTORY FOOTBALL TODAY

Carl Baroch of Bellaire, O., today owns the "Victory Football" which will become the permanent possession of the person who buys the greatest amount of war bonds at the Tribune Public Service office before noon Aug. 27.

The football used in the game in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28 will be awarded to the high purchaser. In addition, the winner will get a lifetime silver pass to all home games played by the Chicago Bears, a gift from George Halas, owner-coach of the world's professional football champions.

Mr. Baroch is a United States soldier. He read in Sunday's TRIBUNE that the "Victory Football" would be presented to the fan who purchased the greatest amount of war bonds and he lost no time getting over to the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, with his bid for the ball. He bought a bond with a maturity value of $675.

The runnerup in the opening day's competition was Mrs. Jean B. Maloney of Chicago, who purchased a $100 bond for herself and a $25 bond for her daughter, Camilla.

If you want the ball handled by football's most famous players in the greatest of all gridiron games, it's yours, provided you dig down in your pockets and come up with a war bond purchase in excess of Soldier Baroch's $675. And don't forget—the winner also gets a lifetime pass to the Bears' games.

BOLDEN IN FORM; CHRISTOFORIDIS HELD TO DRAW

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, appeared in the best form of his career to hold Anton Christoforidis, former world light heavyweight champion, to a 10 round draw in a fierce bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night. The crowd, which was held down to 5,278 because of weather, booed the decision. It believed Bolden deserved the award.

Judge Harold Marovitz voted for the Chicagoan, 52-48, but Referee Dave Miller and Romaine A. Goudie, the other judge, each scored the match a deadlock.

Eighth Is Nate's Best Round.

Bolden won the first round by adept use of a sharp left jab to the nose which kept Chris at a distance. He used this weapon with similar results in the next session, Anton returning to his corner with his nose a deep red. The tide turned in the third when Chris found the range with a barrage of lefts and rights to the stomach and face which had Nate gasping.

Bolden took the offensive in the fifth and seventh but the best he could be given for his efforts in these rounds was a draw.

Nate showed to good advantage in the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth, tho the fast moving Chris gave him such a busy time of it several times he was forced to fall into a clinch and hold on.

Chris to Get a Rest.

After the contest Connie McCarthy, manager of Chris, said his protége would be given a six weeks' rest. This means a proposed encounter with Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh Sept. 8 will not materialize.

Chris collected $3,750 and Bolden, $1,000, as did Joe Maxin, Cleveland heavyweight, and Altus Allen who met in the 10 round semi-windup.

Vince Calzaretto, Palos Park heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Mickey Hayes when the Milwaukee fighter surrendered at the start of the sixth round because of a hand injury.

Tommy Henrich Becomes Father of a Daughter

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Tommy Henrich, New York Yankee outfielder from Massillon, O., passed out the cigars to his teammates before today's game with the Philadelphia Athletics. The reason—a six and three-quarter pound daughter born this morning in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Shank-Norman Bout Is Put Over Until Tonight

Newark, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP).—The scheduled 10 round boxing bout in Meadowbrook Bowl tonight between Reuben Shank, Fort Morgan, Colo., welterweight, and Phil Norman of Detroit was postponed until tomorrow because of weather.

Mrs. Mann's 77 Wins Medal in Women's Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three bright students from the Jerry Glynn Tee, Fairway and Green Academy for Lady Golfers yesterday ran off with all the high marks in the qualifying examination of the 42d annual tournament conducted by the Women's Western Golf association at Sunset Ridge Country club.

Sharpest of all in the 18 hole medal play was the senior pupil, Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha, Neb., and that was quite fitting, for the pleasant Nebraskan happens to be the defending champion in this six-day event and was co-medalist in the course of last year's triumph at Exmoor. Mrs. Mann who, as Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, also had won the 1933 amateur title, minded her golfing Ps and Qs so well yesterday that she finished with a 39-38—77, even par for Sunset Ridge, and one stroke ahead of the field of approximately 190 starters.

Ann Casey Second with 78.

Second of the young ladies from the Jerry Glynn Tee, Fairway, etc., was Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia., who wrote a neat 40-38—78 to send home to her sisters in the Gamma Phi Beta house at the University of Iowa. That moved her a shot in front of still another Glynn academy scholar—Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., runnerup for the 1941 championship, and yesterday's author of the best nine of the day, a three under par 36 coming home that gave her a 79.

It is further interesting to note that all three gals wear spectacles and that all finished their qualifying deeds with birdies on the 403 yard 18th.

CUBS ARE HOME, FANS, AND THEY'LL STICK AROUND

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago fans who have been pining for the Cubs these many days and nights they have been away, will have a chance to see Lou Novikoff and the rest of their heroes this afternoon and many other times during the so-called dog days of August.

The Cubs face the Cardinals today in Wrigley field in the first of a four game series, which will include a double header tomorrow and a single game Thursday. Novikoff is expected to start this afternoon and every afternoon, X-rays having revealed he suffered nothing worse than a bruise when Bucky Walters plunked him on the left hand with a bad pitch in Sunday's first game in Cincinnati.

Withdraws in Seventh Inning.

Novikoff was nipped in the fourth inning of the 18 inning game and withdrew in the seventh inning with a record of one hit and three times at bat to leave his season average at .310. Lou is said to have suffered great pain and also is known to feel that a batted ball doesn't "carry" as well in Crosley field as in some of the other parks.

The double header tomorrow will be only a starter of other luscious bargains to come. The Pirates will be here Friday for a stingy old single game. But there will be double headers Saturday and Sunday.

The Cubs will be in St. Louis for night games on Aug. 18 and 19, but will resume in Wrigley field on Aug. 21 in a four-game series which will include a double header on Aug. 23.

Dodgers Out to Clinch Flag Early.

Then come the eastern clubs, the Phils first, including an alluring double header on Aug. 26. The runaway Dodgers will be here on Aug. 28 and 29. These are just single games, but probably will be worth more than the price of admission inasmuch as the Dodgers are out to clinch the pennant as early in September as possible. They want to start resting up for the Yankees.

The last opportunity in the homestand the fans will have to see a double header, according to the schedule as it now stands, will be on Aug. 30. The Giants and the Cubs, who attracted a grand crowd to a Sabbath double header the last time the New Yorkers were in Chicago, will play an encore on that date.

Vern Olsen, who went to the mound in the marathon in Cincinnati Sunday with the bases loaded and only one out in the 11th inning, is scheduled to pitch today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The urge to get into the first division—where the world series loot is distributed—carried the White Sox to their ninth straight triumph and to fifth place last night under the Comiskey park lights. By way of making their revival all the more mystifying for 12,520 customers Jim Dykes' lads fashioned a 3 to 1 success on five hits while Cleveland's Indians were showering their ex-mate Johnny Humphries with 11 safeties and getting nothing for their free swinging efforts.

The Sox, fortunately or otherwise, did four-fifths of their batting against Chubby Dean, the lefty, just when the ex-Athletic was having trouble with his control. One of his passes became a run because a hit followed. The second run blossomed from a pass while the bases were loaded, and the third, which proved superfluous altho a comfort for the constantly tormented Humphries, resulted from the Indians' only fielding blunder of the evening.

Not Comfortable for Dykes.

With hits off Dean's southpawing decidedly scarce it is quite natural to suspect not many fellows were involved in the enterprise that gave the Sox their sixth decision in 14 meetings with the Indians. Taft Wright's bat was the potent item in the first run, a matter the Indians took care of with their tally in the third. Naval Cadet Bob Kennedy, aided by Tom Turner, promoted the situation which induced Dean to give away a run in the fifth. Kennedy, however, put on a return engagement. It was his second single which started him on his way to the plate for the second time. The only wasted hit was Luke Appling's effort in the eighth.

The Indians' 11 hits furnish sufficient proof that Humphries' eighth victory was not attained without discomfort for Manager Dykes. The latter's suffering at times was extreme. The Indians opened six of the nine innings with hits, two of them doubles. In three of those six innings two were on the bases before any one was retired. Altogether there were four doubles off Humphries, two of which were paired with none out for the only run. Just to add to the Indians' discomfiture, one of their members was thrown out at the plate while trying to score on a hit.

Mr. Boudreau Doesn't Come Thru.

STARETOR GIVES JOCKEY NEVES 4 WINNERS FOR DAY

Ralph Also Rides 2 Place Horses at Homewood.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Ralph Neves drove Staretor across the finish line three quarters of a length ahead of his nearest rival in the Great Lakes purse yesterday at Washington Park to climax one of the best riding exhibitions on Chicago tracks this season. This ran his afternoon's record to four winners and two seconds in the first six races.

Ralph Neves.

Staretor, the 4 to 5 favorite in this gallop of a mile and a furlong, ran last in the field of four until he reached the stretch. Then, together with Equitable and Pumpgun, he overhauled the pace setter, Montsin. For a few yards all four of the horses were running side by side, then Staretor forged ahead. Equitable beat Montsin out of second place by a length and a quarter.

The prices on the winner were $3.80 and $2.60, no show mutuels being sold.

First It's Dear Judy.

Neves began his series of efficient performances by bringing in the odds on favorite, Dear Judy, in the first race, three and a half lengths ahead of Burgoo Maid. Dear Judy, a representative of Louis B. Mayer's stable, had indicated that she was ready to score the first victory of her career by running second in her last two starts.

Eleven other maiden juvenile fillies met her in this five and a half furlong dash—but she held command all the way. Neves sent her to the front immediately, moved into a length and a half on the turn— and then she came coasting home without a serious bid by any of her competitors. Her mutuel payoff was $3.80, $2.80, and $2.20.

Neves then came out aboard Cold Crack and completed a daily double worth only $12.80. Cold Crack was established as the favorite despite the fact that he was dropped down so far in class that many of the bettors were afraid there was something wrong with him. As it was he led all the way and won by three lengths, but Neves had to keep the pressure on him as he weakened in the later stages. Top Note was second and Pairzetta third. Cold Crack's payoff was $4.60, $3.20, and $2.60.

Here's Winner No. 3.

The third consecutive winner for Neves was Faywood. This colt, owned by Thomas Piatt, also was a favorite, closing at even money. In this dash of a mile out of the chute, Powerhouse took the early lead and held it to the stretch. Up to this time Neves had been rating Faywood along well in hand, moving him up from third to second on the turn. After only a brief duel in the straight away, Powerhouse gave way but then Panderma made a very strong bid. Neves was forced to do his best riding to bring Faywood home on top by a neck. This horse paid $4.20, $2.60, and $2.20.

In the fourth Neves got Breeks home in second place, beaten a neck by Ballinderry, and in the fifth he landed Fly Me in second place, six lengths behind Earliana, which had led from start to finish.

Dobson Limits Victors to 4 Hits in Final.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Washington Senators won a double header from Boston here tonight, shutting out the visitors for a 1 to 0 victory in the night game, after winning a twilight contest, 9 to 3. Joe Dobson opposed Walter Masterson and permitted only four hits in the final contest.

Letter from London.

And he's been to London town—
He writes about "lorries" and "lifts" and "trams,"
Well, shiver me, blow me down!
With his "cheerio" this and his "right-o" that,
I fear me it bodes him no good
If he ever lands back with that line of talk
In the old home neighborhood.

It's "blast me" this and it's "blight me" that—
He now calls a tavern a "pub,"
Will he shed all this lingo before he returns?
Aye, brothers, there's the rub;
It's "petrol" instead of gas, if you please,
A bun has become a "biscuit,"
No, indeed! it is now a "wescit."

A policeman is now a "bobby,"
He's been to the pictures often,
The "cinema's" really his hobby.
If he keeps on clipping his syllables
With the best of the Oxford boys,
Won't he be a larff, and I don't mean by larff,
Home in Booneville, Illinois!

DODGERS MAKE 6 HITS GOOD AND WHIP PHILS, 6-0

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers collected only six hits off three Philadelphia pitchers this evening but turned them into as many runs to win a twilight-night game, 6 to 0, as Kirby Higbe blanked the Phils on four safeties.

The victory, which ended a three game losing streak for the Dodgers, enabled them to regain their nine game lead in the National league over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Southpaw Frank Hoerst started for the Phils and lasted only five innings, during which he yielded five hits and four runs to absorb his 12th defeat against four victories. It was the 11th triumph for Higbe, who has been beaten eight times. Score:

PIRATES ROUT COOPER.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates hammered Mort Cooper from the mound for the second time in the series today as they defeated St. Louis, 6 to 4, in a playoff of the 16 inning 5 to 5 deadlock the teams waged last Saturday. It was Cooper's sixth setback of the season, against 13 triumphs. The Cards' star also started the tie game but was belted out in the third inning. Bob Elliott's three base hit with the bases full drove Cooper to cover in the fifth and enabled Pittsburgh to square the four game series.

Tony Yarro Wins District Caddy Title

Westward Ho won both team and individual honors in the annual Chicago District Golf association caddy tournament at Northmoor yesterday. A field of 64 represented 16 district clubs. The west side club's four-man entry posted an 18 hole score of 322. Edgewater was second with 340 and Northmoor third with 351.

Tony Yarro, former Proviso High school player, made it a complete sweep for Westward Ho by winning the individual championship after a playoff with Henry Goldstein of Ridgemoor. The 10 leading shooters played an additional nine holes to decide the individual winner.

Yarro, who scored 38-38-76 over the 18 hole route added a 44 on the extra nine to match Goldstein who had a 27 hole score of 41-39-40-120. Yarro won the playoff on the first hole, where he had a par four and his opponent took five strokes after encountering a trap. Herman Angell of Westward Ho was third with 39-37-46-122 and Jack Atten of Edgewater placed fourth with 39-39-45-123.

SAVOLD HAS COLD; MUSTO TO FIGHT IS SET FOR MONDAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Because Lee Savold is abed with a bad cold, his scheduled battle with Tony Musto in Griffith stadium tomorrow night has been postponed until next Monday.

By that time, Savold's backers hope he will be in shape to undertake a double task: First, of course, is to beat Tough Tony, the Chicago croucher who is no slouch in the slugging set. Second is to do it in less than the nine rounds it took Joe Louis to close Tony's eye and win a technical knockout when the two tangled in St. Louis on Joe's personal appearance tour last year.

is professional at the Knollwood club in Lake Forest. For the last five years, Prof. G. has been giving special instructions to a number of women golfers. Among his notable pupils were last year's finalists, Mrs. Mann and Miss Wall; Phyllis Otto of Omaha, runner up for the Western Open crown last June; Miss Casey, and Mrs. John J. McDonald, the former Ivy Mae Pilcher of Mexico, Mo.

Betty Jameson Cards an 80.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, former national champion, who this year is seeking a double of her victory in the Western Open tournament, finished with an 80, which was matched by Marjorie Row of Detroit, Mich. Miss Jameson's performance, which she allowed was spotty but adequate, never the less won her the Marion Miley trophy, awarded for the first time to the golfer with the low combined qualifying scores for the two WWGA events, the Open and the Amateur. Betty scored a 79—80—150 two shots better than the 78—83—161 turned in by Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Mann tied Miss Kirby [78—83—161] for second with 84—77—161, and Phyllis Otto was next with 78—84—162. Miss Row, who played with Mrs. Mann, led the champion by a stroke at the end of the first nine, off of a par 38, but ran into sixes on next two holes.

Ingram and Foster High.

Virginia Nilles of Park Ridge and Claire Doran of Cleveland, O., came in with 81s. Miss Kirby was alone at 83, followed by Miss Otto and Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., each with 84s. Among the high scorers were the Illinois state finalists, Champion Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge and Runner-up Dorothy Foster of Springfield, Ill.; Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D.; Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge, and Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis. The Misses Ingram, Ellis, Johnson, and Tainter had 87s, while Miss Foster finished with 92. Virginia's performance, considering the fact she was playing over her home yard, was the most surprising of all. She took a nine on the first hole.

Hockett opened against him with singles, but nothing followed except that Fleming was plunked in the trousers to create a full house for Manager Boudreau who filed to Moses.

The only hit mustered by the Sox off Dean in the first four innings proved sufficiently fertile for a run. Appling started it with a pass and pedalled to third on a single pumped into center by Wright. Kuhel was thrown out on a slow roller to Mack, but it gave Appling ample time to skip home.

With the help of a horseshoe the Indians tied the score at 1 to 1 in the third. Weatherly led with a clean double and a pop fly by Hockett dropped close to the left field line for a two bagger, Weatherly going only as far as third. He wanted to score from there on Keltner's fly to Hoag, but turned back when he remembered the latter was quite a fancy thrower. However, Weatherly scored a minute later on Heath's tap to Kuhel.

Humphries Commits Balk.

Humphries did the best he could about fixing up the Indians with a run in the fourth, but his generous inclinations were ruined by his pals. Mack beat out a bunt and DeSautels popped to Kuhel for the second out. Just as Humphries was about to pitch to Dean, Mack began strolling toward second. Humphries committed a balk, which was promptly called by Bill Summers, one of the league's few flawless umpires. Then Dean singled and Mack set out for the plate, but upon arrival there discovered he had been beaten by Wright's throw to Turner.

The Sox started manufacturing their run in the fifth after Kuhel had flied out. Kennedy singled to left and Turner singled just beyond the grasp of Boudreau. They moved ahead on Humphries' infield tap and Dean then got into difficulties because of an intentional pass to Kolloway. He wasn't able to keep Moses from walking, so Kennedy was forced to carry home the run that gave the Sox their 2 to 1 edge.

Sox Score on One Single.

Humphries dodged the possible consequences of doubles with which the Indians opened both the sixth and seventh, but by way of showing that runs can be scored with a lighter expenditure of batting energy, the Sox scored in their half of the seventh on one single. It came from Kennedy's bat to start the inning. A pair of outs moved him to third and he covered the remaining distance because Keltner threw low to Fleming on Kolloway's grounder.

Humphries' last serious flirtation with disaster occurred in the eighth when with none out, Keltner singled and Appling erred at second by dropping Kuhel's throw of Heath's tap. Infield rollers took care of Fleming and Boudreau. Lefty Milnar, who batted for Mack, was accommodated with three strikes. A single also opened the Indians' ninth, but a double play quickly fixed that.

THOSE BASS UP IN HOLMES LAKE HIT LIKE SAVAGES

Trip Along Half the Shore Yields Limit.

BY BEN MARKLAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Crystal Falls, Mich., Aug. 10.—When Eino Nelson told us about the bass in Lower Holmes lake near this Upper Peninsula town we didn't realize he was getting us involved with a set of underwater savages.

There's no other name for fish which will hit bait casting lures like those bronzebacks in the Lower Holmes. One of them hit our first cast of the morning—a little 30 foot experimental toss to see if the line was straight on the reel. An hour later we had our limit of five bass after one of the most exciting fishing forays of our experience.

Storm Ends Fishing.

We had been on the famous Paint river the day before, but a two hour rainstorm interrupted our float trip and muddied the stream to make another river expedition inadvisable.

"We'll go over to the Lower Holmes tomorrow," Eino said during the downpour, "and I'll betcha you'll get a limit in one turn around the lake."

On the Lower Holmes there are no cottages or resorts or even a boat livery. The Finnish guide hoisted a boat onto the top of his rattling, high wheeled old auto and we bounced down a sand road which had been hacked thru the woods in the '90s as a route to a sawmill now abandoned.

The lake is not more than a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, with a stream emptying into its north end. Most of the evergreens were consumed by the old sawmill, so its shoreline has only a few white and Norway pines spaced between poplars and white birches. A strong south wind made flycasting almost impossible, and Eino suggested a silver spoon lure decorated with a pork chunk on a bait casting outfit.

Eino More than Right.

The first cast brought in a small bass, and when the 10th or 12th toss hooked another largemouth Eino's forecast of a limit in one round of the lake seemed definitely in sight. We kept pest

12 FEARED DEAD IN COLLAPSE OF BIG WAREHOUSE

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 10 [Special]. Wauwatosa firemen aided by a steam shovel and civilians worked with lessening hopes tonight to rescue 12 workmen buried under tons of brick and other débris by the collapse at noon today of a four story warehouse used by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing company. The building is at 6600 West State street.

The collapse was attributed unofficially to the weight of an estimated 450,000 or 500,000 cases of empty beer bottles stored in the building. Ten persons were injured, and 15 escaped unhurt.

The 12 men trapped and feared dead under the débris which piled up three floors deep tonight were identified as follows:

William Schaedlich, 48, of 328 West Juneau avenue.
Erwin Weickert, 40, of 413 East State street.
Frank Giersch, 57, of 2351 North Well street.

Employed Piling Cases.

The men were employed by the brewing company piling cases of empty bottles. Sol Abrams, brewery official, said that extra storage space was needed because the government's restriction on manufacture of bottle caps left the firm with a surplus of bottles.

An hour after the first collapse a second portion of the building caved in, crashing more thousands of bottles and cases and concrete slabs into the débris.

A heavy machine power shovel, hurried from where it was resurfacing State street, began to bite into the bottom of the mass, and a drag link machine was utilized to lift the wreckage from the top.

Lack of Space a Problem.

Progress was slow because lack of space made it necessary to dump the débris into trucks to haul the waste away.

Thousands of spectators gathered as near as possible to the wrecked plant, and guards were placed to keep them from hampering rescue operations.

The Milwaukee Electric company erected flood lights around the ruins at dusk so that the search could continue.

At 9 p. m. firemen, aided by squads of workers supplied by the brewing company, believed they were nearing those trapped.

No Sound from Victims.

No word or sign had come from the victims in the hours since the crash. Ambulances and hospital cars from Wauwatosa and Milwaukee were lined up awaiting the recovery of the bodies, and physicians and nurses were on hand to give first aid.

Victor Morris, president of the Forsyth Leather company, owner of the building, said he had no idea of the cause of the collapse. He said the brewing company had checked the building for safety before it had moved in recently.

AUTO BACKS UP IN PARKING LOT; KILLS BYSTANDER

Patrick F. Hayes, 47 years old, 4847 Quincy street, an elevator operator at the Brevoort hotel, was fatally injured yesterday when he was run over by a backing automobile in a lot at 1640 Madison street. The driver, George Cee, 3103 Armitage avenue, a bakery owner, told police he backed up his car without having noticed any one near by. Police think that Hayes may have been sitting on the rear bumper. He died in county hospital.

Andrew Gilberts, 80, was killed last night when his automobile was struck by an Indiana Harbor Belt railway train at the Grand avenue crossing in Franklin Park. His car was carried 550 feet. Police said the warning signals were working at the time of the accident. Gilberts, who was retired, lived at 2516 Wood street in River Grove.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 437 persons had been killed by autos in Cook county since the first of the year. Of these 340 were killed in Chicago, where 12,471 were injured.

CITY CAB DRIVER INVENTS DEVICE TO SALVAGE TIN

An ingenious machine using a magnetic arm has been devised by a Chicago cab driver to segregate tin cans from garbage, William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director for the Office of Civilian Defense, said yesterday. Salvage officials are considering the feasibility of employing the device in accelerating tin can collections because it would obviate the need for housewives to separate the cans from ordinary garbage. The cans, however, would still have to be washed inside and have their labels removed. McFetridge said the machine would cost $2,700, but did not know if priorities could be obtained to construct it even if War Production board salvage officials authorized its use. The identity of the inventor was withheld pending a decision from WPB.

NEW ZEALANDERS CLEAN UP QUAKE DEBRIS IN CAPITAL

Town Hall Among the Many Buildings Hit.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 10.—The capital's midtown area bore more splints today as demolition gangs tore down damaged portions and façades of business buildings and stores hit by the earthquake on Aug. 2, the second to strike Wellington in six weeks.

Tubular steel frames shored up perilous structures as roof top laborers pushed their work, and steel helmeted air raid precaution traffic squads questioned all pedestrians entering openings in the roped barriers in the streets, permitting only essential entries.

The worst hit section was busy Manners street, curving away from the Hotel St. George. At the farther end of the street the Regent theater was suddenly shut down after a week's business following the quake when it was found that structural damgae demanded a major examination involving tearing down of a portion of the building.

Hospital Wing Evacuated.

The principal building of the Porirua Mental hospital was so badly damaged that it could not be used again and 800 patients are being transferred from the long rambling brick structure, which had withstood all shocks for 34 years, to other sanitoriums. About 700 patients were able to remain in the more modern buildings. The institution is to be rebuilt on up to date lines.

A survey of the hundreds of damaged buildings in the business section uncovered evidence that the Aug. 2 quake did damage which creates a major problem at this time of war mobilizations and labor shortage. Grave damage was done to the town hall. Sixteen cracks extend across the supporting piers on both sides of the main hall and some walls have lateral cracks. Because of this the hall and concert chamber have been closed for a month.

Town Clock Comes Down.

The towers of a Roman Catholic basilica were found to have been damaged and must come down.

Army engineers, wearing respirators, are now removing the town clock from the old post office. One of the serious losses uncovered today was that to the large plate glass stock, needed for replacement in windows of stores.

EDGAR STEVENS, MERCHANT, WILLS $50,000 TO FAMILY

The will of Edgar A. Stevens, suburban merchant, disposing of an estate of $50,000, was admitted to probate yesterday by Judge John F. O'Connell. Under the tems of the will the estate is placed in trust for the widow, Hazel, of 63 Indian Hill road, Winnetka; three daughters, Mrs. Martha D. Cory, 264 Mary street, Winnetka; Mrs. Frances Christy, 551 Rosewood avenue, Winnetka, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cook, 424 Greenleaf avenue, Glencoe, and a stepson, Stedman Willard, 253 Church street, Winnetka.

Lightning Kills Barrington Youth at Naval Air Field

Ernest A. Anderson of Barrington, an aviation machinist's mate, was killed yesterday by a lightning bolt on the naval air station field at Jacksonville, Fla. Naval officers said he was standing under the wing of a plane during a rainstorm. He was 23 years old, and the son of Oscar Anderson, 119 West Russell street, Barrington.

Two Injured as 'L' Trains Hit on Garfield Park Line

Two passengers were injured yesterday when an elevated train rammed another on the ground level of the Garfield park branch near Lexington street and Lockwood avenue. Both trains were westbound. Treated at the Loretto hospital were Leroy Haeger, 22 years old, 1103 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, and Lily Bock, 55, 1034 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

[ADVERTISMENT]

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW PENAL FARM INMATE KILLED IN ESCAPE ATTEMPT

Vandalia, Ill., Aug. 10 [Special].—Roy Smith, 41 years old, Springfield, Ill., who arrived at the state penal farm here Saturday to begin a 6 months vagrancy term, was shot and killed by three guards at noon today in what Sheriff C. F. Cheshier indicated was an attempted escape.

Cheshier said Smith broke from the line while marching to dinner with 400 other prisoners and started running down the main driveway. Guards ordered him to halt and waited until he had run more than 100 yards before firing, the sheriff said. Smith was struck by four bullets and died before he could be carried to the prison hospital.

He was serving his first term. When he left Springfield he is reported to have told Sheriff Harry Elelson of Sangamon county, "They'll never keep me down there."

500,000 Corsages of War Stamps Sold in Chicago

More than 500,000 war stamp corsages have been sold in Chicago and 2,000,000 thruout the country since the opening of the corsage drive on May 18, Harry Perlman, national corsage chairman for the war savings staff of the United States treasury and originator of the corsage, reported yesterday. Because of the popularity of both the corsage and the boutonierre, which sell for $1, having nine defense stamps, the war savings staff will soon issue kits with instructions and material for the making of the corsages by volunteer workers, Perlman stated.

MR. CLAUSS JUST ISN'T A SANTA TO THE YELLOW KID

Joseph Weil.

It was a sad story indeed that the Yellow Kid, known in his more respectable moments as Joseph Weil, told yesterday in the Felony court of Judge William V. Daly. The case at issue went back to 1934, when Weil and his old stooge, Fred [the Deacon] Buckminster, took a landscape gardener named Otto Clauss, 1837 North Harlem avenue, on a trip east. Clauss told Judge Daly that in September of that year the Kid and the Deacon came to him with a proposition for the creation of a cemetery for broken down jockeys.

Then came a proposal for the beautifying of race tracks, in the manner of those they were to visit in the east, and then a proposal that Clauss bet $5,000 on a fixed race that would bring him $50,000. A date was made for a rendezvous in Joliet. Clauss had both the Kid and the Deacon arrested.

Yesterday Weil told the court that he had spent $2,000 to show Clauss the sights in the east and hadn't got a penny in return.

Judge Daly ruled no case because it happened too long ago. Weil still must face trial on Oct. 5 on charges of defrauding a woman and her daughter of $32,000 in a mining stock deal.

The tax committee of the county board yesterday recommended that the state's attorney's office file tax foreclosure suits against 7 properities owing $1,028,342 in past due real estate taxes and penalties dating to 1927 in some cases. They are: 637-45 South Wabash avenue, $115,566; 19-29 Quincy street, $559,823; 230 Randolph street, $35,798; 365-69 Madison street, $28,415; 162-70 North State street, $92,638; 33 West Adams street, $174,359, and 32 South State street, $21,743.

MAN STRICKEN BLIND WHILE ON WAY TO BEACH

EAGLES TO MEET HERE THURSDAY; 1,500 WILL ATTEND

The band playing, parades, and drill competitions which normally color national conventions of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be missing when the 44th annual meeting opens Thursday in the Morrison hotel. Because of the war the convention will be strictly a business assembly, according to P. J. McGinley, Illinois representative of the order. More than 1,500 delegates are expected to attend the national gathering, which will continue thru Monday, McGinley said. Delegates will be present from 40 states and 5 Canadian provinces.

GOODYEAR CUTS DIVIDEND AS NET EARNINGS FALL

War Reserve Trims 6 Month Profit.

P. W. Litchfield.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., reduced the dividend on its common stock yesterday coincident with reporting a sharp decline in earnings for the first six months of 1942. The dividend of 25 cents a share, payable Sept. 15, compares with the 37½ cents paid in the March and June quarters this year and in the last quarter of 1941.

Net profit for the six months, after a reserve of $6,751,247 for Pacific war losses, was $4,123,961, compared with $6,196,756 in the corresponding 1941 period, Paul W. Litchfield, chairman, reported. This was equal respectively to $1.24 and $2.23 a common share. Sales, however, rose to $179,755,599 from $152,931,046 in the first half of last year.

Tax Provisions Larger.

Provision for income and excess profits taxes amounted to $12,008,724, against $11,483,840 last year, and included an estimated allowance for credit arising from loss on war area investments. However, the profit, the company said, is subject to contract renegotiation provisions. A reserve for contingencies of $1,500,000 was created.

The company said profits of foreign subsidiaries, amounting to $2,437,000, were incorporated in the consolidated earnings; $2,060,119 of the sum having been received in United States dollars.

Investments in Singapore, Sumatra, Java, and the Philippines, totaling $13,320,855, were excluded from the consolidated balance sheet and grouped separately. The company said its total investments outside the United States amounted to $26,938,000.

Ship Operator Earns Less.

American-Hawaiian Steamship company reported net earnings for the six months ended June 30 were $829,285, or $1.95 a share, compared with $1,252,448, or $2.87 a share in the corresponding period of 1941.

Not included in income was $4,852,576 received in insurance for ships lost by enemy action, in excess of the depreciated cost of the vessels as carried on the books, which was credited to a ship replacement fund. The company said $3,104,000 remained to be collected for other ships lost during the period.

Half year profit of the Western Union Telegraph company was $3,695,014, or $3.53 a share, compared with $3,435,899 for the first six months of 1941.

Pullman Co. Has Gain.

The Pullman company, sleeping car operating company, Chicago, reported net operating income of $667,495 for June, against $244,593 a year ago. Net operating income for six months ended June 30 was $3,747,233, against $1,514,483 a year ago.

Pullman, Inc., of which Pullman company is a subsidiary reported its earnings earlier. The parent firm provided for first half year federal taxes at an assumed aggregate rate of 50 per cent and reserved 5 million dollars for possible additional taxes, contract renegotiations and liquidation of a large frozen inventory of car building materials. These items reduced gross earnings of $29,897,029 to a net of $9,376,922, or $2.84 a share, for the first half of 1941.

PRIVATE, PUBLIC BUILDING IN HALF YEAR 6 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Private and public construction activity amounted to more than 6 billion dollars in the first half of 1942, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced today.

Public construction, due to the expanded war program, increased from 2 billion 400 million dollars in the first half of 1941 to 4 billions during the corresponding period this year.

Military and naval construction increased 84 per cent and the construction of federally financed industrial facilities 300 per cent.

Shortages of critical materials, which resulted in the holding up of unauthorized construction after April 8, caused a sharp curtailment of private construction. In the first half of 1942 it totaled 2 billion dollars, a decrease of 400 million from the 1941 period. First quarter activity was almost as great in 1942 as in 1941, the 400 million decrease occurring in the second quarter.

Senators Near End of Big Tax Bill Hearings

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The senate finance committee rejected today a proposed change in computing income taxes in eight community property states. After a brief executive session and a busy day of testimony taking, Chairman Walter F. George [D., Ga.], announced the committee hoped to close its public hearings on the new tax bill Thursday, take a brief recess, then begin executive deliberations two weeks from today.

The committee decided, by a vote of 11 to 4, to junk a treasury department proposal which would require the payment of taxes by the recipient on all earned income in the states which have community property laws. These are Texas, Louisiana, Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, Nevada, Washington, and California.

Yield Put at 87 Million.

Treasury experts estimated the change would have brought in an additional 87 million dollars a year. At present a man living in a state with community property laws may divide his income with his wife for tax return purposes. This sometimes results in reducing their total tax.

The committee spent several hours listening to witnesses who urged retention of the present flat depletion allowance of 27½ per cent for oil and gas wells. Under this method, which the treasury has recommended be changed to an actual cost depletion system, the owner of a well is allowed to write off 27½ per cent of the gross income from the property to make up for exhaustion of the deposit. The house ways and means committee rejected the treasury's recommendation.

Owners of many types of mines are allowed a 15 per cent depletion allowance and representatives of such mines were on hand to oppose any change in the system.

Attacks "Excess" Levy.

James F. Stiles Jr., vice president of Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill., asked for a modification of the excess profits tax, so that the levy "will not reduce the net profits after all federal taxes of the taxpayer below an amount equal to the excess profits credit base."

"It is my belief that the present method of computing the excess profits tax before computing the normal tax and surtax is wrong in principle," Stiles said. "If the excess profits tax is to be based upon true excess profits, the normal and surtaxes should be deducted to determine what is 'excess.'

"Until you know how much is left how do you know how much is 'excess'?"

RESCIND TRANSIT STRIKE DECISION IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—Union employés of the Philadelphia Transportation company voted late tonight to strike for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour, and then within an hour rescinded the strike vote after leaders urged the problem be placed before the war labor board.

Lansing Plant Closed.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 10 [Special].—A strike called by the AFL United Automobile Workers union today closed the Centrifugal Fusing corporation plant here, a factory supplying certain materials for war contracts of the Motor Wheel corporation. A picket line was thrown around the plant, operated as a subsidiary of the Campbell, Wyant and Cannon Foundry company of Muskegon. Lester Washburn, regional director of the union, attributed the strike order to refusal of the management to negotiate on wage demands.

Debate Strike Call.

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 10 [Special].—The Globe American corporation's Kokomo plant, war contract holder, was idle today as employés debated whether to strike for higher wages.

SEC APPROVES SALE OF UTILITY TO CHICAGOANS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission entered an order today permitting the National Gas and Electric corporation to sell its subsidiary, Greeley [Colo.] Gas and Fuel company, to a Chicago firm.

The partners will receive $160,000 of 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, due 1953, and 400 shares of no par common stock with a stated value of $40,000.

Open Hearings on Short Line Railroad Pay

Hearings were opened yesterday in the United States courthouse by a three man federal emergency board in an effort to end disputes over wages and paid vacations for nonoperating personsonel of about 30 short line railroads.

Dean W. H. Spencer.

Members of the board conducting the hearing are Chief Justice Walter P. Stacey of the North Carolina Supreme court, Dean William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago business school, and Edwin E. Witte, University of Wisconsin professor of economics. They were appointed July 21 by William M. Leiserson, chairman of the National Railway Labor panel.

Carryover from Fall.

The cases are carryovers from the settlement last fall in which a threatened strike was averted thru Presidential intervention. Wage increases and vacation pay were granted by the class 1 railroads at that time, but the cases of 41 short lines were left unsettled.

Negotiations have brought settlements in a number of individual cases. The smaller lines, which generally have net operating income of less than a million dollars annually, argue that they are entitled to a differential from the increases placed in effect on larger roads.

Clarence Miller, general counsel and vice president of the American Short Line Railroad association, has been named to represent 21 of the lines. Others will have individual counsel.

Bert Jewell, president of the AFL railway employés department, is chairman of the conference committee of the 14 nonoperating brotherhoods. He said his men, such as maintenance and clerical employés, are asking the same increases from short lines as were obtained from the trunk roads.

List Wage Demands.

Increases of 9 cents an hour from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30, 1941, with a minimum of 45 cents an hour, and of 10 cents an hour with a 46 cent minimum thereafter, are the gains sought, said Jewell. No effort is being made to generalize base pay on the various short lines or to disturb present wage relationships, he added.

Jewell and Miller said existing wage rates vary according to the type of work and the different roads.

The vacation demand is for one week with pay for manual employés who worked 160 days the preceding year. Nine day vacations are asked for clerical employés and telegraphers with two years of service, and three days more for those having three years' experience.

The emergency board is scheduled to report to President Roosevelt Aug. 21, but it was indicated that the hearings may last longer than anticipated.

Army Orders Shoe Taps from Chicago Companies

Among contracts announced yesterday by the Boston quartermaster depot were awards to these Chicago companies: Daniel Forbes company, 37,400 pairs of leather sole taps; H. Hanfling and Son, 5,000 pairs, and Wilder & Co., 24,000 pairs. The United States Rubber company was awarded contracts for 88,200 pairs of shoe pacs to be manufactured at its Chicago factory.

FEAR OF SEVERE CUT IN WAR PRODUCTION VOICED BY WPB GROUP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Fears that "as many as 1,000" war plants might be forced to cut production this month and next for lack of materials were voiced by the labor policy committee of the WPB in a resolution adopted July 30, it was learned tonight. A WPB source said the resolution declared that several thousand men had been laid off in July by stoppages or production curtailments in more than 30 plants holding war contracts.

The resolution, which was presented to Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB, asked that greater unity and a better exchange of information be set up among WPB, the armed services and other agencies so that shutdowns could be averted. The labor policy committee, created to advise WPB's labor production division, is composed of union representatives, three each from the AFL and CIO.

A WPB spokesman said he thought the 1,000 figure was "considerably exaggerated." He said he believed the maximum expectable number of shutdowns or slowdowns might be placed at 150 in plants holding army or navy orders. Increasing concern over the problem was indicated, however, by this spokesman's disclosure of a memorandum sent to WPB by the army-navy munitions board which requested that increased attention be given the threat of shutdowns caused by inadequate deliveries of materials.

JEWEL TEA CO. SALES CLIMB IN 4 WEEK PERIOD

The four week total was $3,770,563, an increase of 32.54 per cent over the $2,844,868 reported for the corresponding 1941 period.

The J. C. Penney company also reported a large gain, last month's sales of $34,682,840 representing a 32.6 per cent rise from the $26,145,145 of July, 1941. The seven month total was $235,220,858, compared with $172,872,703 a year ago, a 36 per cent gain.

Lane Bryant, Inc., New York, reported sales of $1,503,450 during July, a gain of 29.7 per cent from the $1,159,584 of July, 1941. June sales increased 27.5 per cent over last year, and the total for the first seven months this year was $12,821,888, a rise of 37 per cent compared with sales of $9,355,985 in the period thru July, 1941.

CONTROL OFFICES TO ACCELERATE AIR SHIPMENTS

Movement of passengers and cargo for war purposes is to be accelerated thru operations of the seven new regional air priorities control offices established as branches of the air transport command of the army air force. The Chicago office at the municipal airport has been functioning since July 23, altho its establishment was not announced by the war department until Sunday.

Capt. Donald G. MacDonald is in charge of the Chicago offices. He formerly was assistant vice president for eastern operations of United Air Lines with headquarters here.

The purpose of his office, Capt. MacDonald said, is to establish the amount of space that is essential to any mission for the prosecution of the war and see that it is assigned.

WPB Freezes All Stocks of 6 Dried Fruits

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The government today froze the entire 1942 production of dried apples, apricots, peaches, pears, prunes, and grapes [raisins] in the hands of packers, to make them available for the army, navy, and lend-lease shipment.

The order issued by the War Production board applied also to the carryover from the 1941 crop. Supplies not purchased by the government will be made available for civilians, WPB said.

In addition, the entire 1942 crop of Muscat, Sultana, and Thompson seedless grapes was ordered diverted into the production of raisins.

Use of various types of rubber in the manufacture of products being delivered on war orders was curtailed by WPB. Amending a previous order, it set up two lists of products being made for war orders. Those on the first list, including athletic shoes, erasers, and weather stripping, must be manufactured without the use of crude rubber or latex. The other list also bars the use of reclaimed and scrap rubber for such items as wrestling mat covers, typewriter bases, and ash trays.

WPB granted higher priority ratings to mines producing essential war metals to assist them in obtaining repair, maintenance, and operating parts, and said mines would get "ratings as high as are necessary" in cases of emergencies resulting from breakdowns.

CARRY CIO, 'BIG STEEL' DISPUTE TO WAR BOARD

Issue of 'Directives' Halts Parleys.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—CIO President Philip Murray announced today that negotiations between the United Steelworkers of America and five United States Steel corporation units had been broken off and the case referred to the War Labor board.

Murray said the union was handed a statement by the corporations at today's conference—the fifth meeting of the negotiating committees—which said:

"It has been impossible to agree to all of the provisions of the so-called 'Little Steel' directives."

"Directives" at Issue.

Murray, president of the USW, explained that the primary issues over which there was disagreement were the "directives" previously awarded the union in the cases involving Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Inland Steel—a 5½ cents an hour wage boost; minimum daily guarantee and union security and the check-off. He added:

"It is hoped that the War Labor board will assume initial jurisdiction over this dispute inasmuch as the issues involved are identical to the issues that were raised in the cases affecting the 'Little Steel' companies and passed upon by the War Labor board."

Existing contracts between the union and the United States Steel subsidiaries expired Sunday, under the 20 day clause, but Murray said both sides had agreed to a week's extension. Notices to all USW locals involved, instructing them to continue work, have been given, Murray said.

Five Subsidiaries Listed.

The subsidiaries are Carnegie-Illinois, Columbia Steel, American Steel & Wire, National Tube and Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company.

At Washington the WLB disclosed it had called a conference of representatives of United States Steel and the United Steelworkers to discuss procedure for handling the dispute.

Board officials telegraphed J. A. Stephens, director of industrial relations of United States Steel, and Murray that Jesse Freidin, mediation officer, had been assigned to meet them in Pittsburgh tomorrow "to discuss the most feasible procedure for handling the dispute." The telegrams said Freidin had been designated jointly by Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB and Director John R. Steelman of the United States conciliation service.

REFLECTION OF POLICY.

A spokesman for Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and other United States Steel subsidiaries said in Chicago last night that the halting of negotiations with the CIO reflected a belief on the part of the companies that the War Labor board should be consulted on the issues involved.

"Only last week the WLB said that industry should not be permitted to grant wage increases without the board's approval," the spokesman said. "The companies believe the WLB should pass on matters as fundamental as union maintenance, the dues checkoff and wage increases."

U. S. STEEL'S JULY SHIPMENTS A NEW MONTHLY RECORD

Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation in July were the largest for that month in the history of the corporation but slightly below the total for June, the company reported yesterday.

The total of 1,765,749 net tons compared with 1,774,068 in June and 1,666,667 in July, 1941. For the first seven months of 1942 the total of 12,269,256 net tons compared with 11,719,544 in the like period of 1941.

Th American Iron and Steel institute estimated the nation's steel mills would operate this week at 96.5 per cent of their newly announced capacity of 1,710,700 tons a week, compared with operations last week at 95.8 per cent of the revised capacity.

A month ago, the revised operation rate was 98.4 per cent and a year ago 95.6.

Forecast Corn Yield Biggest in Decade.

Predict Sugar Boost

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—With the nation under strict sugar rationing, the federal crop reporting board forecast today that domestic production would jump far above 1941 production figures. The board said the Aug. 1 conditions indicate that 1942 production of sugar cane for sugar and seed would reach 7,379,000 tons or 35 per cent larger than in 1941 and 56 per cent larger than the average. Sugar beet production was estimated at 12,967,000 tons, exceeding the July 1 estimate by 510,000 tons and about 26 per cent above last year's crop.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Crop prospects in the United States are the best on record for this time of year, the department of agriculture reported yesterday in its general crop report for Aug. 1.

Farmers are completing the harvest of the second largest wheat crop in history and have in prospect the biggest corn crop in a decade, it said. From present indications grain production this season will have been exceeded only once—in 1920.

Wheat production was estimated by the department at 955 million bushels, largest in any year except 1915. It forecast corn production at 2 billion 753½ million bushels and oats production at 1 billion 331½ million bushels. The prospective oats crop is the largest since 1925.

Vegetable Oil Crops Up.

The production of principal vegetable oil crops, needed to replace former imports, now seems likely to exceed earlier expectations by a considerable margin, the department said.

Forecasts included 5,800,000 tons of

STOCKS NARROW; TRADERS IGNORE WAR DISPATCHES

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—The war news, while remaining as a stock market buying brake, failed to disturb general trends today and price changes, on the whole, held to an extremely narrow area. The list was ragged from the start and mildly irregular prices prevailed at the close of one of the slowest sessions in two years.

Light investment bidding for assorted industrial specialties served as a bolstering influence and offset to a considerable extent worries over the crises in Russia and India and the lack of information regarding the outcome of the air-naval battle in the Solomons.

Liquor Stocks Higher.

Liquor stocks edged up in the last few minutes with Schenley, National Distillers, and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams touching new highs for the year. Large inventories and recently boosted price ceilings furnished a further prop for this group. Other specialties attracted support for modest advances. Among these were American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 36.2. Of 524 individual issues traded, 186 were down, 158 up, and 180 at Saturday's final levels. Transfers of 209,941 shares compared with 212,250 in the preceding five hour stretch.

LOSSES IN MAJORITY.

Declines outnumbered advances by a margin of more than 2 to 1 on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Thirty-three issues closed lower, 14 higher and 16 unchanged. Transactions totaled 10,000. Commonwealth Edison, most active issue with transfers of 1,550, dipped ¼ point. Chicago corporation, Consolidated Oil and General Electric each gained small fractions.

LIGHT HOGS RISE AGAIN TO $15 ON CHICAGO MARKET

Light hogs advanced 10 to 15 cents at the Chicago stock yards yesterday while heavier kinds held about even with last week's final prices. Best grades reached $15 a hundred pounds, only 15 cents under the 22 year peak set three weeks ago. The average for the day was $14.25, or 10 cents above Saturday's average.

Farmers gave some of the highest prices in 13 years for breeding ewes. A string of 190 black face yearling ewes from Montana sold for $12.

Prime beef steers were in demand but other steers and yearlings weakened, a few showing 10 to 15 cents loss. Heifers and calves sold steady.

EXPECT PACKERS TO UNITE AGAINST PRICE CEILINGS

Between 200 and 300 owners of small meat packing companies throughout the country are expected to organize in opposition to federal price ceilings and attempt to solve other war problems today in the Palmer house. Officials who called the meeting charge that price ceilings as they exist are forcing the small packer out of business.

First known as the Emergency Conference of Packers, the group is expected to set up a national organization, probably to be known as the National Independent Meat Packers' association. The movement for an organization of small packers, according to Chicagoans interested in the association, started in the east and spread with the development of the meat shortage.

U. S. TRIMS LIST OF ELIGIBLES TO BUY BICYCLES

Rules About as Strict as for New Cars.

Washington. D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration today trimmed the list of persons eligible to buy bicycles under rationing, leaving it only slightly broader than the automobile and tire rationing lists.

The revision, effective Aug. 15, was necessitated by the War Production board's recent order halting bicycle production at the end of August. The original eligibility provisions had been drafted in expectation of a contining supply.

Not to Replace Cars.

Even persons rated as eligible on the new list will not get bicycles for use instead of automobiles, however, if they have adequate tires and, in the east, a gasoline ration to perform the same services. OPA intended this restriction to prevent the buying of new bikes to save tires and gasoline for nonessential driving.

A list of occupations eligible for bicycles was announced, to replace the original broad phraseology which made any person eligible who was "engaged in a gainful occupation" or in work essential to the war effort or public welfare.

To obtain a purchase certificate, the listed persons must show "proof of need" as was previously required.

List of Eligibles.

Licensed physicians, surgeons, dentists, osteopaths, chiropractors, midwives, farm veterinarians, public health nurses, druggists, embalmers, medical laboratory workers, and Red Cross, or social workers caring for the sick or promoting hygienic conditions.

Ministers and religious practicioners.

United States mail carriers, firefighters and public police officers, federal, state, local, and foreign government employés engaged in duties directly connected with protecting public health and safety or prosecution of the war; persons performing construction, maintenance, repair or special services at agricultural, industrial, or extractive establishments; executives, technicians, engineers, and workers directly or indirectly connected with the war effort; persons engaged mainly in delivering goods and materials essential directly or indirectly to public welfare or the war effort, such as foods, drugs, and medical supplies, radiograms, cables, telegrams, newspapers, magazines, periodicals, general hardware, and commercial laundry; commercial fishermen, sea or marine workers; members of the armed forces or of state military forces; persons in organized activities essential to the public health, safety or war effort, including activities of the army, navy, Red Cross, OCD, civil air patrol, forest fire fighters service, selective service, and USO, and school teachers.

COST OF DELAYING PROJECT DENIED IN FPC DECISION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The Federal Power commission announced today it had determined $14,769,685 represented the actual legitimate original cost, as of May 31, 1933, of the Puget Sound Power and Light company's Rock Island project, 145 miles downstream from Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia river in Washington.

The company had claimed an original cost of $15,904,514. Of the amount disallowed the principal items were interest charges during construction and fees paid to the Stone & Webster, Inc., engineering firm.

The commission found that during the depression years the company had slowed down construtions and that it could have been completed in July, 1932, whereas it was not completed until Jan. 21, 1933. It said the "effect of the deliberate delay in construction was to increase project costs."

Olds Motor Plant Given Army and Navy Pennant

Business Failures Drop to 160 During Last Week

Business failures in the week ended Aug. 6 dropped to 160 from 168 in the preceding week and compared with 220 in the like week of 1941, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported yesterday.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

Weeds Poison Sheep.

August 10, 1942.

THREE sheep died recently within a few days of each other as a result of poisoning. Whorled milkweed is believed to have caused the loss, and as a result the pastures are being combed again in an effort to eradicate the pest.

Last year quite a few of the animals met a hard death from nibbling the innocent looking weed, and at the start of the spring pasturing the workers went over the fields carefully in an attempt to eliminate it.

They did an effective job as the milkweeds did not reappear until later in the season. Again a program of eradication was instigated, but this time the press of harvesting prevented the men from making as complete a job of it as they would have liked.

Milkweed Hardy Foe.

The whorled milkweed is one of the farm's most persistent dangers. Altho other poisonous weeds have been found in the fields none of grows with the hardiness or in such profusion as the milkweed. Each year it takes a toll in sick or dead animals despite all efforts to eradicate it.

Now that the last of the oats are in the bins the workers are able to turn their attention to the remaining fields of alfalfa that still retain their second crop. The mowing machine is working as steadily as the rains will permit in order to get the 25 acres cut as soon as possible so the third growth can begin. Because the second cutting is light the manager is planning to take a third cutting so the barns can be filled.

An inspection of the hay fields reveals that the second growth suffered from lack of moisture. The alfalfa is very small and as light and feathery as a fern. Altho the stems will make tender and sweet feed for the stock, the crop is so thin the yield will be too small to last the animals and a third cutting will be necessary.

Clover Crop Good.

The clover field is producing a good crop and will be threshed for the seed. The blossoms are out on all the plants now but it will be some time before they are ready for the combine. The heads must mature and turn brown, before threshing.

The farm has had some good rains in the last week and the corn has revived rapidly. The firing seems to have stopped and the pollination of the silks is going ahead without danger of the tassels drying out. A check of several of the fields failed to show any signs of the corn borer which is ravaging so many Illinois fields.

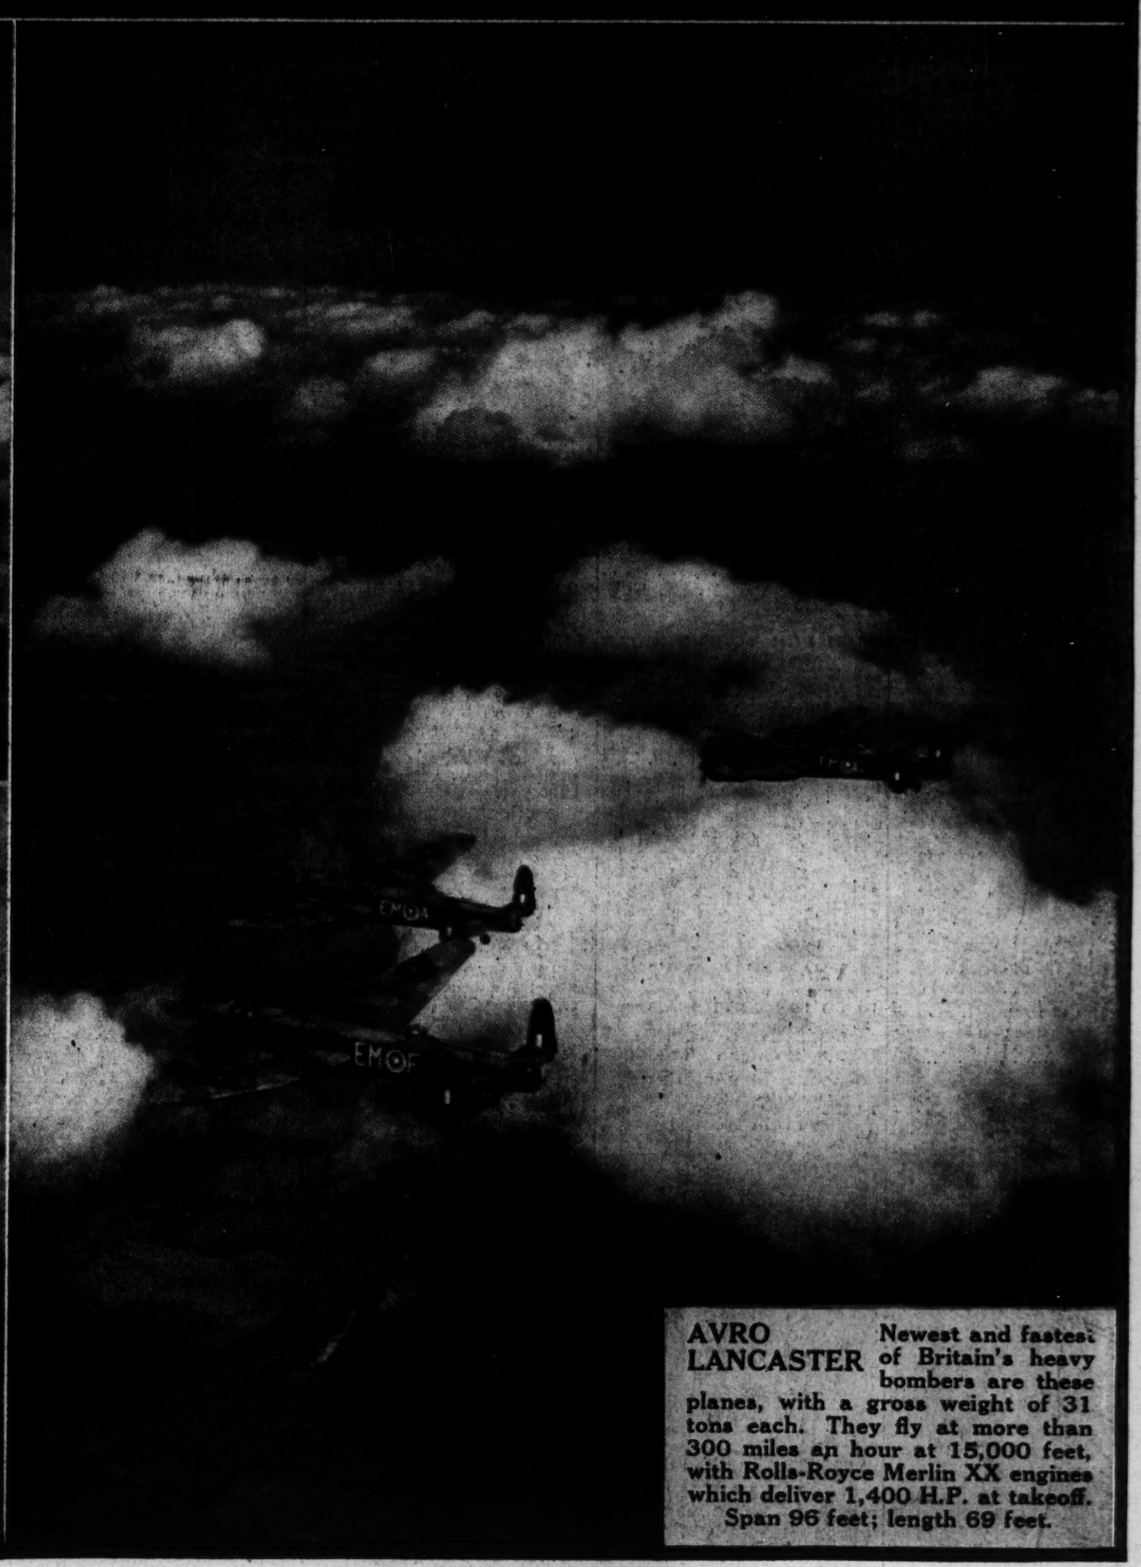
British Bombers

The four-engined bombers pictured here are the planes that have been delivering the heaviest punches at the German industrial centers. Carrying Britain's superbombs—up to two tons in weight each—they have been taking part in the Royal Air force's night raids, a purpose for which they were primarily designed. They carry from 10,000 to 16,000 pounds of bombs for distances up to 2,000 miles. These are official RAF photographs from the special September Royal Air force issue of Flying magazine.

SHORT STIRLING These are the RAF's load-carrying ships. They will carry ten tons of bombs for a short distance. With 99 foot wing span, a length of 87 feet, and a gross weight of above 35 tons, they are powered with 1,590 H.P. Bristol Hercules sleeve valve radial engines, or 1,650 H.P. American Wright Two-Row radial engines.

BRISTOL BEAUFORT Britain's best torpedo bomber, this plane is based on land fields, but used against shipping. It carries two heavy navy torpedoes at 300 miles an hour. Engines are 14 cylinder, 1,000 H.P.

HANDLEY-PAGE HALIFAX This plane is similar to the Stirling, but is slightly slower. With Rolls-Royce Merlin XX motors, it flies at 275 miles an hour. For long range it can carry 11,000 pounds of bombs. Its span is 99 feet; length 70 feet.



AVRO LANCASTER Newest and fastest of Britain's heavy bombers are these planes, with a gross weight of 31 tons each. They fly at more than 300 miles an hour at 15,000 feet, with Rolls-Royce Merlin XX engines which deliver 1,400 H.P. at takeoff. Span 96 feet; length 69 feet.
